Dewey Assails New Deal Defeatism

LAYS ECONOMIC WOE AT DOOR OF ADMINISTRATION

Calls on Republicans for Action.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 6.—Thomas E. Dewey declared here tonight in the first speech of his campaign for the Republican nomination for President that the New Deal philosophy is one of defeatism and despair. This, he contended, is the cause of a breakdown of America's economic machine, with resultant unemployment and stagnation. What is needed is faith in America, he asserted.

The racket busting New York prosecutor's speech was a curtain raiser in a series of 10 he is to make thruout the country. He came to Minnesota, scene of a Republican landslide a year ago, to deliver it in what he termed a "barometer" state.

No panaceas were offered by Dewey. He told his audience he would not on this occasion attempt to state solutions of specific problems in agriculture, labor, business, finance, and unemployment.

Analyzes State of Mind.

Instead, he took as theme the state of mind of the Roosevelt administration and resultant state of mind of the nation. His analysis was that the New Deal fancies the industrial machine has reached its limits of expansion, and "apostles of despair" are now echoing what was said in the same strain 50 years ago.

Defeatism, Dewey argued, is responsible for the drying up of employment. The first step in recovery, he said, is to release the pressures that have bogged down America's economic machine.

"Our greatest national enemy is defeatism," he declared. "It is true that we have a crisis in America. But ours is a crisis of faith, faith in ourselves, in our system, and in our traditions.

"I am not ashamed to confess the abiding faith that our party, our country, and the world will win thru."

Capacity Audience Present.

The entry of Dewey, one of the leading contenders for the Republican presidential nomination, into Minneapolis had the flavor and aspect of a post convention campaign. From all parts of Minnesota and from both the Dakotas, Republicans came to the Minneapolis auditorium to hear him speak.

The auditorium was packed to its capacity of 12,000, and the crowd overflowed into the streets outside. Political observers said it was one of the largest political meetings here in years, larger than the one for Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas in his 1936 campaign as Republican presidential nominee. Mayor George E. Leach of Minneapolis called the Dewey rally the largest preconvention meeting in the state's history.

Stassen Introduces Dewey.

Gov. Harold E. Stassen, 32 year old chief executive, who was elected a year ago in the sweep that brushed out the Farmer-Laborite ticket, and whose group says he is not yet committed to any individual candidate, introduced Dewey.

The governor spoke of the racket busting prosecutor as a "most distinguished public servant who has successfully stormed the deepest entrenchments of greed and corruption, whose spectacular demonstrations of courage, integrity, and ability have brought his name to the lips of the people as one of the greatest leaders of the Republican party and the entire citizenry."

Tomorrow Dewey is to meet groups of business men, farmers, and politicians, leaving in midafternoon for Washington by way of Chicago.

TEXT OF DEWEY SPEECH

Following is the text of Dewey's speech:

"I have a special reason for being glad to be in Minnesota. Yours is a barometer state—a good indicator of advanced political weather. Settled by hardy people, your state has been agitated by many violent political

Votes Rung Up for Kenna but Ballots Vanish

Ald. Kenna Ill

Ald. Michael Kenna, veteran of First ward politics, is seriously ill in his room at the Auditorium hotel, it was learned last night. Great secrecy was cast about his illness by his followers, who refused to allow any outsiders to go near the room. Ald. Kenna is 81 years old.

Ald. Michael Kenna was officially credited with having received 252 votes in the 15th precinct of the 1st ward at last February's aldermanic election.

Yesterday the precinct ballot box was opened in County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki's courtroom. Not one aldermanic ballot was found therein. A recount of the mayoralty ballots revealed slight discrepancies in the totals previously registered for Mayor Kelly and State's Attorney Courtney. But as far as the aldermanic election was concerned, it was as if none had been held that day.

700 Ballots Sent Out.

Precinct books showed that 252 applications for aldermanic ballots had been made. Under ordinary procedure this would have meant that 252 ballots had been issued, marked by the voters, and deposited in the box.

Records also showed that 700 aldermanic ballots had been sent to the precinct by the election commissioners. Returned, unmarked, were 468 ballots. Thus, there were 232 missing. They were not in the box, yet Kenna's recorded vote was 252.

Earlier in the day, the Democratic captain of the precinct, Deputy Coroner Lawrence Rasmussen, surrendered to Judge Jarecki on a warrant, issued last week, charging him with conspiracy to violate the election laws.

Two Others Being Sought.

Rasmussen and John Franklin, 2945 South Michigan avenue, a Democratic precinct watcher, both waived examination, pleaded not guilty, and were held to the grand jury. Bond of $5,000 real estate or $2,500 cash was set.

Neither was questioned during the brief courtroom appearance, although it was believed they could have shed some light on the contempt case now being heard against the precinct officials.

"I would have had to inform them of their constitutional rights," Judge Jarecki explained, "and that they would not have to testify against themselves, after which they would have shut up like clams."

Two other 15th precinct watchers—Emmett Carey, Democrat, and William Plummer, Republican—are being sought. Investigators said they had no address for either.

TALK IS NOT SO CHEAP, INDIANA COUNTY FINDS, SO IT CUTS SOME OFF

John Krause, president of the commissioners of Lake county, Indiana, discovered recently that a $17,000 appropriation for telephone calls was at least $2,000 shy of covering the 1939 bills.

"We investigated," he said. "One business man, I was told, slipped into the Crown Point courthouse and called New York at our expense to order a bill of goods. A politician's wife made a practice of calling him from Indianapolis—reversing the charges so the county could pay.

"We instructed telephone operators to refuse toll calls unless they were sure each was a proper call by a county official.

"Our telephone bill has shrunk 15 per cent. I believe a further cut is possible."

The county will appropriate only $12,000 for telephone service in 1940, he said.

Zoo Gets a Multiplication Problem; Wants to Divide

Toledo, O., Dec. 6 (AP).—Jerry Ahrenz, Toledo zoo keeper, doesn't know the name of the express agent in Ellis Parker Butler's story "Pigs Is Pigs," but he has developed a world of sympathy for him. Joseph Each gave the zoo "400" guinea pigs yesterday. But when they were counted, including litters born on the truck taking them to the zoo, 753 guinea pigs squealed "present." All thru the night and today more pigs arrived. The Toledo Zoological society today sent appeals to animal dealers, hospitals, and laboratories to wire their pig requirements pronto.

Lindell to Ask Council Probe of Milk Supply

An aldermanic investigation of the Chicago milk situation will be demanded at the next meeting of the city council on Dec. 21, Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] said at a city council finance committee meeting yesterday. Lindell's statement was made as the committee was discussing the city board of health appropriation for 1940.

"Each year we appropriate large sums for the health board to supervise the milk industry here and the aldermen know nothing about how the supervision is carried out," Lindell told the committee. "It is time we learn for ourselves."

Lists Four Questions.

He listed four questions pertaining to the milk industry which he believes such an investigation should answer. They are:

1. Are all dairies which ask for inspection by the board of health being inspected? Has a partial monopoly of the Chicago milk supply been created by the board's refusal to inspect any dairies?

2. Is there enough milk produced on Illinois farms, in the Chicago area, to supply the city and remove any necessity for obtaining milk from Wisconsin or other states?

3. Do monopoly groups, including either dairy owners or organized labor organizations, peg milk prices?

4. Why has the investigation of the desirability of paper milk containers been delayed in Chicago when such containers are permitted in the suburbs? Has a monopoly been created favoring the use of glass only?

Wants Full Publicity.

"I propose to have the question of milk and its distribution thrown wide open," Lindell said last night.

"There is no commodity more vital than milk. It is the duty of the council to be certain no agency can control price or distribution."

A suit against the city is pending in federal court, in which a dairy claims the right to use paper containers. The city has spent thousands of dollars defending the stand against paper containers taken for several years by the health board.

GERMANS SCORE ON ENGLISH IN DUEL FOR TRADE

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 6.—The British-German feud for supremacy in the Balkans reached a new pitch of violence today. The British lost a round when Rumania refused to reduce the export of vital supplies to Germany by selling more to Britain.

The fifth in a series of mysterious fires at oil refineries today added to the difficulties in keeping up oil shipments to Germany, but in the diplomatic field the Germans held their own.

The fires have reduced the oil supply. Rumania, however, mindful of the Russian invasion of Finland, does not have the slightest intention of doing anything to annoy either Germany or Russia.

Ambassador Gets Answer.

The British ambassador, Sir Reginald Hoare, was told it was impossible for Rumania to evade its obligations under the German trade treaty signed last spring.

[Under the March, 1939, trade treaty it was reported that Rumania had assigned 40 per cent of her oil exports to Germany and had promised to double her exports to the reich in exchange for armaments, highway and railroad materials, and German assistance in developing her national resources.]

Finland's troubles have aroused new fears of an invasion either by Germany while the Russians are busy in the north or by the Russians when they get around to it. New evidence of Russian pressure against Rumania was seen today in the publication in Moscow of a suggestion that it would be to Rumania's advantage to enter into a nonaggression pact with the soviet government.

Models for Such a Pact.

The admonition appeared in the Communist International, organ of the international communist organization. Such a nonaggression pact with Rumania, it was assumed, would be modeled after those under which Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania granted military and naval concessions to the communists.

Foreign diplomatic circles have talked of reports that Russia even now is assembling troops on the Bessarabian border. They say, however, that such reports are propaganda designed to scare Rumania into accepting protection. The Rumanians find the possibility too grim to dismiss so lightly.

Agents of the British ministry for economic warfare have been trying to get a guarantee of 60 per cent of all Rumania's exports in return for cash. The Rumanians are hard up for sound foreign money and find that sterling is much more attractive than German merchandise, but still they do not think the British pound is so valuable that they can afford to arouse German wrath by failing to meet the provisions of the trade treaty.

Transportation Difficulties.

Whatever the arguments, it is likely that Germany will get less than she needs from Rumania.

There still are great transportation difficulties. Even the trade agreement, under which trains started on Dec. 1 to roll over the frontier at Cernauti, will not overcome the shortage.

The agreement guarantees that five trains of 60 freight cars each daily shall pass Cernauti. Each train takes five days to reach Cracow, where it is unloaded. The additional time required for loading makes each round trip a two weeks' undertaking. Thus 4,200 cars are necessary to keep up the quota.

Demand German Cars.

The Rumanians will not allow their cars to leave the country in such troublous times and the Germans must provide their own. Since Jugo-Slavia made the same sort of ruling and Russia probably will not be much more accommodating, the Germans

Finns Cheerful at Reception for Diplomats

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 6.—The Finnish government yesterday forwarded to New York the $234,693 needed for the payment due on Dec. 15 on Finland's debt to the United States, Premier Risto Ryti disclosed to this correspondent today.

"Finland is determined to fight to the last and pay her debts to the last," he said.

I talked with Ryti privately after he had received the members of the Helsingfors diplomatic corps in the Hotel Kemp. Referring to the soviet invasion of Finland, Ryti said he still viewed the situation optimistically.

Ryti, Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner, and other members of the government and President Kyosti Kallio received the congratulations of foreign diplomats on the occasion of Finland's 22d anniversary of her independence.

Told to Trust Army.

President Kallio in an independence day statement told the Finns that they could "absolutely trust" their army to fulfill its "heroic duty." He said:

"Let's ring forth on this independence day, thruout the land, stronger than ever before, the 400 year old hymn of Luther so familiar to all our people: 'A Mighty Fortress Is Our God.'"

"Our greatest satisfaction recently," he said, "has been a growing feeling of national unity.

"All classes of the Finnish population understand what is at stake and undoubtedly outside the boundaries of our land it is understood that while the Finnish nation defends its homes and liberty, it at the same time defends western civilization, whose defense wall it has always been in the north.

"The Finnish people await expectantly to see whether other nations will tolerate the destruction aimed against us."

Have Reserved Bearing.

Not one of the Finns at the reception revealed the slightest nervousness, and, by their bearing, conversation, and actions concealed their emotion. The radio broadcasts, too, were reserved in contrast with the Leningrad and Moscow stations which proclaim the soviet's intention to destroy Finland's army and introduce bolshevism with its class warfare and the resultant extermination of property owning classes and the nationalization of banks, industries, and resources.

At the reception the Finns smilingly welcomed their guests, receiving their congratulations upon the repeated victories of the Finnish defense forces over the Russians with the same matter of fact bearing that their athletes display when they have made a world record.

Because of the holiday only a few Helsingfors stores were open today and these were open on the order of the government, which is giving every possible aid to the 50,000 residents remaining in Helsingfors.

Crowd to "Hannes" Store.

I watched a crowd in the store of Hannes Kolehmainen, Finland's first great marathon runner who won the Antwerp Olympic marathon and many races in the United States. He is known thruout Finland as "Hannes," and is more famous here than Paavo Nurmi.

Hannes is now a dealer in sporting goods. The customers were chiefly buying rucksacks and warm clothing for outdoor life in the subzero weather. He regretted that he had not stocked a larger store of flashlights and other now unobtainable articles.

Hannes declared he had not taken advantage of the shortage of certain articles to increase their prices, and asserted that not a single Finnish merchant had increased his prices since the war began. On investigation I could not find a single case of profiteering, revealing that the Finns have a commercial honor that is just as right as their national honor.

Pressure on Baltic States.

This correspondent was informed tonight that the three military chiefs of the Baltic states, Gen. Johan Laidoner of Estonia, Gen. Jadis Balodis of Latvia, and Gen. Stasys Rastikis of Lithuania had been summoned to Moscow by the soviet government.

This move, coming after the soviet government's suggestion that Estonia disband her home guard organization, developed fears that Moscow wishes to force the Baltic states to recognize the puppet Finnish-Bolshevik government alleged to have been established in Terijoki, Finland, and into becoming the soviet's allies in the war against Finland.

REDS MOVE 500 PLANES, 1,000 TANKS ON FRONT

Ready for Drive on Whole Border.

BY MARTIN MARTELIUS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAPARANDA, Sweden, near the Finnish frontier, Dec. 7, Thursday.—Russian forces pressing the offensive against the Finns total approximately 500,000 soldiers, with 1,000 tanks and armored motor cars and 500 airplanes, according to information received here.

The soviet army, in seven different groups, is attacking virtually the whole eastern front of Finland.

Move on Mannerheim Line.

One of these forces, moving from the Leningrad district, is headed for a direct attack against the Mannerheim line, the powerful system of fortifications in eastern Finland, east of Viipuri [Viborg].

Foresee Steamroller Drive.

While it is conceded that heavy snowfall has slackened activity for several days, military observers here believe it a lull before a storm.

They consider that the manner in which the soviet army is massing along the entire frontier is an indication that the classical steamroller strategy of the Russians will be developed in the immediate future.

FINNS CLAIM VICTORIES

Conflicting versions of the Russian-Finnish war were received last night. Finland claimed 200,000 soviet soldiers had been repulsed on three fronts—south, center, and north. Moscow claimed that Russian troops had broken thru the Finnish defense line on the southern front and had made advances on the central and northern fronts. Both versions follow:

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 6 (AP).—Finland celebrated the 22d anniversary of her independence today by fighting Russian invaders in the snows of her eastern frontiers.

At the end of the day a general staff communique announced that assaults of an estimated 200,000 soldiers of the Red army had been repulsed on three fronts.

Eighty Russian tanks had been wrecked since the war started last Thursday morning, the staff announcement said, and 36 Red air corps planes brought down.

In today's battles on the southern front, it was announced eight enemy tanks were destroyed near Valkjaervi, near the center of the Karelian isthmus. Valkjaervi is about nine miles from the Russian border.

Arctic Port Bombed.

On the northern front, where the Finns were fighting with machine guns and automatic rifles in snowdrifts six feet deep, the Finns announced the Russians had bombed Petsamo, Arctic port, and Pitkaranta "without success." The Finns said they brought down two of the planes.

In central Finland, a government spokesman announced, Russian scouting planes machine gunned civilians, killing one and wounding six.

But Helsingfors, the capital, was spared on the day of national independence from the attacks by land, sea, and air.

The Finnish air force limited itself to scouting flights, similar to those yesterday in which Russian troop concentrations were reported attacked.

Leningrad Not Raided.

The Finns denied reports that their aviation had raided Baltiski, Estonian port across the Gulf of Finland, which the Russians are reported to be using for their Finnish raids. They likewise denied any raid had been made on Leningrad, the big soviet city which is only a few miles southeast of the Karelian border.

The staff also denied the Finnish army had retaken Terijoki, the Finnish town inside the border where the Russians said a puppet Finnish government was proclaimed last Saturday.

Foreign military experts believed the 7th Russian army, commanded by Gen. Merskov and consisting of 11 infantry divisions and two tank divisions, was in action against the Finns.

Five divisions of infantry and one tank division were said to be concentrated for the attack on the Karelian isthmus, four infantry divisions and one tank division in the Suojaervi sector north of Lake Ladoga, and two divisions with light artillery in the arctic region north of Petsamo.

Altogether, observers said, there were about 200,000 Russians engaged in the campaign.

New snowfalls brought "white out" protection against air raiders and gave crack Finnish skiing units of machine gunners and riflemen an advantage.

Officials stated that Russian planes had been sighted yesterday over Esbo, a few miles west of Helsingfors, and they speculated that the Russians may be seeking a place near the capital for landing infantry troops by parachute from planes.

Ordinary attack would be difficult. The Gulf of Finland outside Helsingfors is thickly mined and the approaches are well fortified, making it dangerous for the Red fleet to attempt to land troops in the vicinity.

Bogged Down in Snow.

KIRKENES, Far Northern Norway [at the Finnish Frontier], Dec. 6 (AP).—Heavily clouded skies during the short arctic day hampered soviet Russian flyers and deeper snow bogged down the movements of Red army infantry operating today in the northern sector of Finland.

Finnish military authorities said they had the Russians stopped, but that they expected them to resume later the landing of troops on the shores of Petsamo fjord for an attack in force on Petsamo.

[In London George Gripenberg, Finnish minister to Great Britain, said the rich nickel mines at Salmijaervi still were intact. But he said the Finnish army had made preparations to destroy the mines by dynamite if the Russians advanced.]

May Try to Split Finland.

It appeared likely that the strategy of the Russian command is to cut Finland in two with the Red army that was reported to have advanced 35 miles from the frontier to Kuolajaervi, a fifth of the distance across the country.

It was reported that all aboard were lost when Russian warships sank two Finnish fishing boats loaded with refugees trying to reach Varangerfjord from districts west of Petsamo.

THE SOVIET VERSION

MOSCOW, Dec. 7, Thursday (AP).—Russian military commanders declared today they had rolled back the Finns in a mighty thrust which pierced the Finnish main defense line on the Karelian isthmus, northwest of Leningrad.

"Soviet troops, after artillery preparation, broke thru the main defense line of the Finns along the Vuoksi water system, known among Finnish white guards as the 'Maginot-Kirke line," a communique from Leningrad military headquarters said.

The troops crossed the River of Taipaleenioki on the eastern side of the isthmus and were advancing northward, the communique said.

Defense a Chain of Lakes.

Other advances all along the line on the isthmus were reported, while in central Finland the Russians marched thru snowy forests and cut the railway line reaching from Lake Ladoga to Sweden. In the arctic, the Russians declared, they had advanced to a point 22 miles south of Petsamo.

The Vuoksi water system is a chain of lakes and water courses running in a very irregular line almost across the 65 mile wide isthmus.

[The Reds made their advances at tremendous costs, the correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper, Dagens Nyheter, reported from the Finnish front. The writer said whole companies of the Red army were mowed down by Finnish artillery and machine guns as they advanced in line with artillery and tanks.]

Claim 25 Mile Advance.

In the isthmus section, the Russians said, they occupied Kiyiniemi [Kiviniemi] on the Kexholm [Kakisalmi] railway. Kiyiniemi is on the north side of Lake Vuoksi and is about 25 miles from the border.

In the center of the isthmus the Russians said their forces occupied Korpioja on the branch line which runs from Viipuri [Viborg] to Valkjaervi.

On the western side of the isthmus the Russians reported capture of Perkjaervi, 22 miles from the border of the main Leningrad-Viipuri railway.

On the Gulf of Finland coast they said they had captured Ino and Mesterjaervi in the Fort Ino area, 12 and 18 miles, respectively, from the Russian border.

In central Finland, they declared, they had cut the main railway line which reaches from Lake Ladoga to Sweden. The Russians said their forces had crossed the railway between Nurmes, 140 miles north of Lake Ladoga, and Joensuu, 80 miles north of the lake.

Hear Guns Near Helsingfors.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 6 (AP).—Cannonading was reported in the waters off Helsingfors today, but observers could not ascertain whether the Russian fleet was starting a bombardment of the Finnish capital or had engaged some Finnish ships.

Russian losses of between 10,000 and 20,000 men killed, wounded, or captured in the Finnish campaign to date were estimated by the Helsingfors correspondent of the Copenhagen newspaper, National Tidendes.

The river traffic situation may cause the Germans further difficulty. Besides the imminent danger that the Danube may freeze and traffic cease, the Germans must again compete against British cash. Britain bought at least 10 per cent of the Danube river tonnage. The Jugo-Slavians and Hungarians use much more than 10 per cent of their tonnage. So far the British are doing nothing with the tonnage they own—but Germany cannot charter it.

Russians Urge Pact.

MOSCOW, Dec. 6 (AP).—The Balkans, particularly Rumania, and the near east appeared to be the next goals of expanding Russian ambitions tonight.

An article in Communist International, organ of the international communist organization, urged Rumania to sign a mutual assistance pact.

Communist International also carried articles denouncing Turkey and what it called imperialistic British and French rule in India and Syria.

"The political and economic situation in Rumania," the communist organ asserted, "makes it vitally necessary for the peoples inhabiting Rumania to establish most friendly relations with the soviet union.

"The Rumanian workers have struggled and will continue to struggle against the exploitation and oppression of the peoples of the minorities in Rumania and for their right to self-determination, including the right of separation from Rumania."

Accuses British and French.

In urging the Rumanian communist party to intensify its efforts, it said only a mutual assistance pact with Russia can prevent Rumania from becoming involved in a so-called second imperialist war [world war].

Another article accused Britain and France of trying "to widen the death dealing radius of war on the Balkan peninsula to create there a military front against Germany."

"They desire to convert Turkey into a strategic base in order to realize this plan," it added. "The position which the Turkish government is now taking presents a colossal danger for Turkey."

How Germany Obtains Imports

The broken line indicates route of exports from Rumania to Germany before the sea blockade of Germany by the empires. Arrows on Danube indicate manner in which Germany obtains products from Rumania and Jugo-Slavia over water and rail courses. Other imports enter Germany over railroad from Cernauti to Cracow.

BRITISH GRUMBLE AS WAR AT SEA CUTS INTO TRADE

Find Exports Reduced in Economic Fight.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The export war between Great Britain and Germany, launched 48 hours ago, raged in the North Atlantic and the Mediterranean today. There were no indications as to what the eventual effects would be of the decision of England and France to stop all ships carrying goods of German ownership or origin.

The British claimed they would reduce German foreign trade, which in normal times is worth about $4,500,000,000 annually, to $650,000,000, or a little over one-tenth.

Spot Mine Laying Planes.

Reports indicated the Germans had intensified the magnetic mine war against Britain aimed at preventing exports from leaving British shores or the arrival of imports.

Two big mine laying airplanes were spotted at the mouth of the Thames river early this morning. They presumably were replying to British and French warships in the Mediterranean and Atlantic which are stopping ships outward bound from Europe to see that they carry no German cargoes.

No details were available, but it is known that a dozen ships were taken to Malta and Gibraltar in the Mediterranean, while in the Atlantic naval officers sent all suspicious cargoes to Kirkwall, Weymouth, and North Foreland, British contraband control centers.

The enemy exports committee, a special body set up by the ministry of economic warfare to give legal enforcement to the naval seizures, began business today. Lord Justice Sir Herbert du Parcq is chairman of the committee which receives reports from the control stations by teleticker machines.

Foes Start About Even.

Available figures showed that Germany and Britain are starting about even in the effort to extinguish each other's export trade. British export figures for October were down 42 per cent as compared with October, 1938. At the same time Germany's trade is down 46 per cent, compared with prewar figures. This is due to the fact that 23 per cent of Germany's trade was with her present enemies and the other 23 per cent with countries from which she now is cut off.

Both countries a few months ago maintained that they must increase their exports or go to the wall. Both are now pursuing under war conditions the same drives for export markets that they did in peace time.

Some British financial circles said this is an opportune time for Britain to recapture the South American markets and especially to regain a foothold in Argentina since the United States of America does not have an economy that is complementary to the South American economy.

The British objective also is to undersell and outbid Germany in all those other countries where the British naval forces cannot seize German goods. Wherever necessary the British will subsidize exports. They also will purchase the exports of the leading neutrals accessible to Germany to keep such supplies out of German hands.

Paradoxically Britain also will trade with some countries on the barter principle—the device with which the Germans wrought much damage to British financial interests.

Unless the British can export more abundantly they cannot pay for the war, according to war budget discussions in London.

Discontent Rises.

Heated debate in parliament today showed rising discontent over the way the government has been handling the promotion of export trade since the war began. Some members of parliament even went so far as to declare that the economic warfare so far has been a failure. Charges brought in the house of commons and elsewhere were that the contraband control offices have helped to spoil export trade.

All this, government critics averred, demands swift action unless the country wants to face something like the shell scandal of the world war. That scandal was caused by a shortage of shells.

SWEDISH KING SENDS NOTE OF SYMPATHY TO PEOPLE OF FINLAND

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 6 (AP).—King Gustav V. of Sweden sent Sweden's "sympathy to Finland's sorely afflicted people" today on the occasion of Finnish independence day as Swedes in Stockholm staged demonstrations for their neighbor.

Educators and military spokesmen spoke of the need for help to Finland in a meeting attended by 6,000 persons. Several hundred cheered and sang in front of the Finnish legation.

A third crowd gathered in front of the railway station cheering Finland and Sweden as Richard Sandler, Swedish foreign minister, departed for Oslo to consider the Russian-Finnish conflict and its problems with the foreign ministers of Norway and Denmark.

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 6 [Special.]—One bath a week for citizens of Jersey City, instead of the daily tub or shower, was urged today by Commissioner Michael I. Fagen as a temporary measure to conserve the dwindling water supply resulting from the abnormally dry season.

Stera-Kleen Prevents False Teeth Odor—Cleans Without Brushing

"False teeth odor" is the curse of denture wearers. Ordinary brushing or antiseptics often will not remove scum and food particles that collect on your plate or bridge. This uncleanliness gives off the most offensive of breath odors—you do not know if you have it—but others do.

Prevent this odor by using STERA-KLEEN and make sure of absolute cleanliness. STERA-KLEEN dissolves scum and food particles from the tiny crevices of your plate that brushing does not reach. It is safe—economical—easy to use.

Stir a little STERA-KLEEN in water, put in your plate or bridge for a few minutes. Rinse, and it is ready for use without brushing. Daily use prevents "false teeth odor." Get STERA-KLEEN today. Only [illegible] a package at any drug store.

ENGLAND BOASTS IT SINKS 2 TO 4 U-BOATS A WEEK

Submarine Hunting Fleet Tripled, Churchill Says.

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP).—Destruction of German submarines at a rate faster than Germany can replace them was reported today by Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty. He said five enemy U-boats were believed to have been sunk by the British navy in the last week.

Declaring an average of two to four German undersea craft were being sunk each week, Churchill announced that Britain had tripled her submarine hunting fleet since the war started. He asserted that nearly 1,000,000 tons of new warships of all classes were being rushed to completion to augment British efforts.

Five New Developments.

Churchill's report to the house of commons, in which he said also that counter measures against German magnetic mines were in an advanced stage even before the first ones were sown in British waters, came during a day which saw these developments:

1. The house of commons voted approval of the government's conduct of the war, 303 to 125. The vote was on Labor criticism of the government's organization of the nation's manpower and resources.

2. The 3,934 ton Greek steamer Paralos, with a cargo of German coal, was sunk in the Thames estuary either by a mine or a torpedo with a loss of three lives and the rescue of 22 of the crew by a British steamer; the 7,834 ton German liner Ussukuma was reported captured by British warships in the South Atlantic; the 8,196 ton British steamer Huntsman, long overdue, was given up for lost; the 2,135 ton Danish steamer Ove Toft sank after hitting a mine in the North sea with six of her crew of 21 missing, and the 542 ton Lithuanian freighter Kretinga was reported seized by a German warship in the Baltic.

3. A German warplane was detected over the Orkneys, north of Scotland, and other enemy planes were reported over northern Scotland, but no bombs were dropped and all clear signals were sounded soon after.

4. The ministry of economic warfare announced the cargoes of 110 neutral ships, including six American, had been considered by the British contraband control board during the week ending Dec. 2. A total of 735,000 tons of contraband intended for Germany has been detained by England and France since the beginning of the war, it was announced.

5. Authoritative sources disclosed that British firms had arranged to supply 30 fighting planes and "a considerable quantity" of other war materials to Finland, for whom the British government has expressed sympathy. The invasion by Russia was condemned yesterday by Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax as "an inexcusable act of aggression."

A Reuters [British news agency] report also said that 50 Italian planes had been delivered to Finland by air.

Churchill told the commons that the five German submarines believed sunk were the object of attacks "either from our flotillas or from the royal air force and particularly the coastal commands." He added the results "are independent of any achieved by the French navy."

Visions Greater Destruction.

If Germany is able to turn out 400 submarines next year—as Germans have said she could—and also produces captains and crews by the chain belt system, the admiralty head declared "it seems likely that our rate of destruction might undergo similar expansion."

German submarine warfare, he admitted, was characterized by enterprise and daring. He said the "graves" of several U-boats are in the approaches to British harbors as a result of the efforts of the German commanders who penetrated the defenses of Scapa Flow and sank the battleship Royal Oak.

More than 1,000 British merchant ships have been marked for defense, Churchill said, and added that there would be 2,000 soon.

Blames Magnetic Mines.

German magnetic mines accounted for more than half of Britain's sea losses within the last month, he told the house, but he observed that the mines were neither new nor mysterious.

The magnetic mine, he said, may be "Hitler's much-vaunted secret weapon. It is certainly a characteristic weapon and one that no doubt will ever be associated with his name."

He placed the British navy's losses during the first three months of the war at 50,000 tons. He declared that the Deutschland and the Admiral Scheer, German pocket battleships, and "certainly one other cruiser have been loose for many weeks past in the North and South Atlantic or near Madagascar in the Indian ocean."

Neutrals can avoid difficulties under Britain's new total blockade against Germany, Churchill asserted, if they "avoid carrying tainted goods [contraband] in their ships."

Charter Neutral Ships.

German attacks on neutral shipping, he continued, "should encourage neutrals to charter their ships to Britain for the duration of the war." He announced several million tons of neutral ships already had been chartered.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain described as premature the question of making permanent the association of Britain and France as a basis of an international postwar structure open to other nations. His statement was in answer to a question by Geoffrey Mander, Laborite.

The Ussukuma was the third German ship reported lost in the South Atlantic in two weeks. The crews of the 9,521 ton liner Watussi and the 8,577 ton Adolph Woermann scuttled their craft to avoid capture. A similar attempt by the Ussukuma's crew was said to have failed.

Crew Put on British Ship.

The officers and crew of the captured liner were put aboard a British ship which was expected to bring her to port as a war prize.

German Raiders at Sea

Following is the list of victims: Sept. 30, Clement (British), sunk; Oct. 5, Stonegate (British), sunk; Oct. 9, City of Flint (U. S.), captured; Oct. 12, Norwegian ship stopped; Oct. 14, Hanson (Norwegian), sunk; Nov. 16, African Shell (British), sunk; Rawalpindi (British), sunk; Dec. 4, Doric Star (British), sunk.

HUGENBERG SAYS REPORT HE FLED NAZIISM IS FALSE

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—The report that Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, head of the Scherl Publishing company and member of the reichstag, had "gone into exile abroad to escape Naziism" was denied by him today in a personal statement to the newspaper Lokalanzeiger.

[A report from Paris Tuesday said that Hugenberg had crossed the frontier, emulating Fritz Thyssen, one of Germany's leading industrialists, who quit Germany because of differences with Nazi policies.]

Hugenberg branded the report as "wholly baseless." He said he has no thought of "quitting my fatherland at the very moment it is engaged in a battle for its existence and the future rights of its children."

New York, Dec. 6 [Special].—Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to the Court of St. James's, arrived here on the Dixie Clipper today, on his way to Washington for consultation with the department of state.

The ambassador came home, he said, because the subject of his forthcoming consultation was too important to send by cable, but he will return to London to resume his duties after the holidays. Kennedy declined to discuss matters of government policy, but talked freely about everything else.

"The British government," he said, "does not have the slightest belief that the United States will get into this war. They understand our position perfectly."

The English people, however, he said, are finding it difficult to understand what Americans mean when they express sympathy for the allied cause, but insist on remaining neutral.

Bar Coded Cablegrams Either to or from Sweden

New York, Dec. 6 [Special].—The use of code or cipher in cablegrams to or from Sweden will be prohibited, beginning tomorrow, according to an announcement by the International Telegram office in Berne, Switzerland. Each telegram must be plainly intelligible at the telegraph desk whence it is sent, and must be written in German, English, Danish, Spanish, French, Italian, Norwegian, or Swedish.

SWISS SOLDIERS RIDE DONKEYS TO PLAY SANTA

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 6.—Hundreds of Swiss soldiers laid aside their uniforms and rifles tonight to don brown robes and the long white beards of Santa Claus. Given a few hours' leave, they appeared at dusk in the streets of Basel astride horses and donkeys en route to homes where children waited in eager anticipation.

The Swiss children are visited by Santa on Dec. 6, the anniversary of the death of St. Nicholas in the fourth century. He is the patron saint of most of the Swiss towns and trades and appears today instead of on Dec. 25.

Rings a Bell on Arrival.

He announces his arrival by ringing a bell, but in the other hand carries a bundle of birch rods tied with a pink ribbon. Usually Santa is a neighbor who knows the children and questions them about their conduct during the year.

If he is satisfied he empties his sack of nuts and dried fruit cakes and promises further gifts on Christmas day. These gifts are supposed to be delivered by Christ Kindli [the Christ child]. When he departs Santa leaves behind the bundle of switches to remind the children to be good.

War Is No Damper.

The war going on in France and Germany, both of which border this city, has not dampened the ardor of these medieval ceremonies. The soldiers in the barracks amused themselves with burlesques of the St. Nicholas celebration.

Londoners Buy Diamonds to Bury for War's Duration

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Many persons are reported to be buying diamonds and small metal containers in which to bury them in their lots or gardens. The gems cannot be destroyed by bombs and the owners will dig them up when the war is over.

BLOCKADE KILLS OVERSEAS TRADE, GERMAN ADMITS

Expert Demands Subsidy for Exporters.

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (AP).—An economics expert, writing in Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's periodical The Four Year Plan, admits the British blockade has strangled German overseas trade and brought serious problems to the reich.

Germany is attempting to solve these problems, officials explained, by developing southeastern Europe and the Scandinavian countries into supply houses for German needs and markets for German goods.

Emil Helferrich, one of Germany's foremost economists, writes:

"We must face the facts. They are the same as in 1914-1918. England's power has brought German overseas trade to a complete standstill.

"German ships are lying in more than 100 harbors over all the globe. Those goods and ships are blockaded by the British navy and part of them already have been confiscated."

Goods Pile Up at Ports.

An enormous quantity of goods ready for shipment and manufactured against orders received is piled in all the larger German ports, Helferrich said, thus blockading warehouses and transport possibilities.

"The Fuehrer [Adolf Hitler] himself said 'Germany must export or die'," he continued. "The whole import and export trade, particularly the exporters, made the greatest efforts to carry out the Fuehrer's wishes and the result is that Kiel, Luebeck, Bremen, and Hamburg [seaports] are all gradually heading toward ruin.

"None of the firms is able to build up any financial reserve owing to heavy taxation, and as they are compelled to meet their interest payments and all liabilities to cover their overheads, they are heavily involved."

State Subsidy Demanded.

Helferrich lists three important decisions that must be taken immediately:

"First, the German government must provide necessary capital to keep them [exporters and importers] afloat; second, facilities must be granted releasing them from the obligations of paying rent and allowing them to dismiss employés; third, authorities must provide them with some other kind of business."

[Observers in Switzerland said they believe the German censors permitted Helferrich's article to be published because there are differences of opinion between the Reichsbank and Goering, who favors subsidizing importers and exporters. The Reichsbank has refused to do this.]

Looks to Balkans for Food.

To combat the loss of oversea trade, Germany has designed a plan to grow in the Balkans what she needs. Southeastern Europe is looked to for agricultural products and some ores, altho Russia is expected to deliver the bulk of the ores. The German plan calls for increased production of the usual Balkan crops and for introduction of new crops with German assistance.

These new products include cotton, formerly obtained from the United States or parts of the British empire, oil seeds, and soy beans. Greece and Bulgaria are mentioned as suited for cotton raising.

Push Hog Raising in 4 Lands.

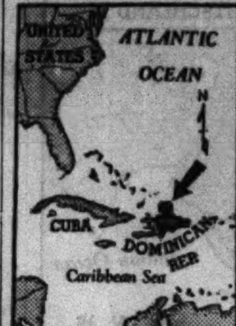
Authorities said the feeding of Germany despite the blockade is to be accomplished thru treaties with countries "whose interests run 100 per cent parallel with those of Germany."

Scandinavian countries also are counted on for supplies. Sweden is expected to exchange iron ore for German coal.

Germany has little gold and must pay these countries in trade. The Germans believe this is possible and quote Dr. Walter Funk, reich minister of economics, as saying Germany's export capacity still is 80 per cent of what it was in peace time.

STEAMER NEARS PORT AFTER HITTING ROCK AND TEARING HULL



Arrow shows where steamer hit rock.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP).—The Jugo-Slavian steamship Drava, her hull torn when she struck a rock and her forepeak and No. 1 hold badly flooded, was reported to have arrived tonight at a point eight miles off Cape Haitia, Haiti.

Tropical Radio said the Drava, after asking help early today and canceling the call, relayed another S O S thru the S. S. Flora. The radio station at Port au Prince, Haiti, later was heard to tell the steamship Gatun that the Drava, her bow awash, was making slow progress but proceeding under her own power.

The vessel hit the rock while off the north coast of the Dominican republic, about 40 miles from Puerto Plata.

The Drava, a 3,508 ton freighter formerly named the Essex Druid, left Norfolk, Va., on Oct. 20 for Peru and Ireland. She is 361 feet long and was built in Rotterdam in 1919.

GERMANS REPEL BRITISH AIR RAID NEAR KIEL CANAL

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (AP).—British planes were driven off by German anti-aircraft fire tonight when they flew over Schleswig-Holstein, in northern Germany, DNB, the official news agency, reported.

[Hamburg, Kiel, and important German naval establishments at Cuxhaven and Brunsbuettel, which is on the Kiel canal, are located in that district.]

DNB said the British planes, which dropped no bombs, flew over the Friesian Islands, north of the Netherlands, on their way to Schleswig-Holstein, and over Danish territory on their return flight.

There were "no special events" on the western front, the German high command reported.

[The French general staff communique last night said: "No event of importance to report. Activity of our patrols."]

British Deny Denmark Flight.

LONDON, Dec. 7, Thursday (AP).—British planes made a successful flight over north Germany last night, the air ministry announced today. It denied the British flew over Denmark.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 6.—Charles H. Millard, C. I. O. organizer and a leader in the strike at the General Motors plant at Oshawa, Ont., in 1937, was arrested here today on a charge of contravening defense of Canada regulations. The action is based on remarks said to have been made by Millard in a speech at Timmins last week. The maximum penalty for the alleged offense is a fine of $5,000 and a prison term of five years, or both.

GERMANY WARNS NEUTRALS: FIGHT TRADE BLOCKADE

Asserts Paper Protests Are Not Enough.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—Representatives of Germany and Russia are working overtime in the small countries of Europe which still cling to the hope of remaining neutral. Both governments have intimated to the neutrals that "it is difficult to understand their vacillating policy."

Simultaneously with a Russian suggestion that Rumania had better enter into a nonaggression pact with Moscow, Germans today warned that every neutral state is expected to do its duty. This duty, it was explained, is a "resort to self-help against the British violation of international law" which the Germans see in the British threat to confiscate German exports on neutral vessels.

Say Paper Protests Will Not Do.

Germans contend it is the duty of the neutrals to "no longer be satisfied with paper [diplomatic] protests against Britain's action." German officials say they cannot be satisfied with "neutrality which displays oversensitiveness on one side and tolerates gross violations of international rights on the other." They claim that the neutrals are too sensitive in situations which involve Germany and Russia.

Hungarian circles assert that the day is near when they once again will control Transylvania, which they claim from Rumania. The Hungarians believe Transylvania, lost in a world war settlement, will be theirs once the Rumanians are compelled to return Bessarabia to Russia. Bessarabia, like Transylvania, constituted portions of Rumania's prize for being on the winning side in the world war.

Say Plan Worked Out.

These same Hungarian circles claim that negotiations with Germany and Italy about the pacification of southeastern Europe have progressed quite satisfactorily. A plan has been worked out, they say, under which "those parts of the Hungarian population living in purely Rumanian territories are to be exchanged and resettled in a border province which Hungary will take and from where the Rumanian groups will be removed to near Bucharest."

CANADIANS TO STUDY WHILE THEY FIGHT FOE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 6.—Canada's soldiers are going to study while they wage war.

They will have opportunity to take courses in art, music, and literature under tutors at home and abroad, according to a plan announced today. The educational program is sponsored by the Canadian Legion and has the support of military authorities.

The soldiers also will receive vocational training to make up for the time spent in the war services and will hear a series of lectures on current events in Europe. The courses are available to the men of the land, sea, and air forces and are designed to help reduce the boredom of time spent behind the lines.

THREE ITALIAN ARMY BOMBERS CRASH; 13 FLYERS, 1 FARMER DIE

ROME, Dec. 6 (AP).—Thirteen army flyers and one farmer were reported killed this afternoon when three Italian bombers crashed while flying from Milan to Rome. The three planes fell together near the outskirts of Lucca, 160 miles north of Rome.

Five members of the crews, totaling 18 men, saved themselves with parachutes. The civilian victim was crushed beneath one of the falling machines. The cause of the disaster was not determined at once.

COL. J. B. JOHNSON HEADS STATE'S OFFICER RESERVE

Col. John B. Johnson, veteran army officer, was named yesterday to succeed Col. Morris M. Keck as head of the organized reserve officers of Illinois. Col. Keck retired last month. Col. Johnson, a grandson of James Curtiss, one of Chicago's mayors in the 1840s, enlisted in the army when he was 18 years old. During the world war he served with the 64th infantry brigade. He was cited by Gen. Pershing for exceptionally meritorious performance of duty and also has been awarded the Order of the Purple Heart and the French croix de guerre. Since 1936 he has been on duty with the organized reserves as chief of staff of the 86th division. His home is at 205 Edgecliff drive, Highland Park.

4 NATIONS DUN RUMANIA FOR POLISH PLANES

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 6.—Germany, Russia, England, and France are all claiming payment from the Rumanian government for some of the 40 airplanes and about 800 military trucks which the Polish refugee army brought with it in its flight from the German army and which were confiscated by Rumania. The Germans were the first to claim payment. They were followed by the Russians. Now, it is learned, Britain and France have entered the picture, saying that Poland owes them for raw materials supplied before the war.

Mexico Wants to Pay Dues to League of Nations in Oil

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 6 (AP).—Some league of nations dues may be paid in oil this year. Carl J. Hambro, Norwegian chairman of the budgetary committee, told delegates "one nation has offered to pay its 1939 dues in kind." That nation, officials said, was Mexico, which offered to settle its 1939 dues totaling $93,008 in oil.

PRESIDENT CONS METHODS TO AID INVADED FINLAND

Cables Hopes for Happier Days on Anniversary.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—President Roosevelt today cabled President Kyosti Kallio of Finland the hope "these tragic days may not be long in giving way to a happier era" on the 22d anniversary of Finland's independence.

The message was sent from the White House as the President studied the possibility of aiding the Finns thru extension of American credits and diversion of American surplus crops. These possibilities were surveyed with Jesse Jones, Federal Loan administrator, and Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross.

Considers Financial Help.

The conference with Jones and Davis was called after Mr. Roosevelt announced yesterday that he had instructed the treasury department to segregate Finland's semiannual debt payment of $234,693, which is due Dec. 15, in a special account, with a view toward seeking congressional approval of a suggestion to divert the sum to some service in behalf of the Finnish people.

After the conference Jones said the President has under study the possibility of extending some aid toward civilians in Finland thru the federal lending agencies. He said that private agencies are extending similar aid in Poland to victims of the Nazi invasion of that country.

The President has gone over every possibility of giving aid to Finland, Jones said, emphasizing that the relief was to be offered civilians and probably the wounded.

Russian Anniversary Ignored.

The message of felicitation to Finland was considered significant here, not only because it was warmer in tone than the traditional greetings exchanged between nations on similar occasions, but also because Mr. Roosevelt passed up Russia's 22d anniversary of the Red revolution last Nov. 7 without a word.

The snub to Russia was seen as indicating that soviet-American relations were becoming frigid. Mr. Roosevelt has assailed the Russian attack on Finland as wanton lawlessness, and has busied himself in offering every aid and encouragement to the Baltic republic.

All this has been interpreted here as foreshadowing an early break in diplomatic relations with the soviets, particularly since Mr. Roosevelt yesterday hinted at his press conference that such a step was imminent in declaring that, while there was no immediate news on the possibility of severance, he could not speak for the future.

HusbandPlacedUnderBond in Quarrel Over Marathon

Kankakee, Ill., Dec. 6 [Special].—Robert Jackson, 22 years old, of Kankakee, was placed under $500 peace bond today for threatening his wife, Velma, after she insisted on entering a marathon dance.

Tells of Fears

NORMA TALMADGE.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP).—George Jessel was placed under a $1,000 peace bond today by his former wife, Norma Talmadge, in the court of Justice of the Peace T. M. Rickards. Miss Talmadge said in a formal complaint she feared Jessel would do her bodily harm. Miss Talmadge, a former actress, came to West Palm Beach several days ago. Jessel arrived this morning in a private plane from New York. Miss Talmadge was granted a divorce from Jessel in the Juarez, Mexico, civil court last Aug. 11. Miss Talmadge charged incompatibility. No property settlement was involved.

WIFE TESTIFIES FOR PLAYBOY IN EMBEZZLE TRIAL

Raymond C. Hartman, former office manager in the Chicago plant of Lever Brothers, soap manufacturers, testified yesterday in his own defense before Judge William J. Lindsay and a Criminal court jury. Hartman is charged with embezzling nearly $14,000.

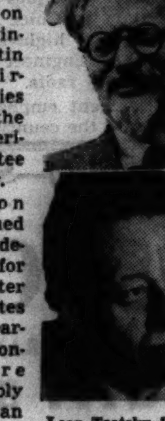
Hartman told how he shifted money from one account to another, confusing auditors. He said he often cashed office checks in night clubs after banking hours as a convenience to his colleagues.

Hartman's wife, Irene, a slender red haired woman, testified for the defense. She said she often spent the night in a loop hotel room her husband maintained when forced to remain late at work. She said he also bought her jewelry and flowers, altho he allowed her only $5 of his $40 weekly salary for expenses of their home at Crete, Will county, on Monday. Hartman's former secretary, Miss Elizabeth Detweiler, testified for the state, charging that he showered her with jewels, flowers, and gay times in night clubs.

EXPECT TROTSKY TO EXPOSE REDS' AIMS IN MEXICO

Dies Committee Seeks to Verify Documents.

Orange, Tex., Dec. 6 (AP).—Exiled Leon Trotsky and Diego Rivera, leftist Mexican mural painter, may come to Texas in a few days to testify on communist inroads in Latin America, Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] of the house un-Americanism committee disclosed today.



Leon Trotsky [top] and Diego Rivera.

If permission can be obtained from the state department for Trotsky to enter the United States a committee hearing will be conducted before Jan. 3, probably on the Mexican border.

Dies' secretary, Robert E. Stripling, said the hearing would be aimed at authenticating documents obtained by committee investigators. One document discloses soviet orders to agents in Mexico to arrange for all belligerent nations to have access to Mexico's oil supply.

Trotsky a Foe of Stalin.

The purpose of this policy, Stripling suggested, would be to attempt destruction of western nations thru warfare, after which the Stalin government could extend its power. Trotsky and Stalin have been bitter foes for years.

"We have come into possession of information strongly indicating evidence of soviet activity in Mexico and other Latin American countries," Stripling added.

"We know Trotsky has access to accurate information on the work of communists in Mexico and other countries, and the committee hopes to establish the authenticity of the document it has.

Threat to U. S. Security.

"The communists, our information indicates, are making a concerted effort in Mexico, and their plans to spread from there to other countries seem to constitute a threat to our peace and security."

Chairman Dies is under physicians' orders to rest for 30 days to recuperate from his strenuous work in recent months.

FRITZ KUHN PLACED IN ISOLATED PRISON WARD AS SAFEGUARD

New York, Dec. 6 [Special].—For his own welfare and the good of the institution, Fritz Kuhn, prisoner No. 97362, will spend a large part of the next five years in "squealers' paradise," the protective segregation ward at Sing Sing prison.

After a trip from Manhattan, the former German-American bund leader, who was convicted of grand larceny of bund funds and forgery, was placed today in the segregation building. There his liberties will be restricted, but his safety will be assured.

"This man engendered a lot of hatred and I'm taking no chances with what some of the other prisoners might do to him," Warden Lewis E. Lawes explained.

As a member of the little group of 18 closely guarded stool pigeons and other unpopular inmates, Kuhn will be unable to attend movies, to watch football or baseball games, or to visit the gymnasium, greenhouses, or bird houses. However, he will have a newer, more comfortable cell than the average and he will have no need to fear fellow prisoners.

KELLY TO BACK HORNER FOR 1940, ARVEY ASSERTS

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 6 (AP).—Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago "will stand militantly behind Gov. Horner in his campaign for reëlection," Ald. J. M. Arvey of Chicago told a meeting of Young Democrats tonight.

"We will not waste our ammunition or our energies next April," Arvey added, "because we will have to face an opposition crazed by defeat and encouraged by ineffectual endeavors."

More than 400 members of county units of the state Young People's Democratic clubs at the meeting were told of party accomplishments in the state and nation by William Smith, executive committeeman of Chicago.

Little Pals of Dray Horse Fete Him When He Retires

Newton, Mass., Dec. 6 [Special].—Those fancy race horses had nothing on Dray Horse Harry today. He had a farewell party in honor of his retirement to the animal rescue farm, and had a real race horse floral piece placed around his neck. Harry, an all-white animal, is 40 years old. He was a favorite of children for years as he pulled wagons about Newton, and they could not see him go away without appropriate honors.

SHERIFF SEIZES PUNCH BOARDS.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 6 [Special].—Punch boards and prizes in ten drug stores, taverns and grocery stores were seized today by Sheriff William C. Bell in the first of a series of raids designed to rid Winnebago county of gambling devices.

REDS CAN'T TAKE ROOT IN OUR SOIL, CAPPER ASSERTS

Senator Capper.

"I have seen communists and Nazis parading in the cities, particularly in New York," Senator Capper said. "But not on the farm. We may have communism in the cities, but it is far from getting a foothold in the farming districts.

"I have a bill pending which would give aliens a year in which to decide whether or not they want to become citizens. If they don't they ought to be put on a boat and sent back home."

Representative Marvin Jones [D., Tex.], chairman of the house agricultural committee, said the administration's farm program had been of great benefit.

INDORSE LYONS FOR GOVERNOR IN LAKE COUNTY

The Republican central committee of Lake county met in the Waukegan hotel at Waukegan last night and unanimously endorsed the candidacy of Richard J. Lyons for governor. About 150 attended the meeting. Lyons, a resident of Lake county, was referred to as a leader of high type, honest and conscientious, who always has the welfare of citizens in mind. He thanked the committee in a talk. He said that if elected he would remove loafers from the state pay roll and "end ballot box thievery in Chicago."

ARMY MUST FLY, SO GROUNDLINGS START TO SCHOOL

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

In three army air corps technical schools and seven civilian centers scattered from Los Angeles, Cal., to Boston, Mass., the army is beginning to train 25,000 new mechanics who must be ready in two years to maintain 5,500 new fighting planes ordered by the air corps. One of these schools is in Chicago—the Aeronautical university, at 1338 South Michigan avenue.

There 125 buck privates from air corps tactical units, some with less than three months' army experience and others with 9 to 12 years' service, are learning how to service hot little fighters or flying fortress bombers in the field. Most of them are buckaroos who don't relish foot drill but want to know all about high powered motors.

They're in the Army Now.

All of them, however, definitely are in the army. But it's a new kind of army—model 1939. For all the 125 live at the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 826 South Wabash avenue. After spending eight hours a day in school they are free to do as they wish. And most of the boys behave, because they know they are getting $1,200 worth of schooling while being paid for it.

Yesterday this writer spent the day in the school, attending classes, working over motors, studying the theory that these buck privates must know to qualify for one of the most coveted posts in the army—that of crew chief in the air corps. A crew chief holds the lives of his pilots in his hands each time they go aloft and it is one of the most responsible posts open to noncommissioned officers.

The men at the school are preferred material. All qualified by passing with high marks an intelligence quotient test at their home stations—these range from Selfridge Field, Mich., to March Field, Cal. Then each chose his particular course from a group including airplane mechanic, parachute rigger, aircraft radio mechanic, aircraft machinist, aircraft armorer, and aircraft photographer training.

Mechanics' Pay Largest.

All those here chose to become airplane mechanics—the longest and most difficult course and the most remunerative. From their pay as privates, $21 a month, they can jump to $72 a month as crew chiefs and ultimately to $150 a month as master sergeants. But the course will take six months of hard work—960 hours of lecture and shop assimilation.

The newest recruits have had 10 weeks of intensive training in military discipline, drill, pistol instruction, and have passed thru the army routine of inoculations and vaccinations. But this is the last they will see of what the civilian considers army life until they emerge from the school as apprentice mechanics.

After getting squared away in their quarters—most of them were flown to Chicago in army transports or bombers—the men began classes in what is called the basic course. This requires four weeks. In this period the men learn the tools they will handle, commence learning metal work and blue print reading.

They acquire a box of tools and the text books they will study. They are given coveralls for shop work, and they start to learn the air corps methods of maintenance. They get their first taste of the "technical orders" that cover every operation of maintaining or flying planes. They also study the forms they must fill out while servicing ships.

An Adjustment Period.

"This period," explained First Lieutenant L. O. Ryan, senior air corps supervisor at the school here, "is an adjustment period. The army begins at that time to indoctrinate the men with the need for thoroness and care and absolute reliability. Pressure upon these points never is relaxed."

Training Mechanics

Private Floyd Cunningham (left) and Private Donald Cunningham (right) with Alfred Scott, instructor in United States army air school for mechanics. The army is training 25,000 new mechanics.

The fifth week here the men—in classes of about 25 each—move on to the study of airplane engines. And for the next 80 hours of school the men work only upon engines.

Service in the field for the army consists chiefly of "trouble shooting"—i. e., determining the source of engine troubles. Only minor repairs such as replacing a carburetor, magnetos, spark plugs on an engine are required. If any major repairs are to be made the engine is shipped back to a special repair depot under the present air corps organization.

Consequently trouble shooting is emphasized. The men work on both liquid and air-cooled motors because the air corps—for the first time in 10 years—is buying both types for front line ships.

Next Comes Electrical System.

The seventh and eighth weeks are spent on aircraft electrical systems. The 9th and 10th on learning fuel, oil and induction systems—fundamentally carburation of engines—and superchargers. The 11th and 12th weeks are spent on propellers, fixed pitch, controllable and constant speed types.

The 13th and 14th weeks are spent learning aircraft structures and flaps, retractile mechanism for landing gears, oxygen equipment, etc., are studied the 15th and 16th weeks. The next four weeks are spent learning instruments, and trouble shooting on engines on test stands. Finally the students must make an actual engine and the subsequent thoro inspection required by the air corps as the climax of their course.

The six months end with a review and instruction in inspections. Each student is graded on work thruout. Personal aptitude, application, reliability, coöperation, practical shop work, and periodic examinations all count.

A Typical Student.

A typical student here is Lyle L. Youells, 36, of Lansing, Mich., one of the first men to begin the course here. He was slow getting started but his marks show he has become progressively better. Youells had eight years in the army before coming here. Another type is Floyd D. Cunningham, 21, of 1509 South 9th avenue, Maywood, who has been in the army three months.

Either of these men would be acceptable as airline mechanics when they finish their courses here. But both of them, like all the others entered, will have from two and a half to three years of an enlistment to serve. The army insists upon this because too many good mechanics have been lost to the commercial air transport companies in recent years.

All instructors in the school here are civilians under L. M. Churbuck, director of the university. And there are nearly 500 civilian students in the school, each one of whom is paying his own money to get the training given the air corps privates.

FORMER LEGION HEAD TO SPEAK.

Col. Hanford MacNider, former national commander of the American Legion, will address the Executives Club of Chicago at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman tomorrow. His subject will be "Reselling the Frontier."

JUDGES IGNORE ECONOMY PLEA; ADD TO PAY ROLL

Circuit Bench Orders Jobs for 1,787 Employes.

Judges of the Circuit court yesterday turned down pleas made by county officials and civic organizations for pay roll reductions in county fee offices. Instead the judges added two of the 48 jobs requested for next year and ordered the county board to appropriate for salaries of 1,787 employés during 1940.

Under the law the county board must accept the job provisions set up by the judges, who approved the recommendations of a committee composed of Judges Stanley H. Klarkowski, Robert Jerome Dunne, and Walter J. La Buy. The board will determine the salaries and make the necessary appropriations in its 1940 budget.

Explains Reason for Action.

A statement by Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington read:

"The help committee investigated and reported to the satisfaction of the judges that the volume of work in the various offices caused by new legislation, the depression, etc., has so increased that there was hardly a judge present who did not intimate that, if anything, the fee offices were undermanned.

"Had it not been for the fact that the county board had asked the judges to consider its financial condition, the evidence would have justified increases."

The additional jobs allowed are for a secretary to Chief Lester J. Laird of the county highway police and a maintenance engineer for the sheriff's new two way radio.

A statement emphasizing the desperation of the county's financial condition was issued by Graham Aldis, president of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency.

"On the present basis of revenue and expense the county has difficulty in maintaining its charitable institutions," the statement said. "It has been able to maintain the scale of expenditure decreed by the Circuit court and the county commissioners only because of abnormally large receipts from tax penalties.

"As soon as these penalties go back to normal [from $250,000 to $500,000 a year instead of the current $7,000,000 to $8,000,000] not even the legislature can give the county sufficient additional property taxes to take their place."

Cite Big Wage Hike.

In asking for reductions in fee office employment the federation asserted that revenues of fee offices fell 26 per cent between 1932 and 1938, while salaries rose 53 per cent.

The Circuit judges approved a recommendation that three clerks be dismissed, but this must be approved by the Superior, Probate, and County judges to become effective. The clerks had the task of preparing lists of women jurors.

CHIEF OF STATE G.O.P. PROTESTS 2% SLUSH LEVY

Calls on Officials to Halt Forced Contributions.

A. K. Stiles, chairman of the Republican state central committee, asked the state yesterday to protect civil service employés against forced contributions of 2 per cent of their salaries to a Democratic campaign fund.

Stiles said the Republican committee might take further action if the shakedown of public employés does not stop. He said his action was based on the open admission of H. A. Stone, the collector, to State's Attorney James E. Burke of Will county, that he was accepting "contributions" from guards at the Joliet and Stateville prisons.

Protests to Commission.

Stiles sent the following telegram to Gen. John V. Clinnin, Republican member of the state civil service commission:

"In view of the shocking conditions of the state administration thru the so called Illinoisans, and as Republican member of the state civil service commission, will you please advise all state employés under classified service that they are under no obligations to contribute to any Democratic campaign fund and that they will be given such protection as your office affords in the event of their dismissal for refusal to so contribute?"

Stiles said he was interested in the phraseology of the state law which says: "No officer or employé shall solicit . . . or be in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving any assessment, subscription or contribution from any member of the classified service for any party or political purpose."

"Who is 'concerned in receiving' . . . is an important question," Stiles said. "To whom does the money go? For whose benefit is it being collected? I should think that whoever benefits by the collections is 'concerned.' That seems to be obvious."

Clinnin Promises Action.

Gen. Clinnin, whose commission investigated the fact that mysterious personages were visiting all state institutions and collecting for the Illinoisans, a Democratic campaign fund raising organization, said the practice has been condemned. He said that in the six years he has been a member of the state commission notices have been posted on bulletin boards in all state institutions on numerous occasions, telling employés they need not contribute.

"If the law is being violated in any way and facts are supplied to the commission I am sure we will take action," said Gen. Clinnin yesterday —before he received Stiles' telegram. "We have given assurances to state employés that they may appeal to us if they are discharged for any political reason.

"There is nothing we can do if employés wish to make voluntary contributions to any political party. They may do so under their constitutional rights."

Explains Classified Service.

Gen. Clinnin said that the term "classified service" includes temporary appointees who are under whatever protection the law gives to civil service employés. It is illegal to compel contributions from temporary appointees in those departments which have civil service, Clinnin explained, as they are appointed with the permission of the commission.

Spokesmen for Gov. Horner said yesterday there would be no answer to the telegram sent him Tuesday night by State Representative Arnold L. Lund [R., Riverside]. Lund asked the governor if he didn't think he should stop collections being taken from state employés.

State's Attorney Burke said he would inquire into the willingness with which the prison guards made the payments. If they are coerced, he said, action would be in order.

Love Finds Way

MISS BARBARA BOSSINGER.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 6 (AP).—Love always finds a way, so Miss Barbara Bossinger of Little Rock, Ark., and Frederick R. Suits, Harvard law student, will be married Sunday.

Miss Bossinger arrived for the wedding to find Suits, a former Rhodes scholar, confined to the infirmary with a throat infection. The infirmary head banned a bedside ceremony. Miss Bossinger began to worry because she had to leave for the south Sunday. But Suits' physician said Suits would be out by then.

Massachusetts law, however, requires five days' notice of marriage. John Daggett of Baton Rouge, La., classmate of Suits, sought a waiver of the five day law. No luck. Finally, however, he won permission to file, by proxy, the necessary marriage intentions.

HITS DEMOCRATS' EXCUSE FOR HUGE STATE EXPENSES

Lund Says Relief Takes Only 25 Per Cent.

State Representative Arnold L. Lund [R., Riverside] challenged the Democratic state administration yesterday to prove an often repeated assertion that the great increase in the costs of government during the last decade is due largely to relief and old age assistance.

Lund declared that actually assistance was responsible for only 35 per cent of the increase. Nine per cent represented larger grants to the state distributive school fund. The remaining 56 per cent is directly chargeable to added costs of operating the state government, he said.

Relief Accounts for 25 Per Cent.

The young legislator, who attracted notice during the first session at Springfield earlier this year by his fight against waste and extravagance, said it is unfair to blame the cost of relief and old age assistance for the tremendous rise in state expenditures.

"The cost of relief, true enough, is a factor," he continued, "but it alone is responsible for only 25 per cent of the increase since 1929. The portion of the growth in costs properly attributed to old age pensions is only 10 per cent.

24 Millions Federal Funds.

"But only 72 millions were appropriated for relief for 1939-'41, while 52 millions went for old age assistance. And of the latter figure, 24 millions will come from federal funds.

"The fact is that the largest percentage of the increase has been brought about by huge jumps both in detailed appropriations and in the lump sum grants.

"I do not believe we should begin our economy program on relief and old age assistance, or on the school fund. When these are deducted from the 1939-1941 appropriations we find, however, that other costs of government total 176 millions more than was spent from 1929 to 1931."

DESTINATION: THE WORLD

By CALEB

LAST winter's winds—the bleak and eery winds of March—were still blowing when Field orders went to the lithographers for our 1939 Christmas boxes. All the long summer through, wheels whirled and color-presses clanked, so that promptly on the morning of Saturday, November 18th, might appear the first showing of these gala customer-aids.

Re-accenting the seasonal shopping scene, their bright-striped rectangles of red and green and gold are heaped all through our selling sections—in piles, mounds and crescent tiers, from smallest small to largest large. Three-inch midgets at one end of the gamut—forty-inch giants at the other—the infinitely varied nature of Field merchandise required us to supply a hundred and seventy-five different sizes and shapes.

Startling, of course, is the magnitude of operations mirrored in such variety. But even more impressive and stimulating to our imagination is the vision of far travel and manifold adventure conjured up by these thousands of boxes. In air and on land and sea, by every conceivable form of transport, these precious bearers of surprise and delight will go speeding—showering down into cities, towns, villages and countrysides a veritable avalanche of beneficence.

In so doing, their function is one of gilt and scarlet cardboard no longer. Rather, they are transformed into animate messengers of good will and cheer, of affection and companionship. All year long, perhaps, some invalid or shut-in, some forgotten parent or relative—or nearer at hand, the juvenile population of one's own household—have waited. . . . Then suddenly on the scene appears an unexpected parcel; and "the whole world comes right again," in a remembrance direct from "The Store of the Christmas Spirit."

Repeated through a hundred variants of this theme, the Field Christmas box continues, as for many years past, to execute its perfect mission, and to add its quota to the season's sum of gladness. Amid the hurly-burly of busy—and often wearying—Holiday merchandising, the thought of this happy sequel to our efforts is in itself a Christmas thought compensative and exhilarating!

WU IS DEAD—BUT A FANCIFUL TALE OF INTRIGUE ISN'T

He Almost Drove a Jap Agent to Hara-Kiri.

PEKING, China, Dec. 6 (AP).—The death of Marshal Wu Pei-fu was preceded by a fantastic oriental intrigue in which the retired war lord drove a Japanese general to the threat of hara-kiri by stubbornly refusing to help form a Japanese controled government for China, a highly reliable source declared today.

Wu, known in his active years as the only honest war lord in China, died Monday. An infected tooth was announced as the cause of death. The following story, related by a source close to him, is substantiated in many details by Japanese army sources:

Several months ago, the Japanese army assigned Maj. Gen. Kawamoto to the sole mission of persuading Wu Pei-fu to participate in, or at least to support, a Japanese sponsored government for China.

Kawamoto is a pupil and subordinate of Japan's ace secret agent, Lieut. Gen. Kenji Doihara, who previously had tried to win Wu's aid, but had succeeded only in buying off various marshals of the Wu retinue.

Answer Remains "No."

Wu, for the past dozen years, had devoted himself to a study of the Buddhist classics, and, in an effort to ingratiate himself, Kawamoto became a disciple of Wu in the study of Buddhism. Wu's answer remained an adamant "No."

Wu previously repeatedly had stalled off the Japanese by last minute maneuvers and by presenting exorbitant terms for his aid. Three weeks ago, Kawamoto returned to Peking from conferences in Japan and Shanghai and informed Wu the Japanese government and its Chinese collaborator, Wang Ching-wei, were ready to accept Wu's demands.

These were that Wu would head the proposed government, that he must have his own sphere of influence in Peking or Nanking, and that he must be accorded real military and political powers.

Threatens to Kill Himself.

When Wu continued to temporize, Kawamoto told him he [Kawamoto] had lost enough face already, and that unless Wu acted immediately he intended to commit hara-kiri in Wu's home.

Wu said he must consult his god before giving a final answer. He accordingly ascended a sacred platform in his home, as he was accustomed to do twice weekly, and there knelt before an image of Buddha and asked divine guidance in drawing his answer from a series of specially prepared lots.

It was said the altar attendants, in the pay of the Japanese, had stacked the lots. At any rate, Wu drew a reply which advised:

Acquires a "Political Illness."

Kawamoto and many prominent Chinese witnessed the ceremony, but Wu, in obvious anger, ignored them. Striking a table with his fist, he shouted, "Not only men compel me, but god also!"

That was 13 days ago. One day later Wu contracted "a political illness" and refused to see Kawamoto.

Two days later he was reported ill with a tooth infection, and last Monday he died. When Wu became ill Kawamoto also was reported officially to have entered a hospital, by coincidence or perhaps as a result of his failure to lure the old marshal from retirement. He arose, however, in time to be at Wu's bedside when death came.

Wu's long refusal to assist the Japanese, sealed now by his death, was admittedly a complicating factor in the Japanese program.

COLLISION IS NO JOKE, BUT HAS JOE E. BROWN OF FILMS IN STITCHES

Joe E. Brown.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6 (AP).—Joe E. Brown is in the same condition he has put many movie audiences—stitches.

At a hospital where he was taken after an automobile collision early today, the comedian's injuries were listed as a tear in the cartilage between the end of the nose and the lip requiring six stitches, a cut in the tongue necessitating three stitches and contusions of the left chest. Charles G. Weaver, 65, a painter and driver of the other car, was injured slightly.

"Might have been a good idea to have sewed up part of my mouth while you were at it," he told his doctor with a difficult grin.

In the same hospital Brown's 6 year old daughter, Kathryn, is being treated for a four inch skull fracture. She was thrown from her horse last Sunday.

Traffic Officer William H. Brennan said Brown's station wagon, after the collision, rolled end over end for 75 feet then dropped down a 35 foot embankment onto the University of California at Los Angeles football field.

JAPANESE LINK STAND ON REDS TO AMERICA'S POLICY

TOKIO, Dec. 6 (AP).—A report that the Japanese foreign office had informed the United States embassy that America's attitude toward Japan would affect to some extent future Japanese-Russian relations was published today by the authoritative Japanese news agency, Domei.

The agency said this statement was understood to have been made by Seijiro Yoshizawa, chief of the American affairs bureau of the foreign office, in a general discussion of United States-Japanese affairs with Eugene H. Dooman, counselor of the embassy.

Yoshizawa was quoted as saying that Japan did not contemplate making a nonaggression pact with Russia, but that an effort was being made to settle all outstanding issues between the two powers.

The Chrysler Corporation's great plants are alive with activity . . . the workers are busy in the team-play of trained minds and skilled hands . . . building the finest, most popular automobiles the Corporation ever built . . . the 1940 Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler.

WHEN WE SAY that Chrysler Corporation's great plants are "Delivering the Goods" we mean everything the phrase means . . .

DELIVERING THE GOODS . . . in the sense that experienced workers are building the finest and most popular automobiles in Chrysler Corporation's history.

DELIVERING THE GOODS . . . in the sense that millions of dollars a day in raw materials are coming in across the receiving platforms as trainload after trainload of new automobiles move out to dealers and the public.

DELIVERING THE GOODS . . . in the sense that the 1940 Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler cars represent today's most beautiful styling, the most advanced engineering and the finest workmanship.

The people of America have come to expect exceptional engineering and high quality in Chrysler Corporation automobiles.

The 1940 Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler cars not only live up to that high expectation—they exceed it!

It is an inspiring thing to see the quick responsiveness people show for outstanding value—the kind of value that is self-evident in car size, beauty, luxury, riding comfort, advanced engineering and fine workmanship.

Equally inspiring—urging us on to ever greater progress—is the unswerving confidence and loyalty of the merchants who sell and service our products.

Such staunch and widespread confidence and support strongly indorse our policies and principles of good manufacturing and sound merchandising.

We believe—and always have believed—that quality goes beyond good machinery and good materials. It lies in engineering genius, care and precision of manufacture, complete and thorough inspection.

Furthermore, millions of Americans choose to believe that of all manufacturers, Chrysler Corporation is particularly and notably successful in achieving the combined goal of low price and highest quality.

The 1940 Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler cars are by far the greatest values we have ever built—in smart styling, size, luxurious tailoring and appointments, riding quality and performance.

We know it—our dealers know it—the men who build the cars know it—and it is common knowledge and talk throughout the country.

May we suggest that you see your nearby Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer? He will gladly let the car you are interested in speak for itself, for him and for us.

EARLE REVEALS SUPPRESSION OF GRAFT FINDINGS

Ex-Governor Clashes with Penn Attorney.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 6.—The story of how a state police report on gravel graft and corruption in Pennsylvania came to be suppressed was unfolded from the witness stand here today by former Gov. George H. Earle.

Earle appeared as a defense witness in the trial of David L. Lawrence, state Democratic chairman, on charges of conspiracy, blackmail, and violation of the election laws. The Democratic boss is accused of extorting $5,000 from the president of a gravel company which supplied the state.

Both sides rested late today, after 11 days of testimony. Final arguments are scheduled for tomorrow, and the jury of six men and six women was expected to get the case about Friday noon. That will be the program if Judge Howard W. Hughes denies a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Attorney Clashes with Earle.

There were frequent clashes between former Gov. Earle and Earl V. Compton, special assistant district attorney, during a two hour cross examination. Showing no inclination to spare the fallen mighty, Compton declared Earle's remarks on the stand were "in willful contempt of court." Judge Hughes took no action.

This brush occurred over Earle's assertion the Dauphin county authorities had no basis for a grand jury investigation into his régime. Out of this inquiry Lawrence and 11 associates were indicted. Three have been convicted.

Inquiry Ordered by Earle.

The state police inquiry into gravel graft in the northwestern corner of Pennsylvania was ordered by Earle, then governor, in April, 1937, after Pittsburgh newspaper men had exposed the situation. There had been charges that bids were rigged and that the Pioneer Materials company, allegedly favored by the administration, was supplying inferior gravel

In June of that year Earle announced the report was in, but that there was no evidence upon which to base a criminal prosecution. H. H. Temple, chief engineer of the highway department, and E. A. Griffiths, a district engineer, were dismissed.

Then the report was hidden from public scrutiny and Earle refused to turn it over to authorities in Erie county, in which the graft situation existed. Today the former governor testified he never had read the report, but took the word of Maj. Lynn G. Adams, state police chief, that there were no grounds for criminal action.

Admits Lawrence Was Named.

Earle admitted the names of the defendant, Lawrence, then secretary of state in his cabinet, and of Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti appeared in the report, but said he did not know it at the time. Earle fired Margiotti during last year's primary after Margiotti demanded a grand jury investigation of the graft charges.

District Attorney Mortimer Graham of Erie county made repeated requests for a chance to look at the report, but these were refused. The former governor claimed his attorney general advised him that Graham wanted the information for use in the political campaign that fall.

"Did you consider that the fact that political use might be made of the information was sufficient to justify you, as governor of the commonwealth, in withholding from a district attorney information relative to the commission of a crime?" asked Prosecutor Compton.

"From this district attorney," replied Earle, "because he had a bad reputation. He was connected with a slot machine racket up there. A number of Erie people told me on several occasions that he was protecting it."

Earle Sends Investigator.

Compton asked what Earle had done to perform his constitutional duty of removing the official.

"I sent an investigator there to investigate him," said Earle. "I found I couldn't get enough evidence."

The prosecutor then declared that Common Pleas Judge William Hirt of the same county also had asked for the gravel graft report and had been refused. The former governor said he couldn't recall having seen correspondence on this request.

On a brief re-direct examination Earle described Lawrence as "the honestest man I ever knew." He denied knowing anything about any political contributions made by Spurgeon Bowser, president of the Pioneer company.

The state charges that Lawrence extorted $5,000 from Bowser ostensibly for a political contribution, but never reported it to the party organization.

Borton, president of the club, that she would be crowned Christmas queen at the benefit, which is scheduled for next Thursday noon in the Hotel Sherman. There is to be a variety show. Father Edward J. Flanagan of Boys' Town will be the guest speaker. Proceeds will go to the Off-the-Street club and the Ad club's vocational bureau.

TWO CONVICTED OF WPA FRAUDS IN INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 6 [Special]. —Carl F. Kortepeter, former county WPA coördinator, and his father-in-law, G. G. Derbyshire, were found guilty in federal District court here today of defrauding the government thru misuse of WPA labor on private property. They face prison sentences up to two years and $10,000 fines. Judge Robert Baltzell set Wednesday for sentencing.

Val Nolan, United States district attorney, immediately asked the court to convene a grand jury for Jan. 15, and Judge Baltzell entered the order. This was in line with the district attorney's promise, made in his closing argument to the jury, that immediate action would be taken to clean this federal district of WPA graft.

$25 JACKSON DAY THEME: LET'S GET THRU BY XMAS

Joseph E. Knight, secretary of the Democratic state central committee, was revealed yesterday as soliciting $25 contributions to the Jackson day Democratic celebration with the plea: "Let's get this sacred obligation out of the way before Christmas."

Democrats annually observe the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans on Jan. 8 with large dinners thruout the country at which fancy sums per plate are charged. The money raised goes to the party treasury. Knight's form letter to prospective contributors reads, in part:

"Please do not let me down—just send your $25 contribution to the Jackson day committee without delay. If everybody does his share, we can exceed our quota this year. This committee is the only authorized agency to collect or accept funds for headquarters in Washington. Let's get this sacred obligation out of the way before Christmas. It seems to me that nothing could be more important to the continued success of our great party—both state and national."

The size of the Illinois quota is not given in the letter. Norman P. Jones, state head of the Young Democrats, is listed as managing director of the Jackson day committee, and 602½ East Capitol avenue, Springfield, Ill., as its headquarters.

DEWEY ASSAILS ADMINISTRATION FOR DEFEATISM

Blames New Dealers for Economic Woes.

storms. It has been the home of many ideas, many experiments, many new movements.

"Sometimes it has been called reactionary—sometimes radical.

"Today your state has come into quiet, steady waters. It has weathered the storms, thanks to a new Minnesota Republicanism led by a balanced, broad-minded, sanely liberal executive—Harold E. Stassen. I take this as a national omen.

State of Mind of Nation.

"Tonight I am going to talk about the state of mind of our national government and the resulting state of mind of the nation. We have grave problems in agriculture, in labor, in business, in unemployment, in finance. Tonight I am not going to attempt to state solutions of those specific problems. Our difficulties must be dealt with as a whole. I wish to discuss the thing we must first get clear in our minds if we are to be successful in dealing with any of those problems.

"First of all, we must make up our minds whether we believe in the continued growth of this country or whether we believe we have reached our economic limit.

"Last year you in Minnesota made up your minds. You elected a new Republican state administration which believes in the orderly but steady growth of your state. Your governor is an enemy of extravagance and corruption and a friend to effective government and to industrial peace. Ten important former state officials have been successfully prosecuted for defrauding the state. A civil service merit system has been enacted for state employés.

Points to Economies.

"Bold economies have been introduced without sacrifice of essential services. All state departments have been put under the control of a state business manager who, believe it or not, cannot authorize expenditures of public funds unless those expenditures can be met by the tax revenues.

"Gov. Stassen, it is because of Republicans like you that I shed no tears over the future of the Republican party.

"Governor, I have just one more thing to say to you—a very stern thing. I am sometimes accused of being young. I accuse you of being five years younger. And it's true. You're guilty. Governor, I envy you your youthful vigor.

"You do not suffer from defeatism. Your administration does not suffer from defeatism. But the nation still does.

DEFEATISM GREATEST FOE

But He Has an Abiding Faith in America and G. O. P.

"Our greatest national enemy is defeatism. We have Republicans who do not think that our party can win thru. We have Republicans and Democrats who do not think that our country can win thru. We have Europeans and Americans who do not think that civilization can win thru. I am not ashamed to confess the abiding faith that our party, our country, and the world will win thru.

"It is true that we have a crisis here in America. But ours is a crisis of faith—faith in ourselves, in our system, and in our own traditions. On the solution of that crisis everything depends. If here we can rout defeatism, if here we can regain courage and unbounded activity, if here we can unite industry and agriculture and labor for an invincible America, then, and then only, can we contribute to the peace of all the world's people.

Calls Problems Massive.

"Our problems are massive. They are acute. They can't be wished away by singing "Happy Days Are Here Again." Happy days are not here again. Our days are crowded with human perplexities, human misfortune, and human pain. This distress is reflected in every state and in every part of our national economy.

"Here in Minnesota you have a great agricultural state. You produce many things, among them, for instance, grains. Let's think back to the years 1926 to 1928. They weren't too satisfactory to the farmers, were they? But let's take even those unsatisfactory years as a basis for comparison. Let's give the figure 100 to all the prices, industrial and agricultural, of that time. Then let's look at the prices now.

Instead of being 100, grains are now on average at 61. But fertilizer, which the farm buys, is at 77. Fuel, which the farmer buys, is at 82. Building materials are at 87, and farm machinery is at 95, while grains are only 61.

Finds Parity Is Lacking.

"Let me put that last figure in another way. In 1926 a farmer could have bought a plow for 75 bushels of grain. Now he has to pay 116 bushels for the same plow. Clearly we are still far, far away from any reasonable parity between agricultural and industrial prices.

"What is the use of telling the farmer to quit politics and go home and 'slop the hogs'? I say he ought to stay in politics, so that these inequalities shall be adjusted.

"But the basis for the solution is not to be found in agriculture alone. It is not to be found in the state of Minnesota alone. Let me put it to you this way.

"Minnesota, like every state, exports its products. It exports agricultural products to the industrial regions of the rest of the nation. These regions are your market. The trouble is not in Minnesota, but in its market. The real trouble lies in the long continued breakdown of our whole economic machine. For his own sake the farmer must take an interest in the restoration of industry, just as industry must take an interest in the restoration of agriculture. We live in one nation and in one economy.

LACK OF JOBS BIG PROBLEM

Charges Roosevelt Fails to Find Solution of Unemployment

"When President Roosevelt was inaugurated he said: 'Our greatest primary task is to put people to work.' He defined the issue, but has failed to find the solution. After seven years, putting people to work is still our greatest primary task.

"One person out of every five employable persons in this country is today unemployed. The great, unanswered question is: What keeps him out of work?

"Some people say he does not want to work. That is a vicious slander on the American people.

"The other day, in New York, the city authorities announced that they needed 58 automobile mechanics. Hundreds of men stood in line all night to try to get one of those jobs. Six thousand five hundred men applied for those 58 jobs. Those men could have been on relief. But they didn't want relief. Nor will the 10 million others prefer relief the day they are offered work with any reasonable belief that it is a steady job.

Gives Illustrative Story.

"Now, some people say that unemployed capital does not want to work. Let me tell you a little story about that.

"Last Sept. 1 the Booneville Savings bank of Booneville, Ia., closed its doors after having been in business for 33 years. There was nothing the matter with the bank. It was entirely solvent and it paid out in full the $267,000 of its deposits. In a letter to the depositors the president of the bank explained the reason for closing. Here it is, and I quote his words:

"'The principal reason for quitting is that we do not know what to do with our money.'

"Now, why didn't that bank know what to do with its money? Obviously because the customers of that bank were not seeking loans. They were not branching out into new and increased ventures.

"Unemployed capital today is about the same as it has always been. It will go to work if it can find a place to work with a reasonable chance of not losing both its job and itself.

Idleness Is Deplored.

"I say to you that both capital and labor want work, that both detest idleness. We are going to get exactly nowhere telling lies and libels about one another. We have been getting nowhere for seven years, telling lies and libels about each other.

"So I ask you once more: What keeps the unemployed man out of a job? This time I ask it in broader terms.

"The New Deal has a committee called the Temporary National Economic committee. The New Deal has been in power nearly seven years—in case you forget. Its Temporary National Economic committee this year reports as follows. I quote:

"'The American economic machine is stalled on dead center.'

"After seven years of lending and spending, seven years of priming the pump, seven years of pushing the accelerator down to the floor on more and more and more public spending, seven years of warming up the cylinders of the machine with more than 22 billion dollars of new national public debt—after seven years what does the New Deal repair crew tell us? It admits defeat. It says:

"'The American economic machine is stalled on dead center.'

Submits One Answer.

"I have been asking: What keeps the unemployed man out of a job? Here is one of the answers. This New Deal repair crew does not believe in this machine.

"It believes in public spending. But does it believe in what has always hitherto made the machine pick itself up and bound forward again after every temporary slowdown? Does it believe in those absolutely necessary new, great, adventurous private enterprises that create jobs?

"Just so there shall be no doubt about it, let me quote the President himself. The whole of the basic economic theory and of the basic economic practice in the New Deal is in the speech the President made in San Francisco in 1932.

"In that speech he said some fine things. For example:

"'America is new. It is in the process of change and development. It has the great potentialities of youth. We can still believe in change and in progress.'

Quotes from Speech.

"Splendid! And true! But listen now to the part of his San Francisco speech which discloses his real philosophy. I quote excerpts; but I quote them in harmony with his full actual meaning. Here are his words:

Farm Buying Power

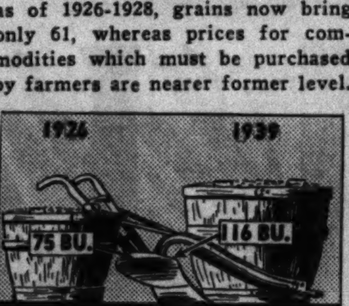
With figure 100 given to all prices as of 1926-1928, grains now bring only 61, whereas prices for commodities which must be purchased by farmers are nearer former level.



1926
75 BU.
116 BU.

In 1926 a farmer paid the equivalent of 75 bushels of grain for a plow. Now he must pay the equivalent of 116 bushels.

"'Our industrial plant is built. The problem just now is whether under existing conditions it is not overbuilt. . . . A mere builder of more industrial plants . . . is as likely to be a danger as a help. . . . Our task now is not . . . necessarily producing more goods. It is the soberer, less dramatic business of administering resources and plants already in hand . . .'

"Here is the whole outlook of the New Deal:

"The established plants are all rights. But the new plants, the new adventures, the new industries, are unnecessary and even possibly undesirable. There is nothing left to do. All that remains is to divide up what we got from the Indians. Such is the theory of the New Deal administration. Such is its practice.

"With this philosophy I totally and absolutely disagree.

Reads from 1886 Report.

"Our country has lived thru this sort of theory several times before. One time was in the '80s of the last century. I want to read to you from the annual report of the United States commissioner of labor for the year 1886. Note these words carefully. They are so full of pessimism they will encourage you. In 1886 it was there solemnly reported:

"'It is true that the discovery of new processes of manufacture will undoubtedly continue . . . but it will not leave room for a marked extension such as has been witnessed during the last 50 years.'

"Note that! The time of extension, of expansion, is over. In 1886! And finally it said:

"'And it will not afford remunerative employment for the vast amount of capital that has been created.'

"Note that! No more use for idle money. No more chance for profitable new investments. No chance for the future of our growing population. All this in 1886.

PIONEERS IN INDUSTRY

Declares Those Leaders Made Defeatists Ridiculous

"Aren't we lucky that the men who put their money into the early hazard of the automobile industry didn't read this report? Aren't we lucky that our radio pioneers, and our motion picture pioneers, and our aviation pioneers, in their ignorance, never heard of it? Aren't we lucky that a host of other pioneers, since 1886, have given us new commodities and new services with no recollection of the economic defeatism of 1886?

"The 50 years which followed 1886 make the defeatists of that day seem ridiculous to all of us and yet today the apostles of despair are with us again. They have learned nothing from history. Again they occupy high places in the national government; again they tell us the same old story. I venture to say it will sound as silly 50 years hence as do the statements by the commissioner of labor of 50 years ago.

"But today we have that same economic defeatism all over again. It seems to come back upon us every so often, and not only here but in all the rest of the world.

Cites Attitude in 1800.

"In the year 1800 the British statesman, the elder William Pitt, said:

"'There is scarcely anything around us but ruin and despair.'

"In 1849 another British statesman, Benjamin Disraeli, said:

"'In industry, commerce, and agriculture there is no hope.'

"Here we are, at it again. Here we are, at a time when the American Federation of Labor reports that there are 53,000,000 employable workers in the United States compared with 48,000,000 just ten years ago. A net increase of half a million new workers per year! And yet the President says:

"'Our industrial plant is built.'

"In effect he says there is no place in this country for the people who are growing up in it. And the tragedy is they are beginning to believe him. Only last week the Young Men's Christian association reported on a widespread survey among our youth. They told us that 80 per cent of the young men and women believe that ability no longer offers assurance of success in America. The philosophy of despair is indeed taking root. What the New Deal means to them is that it would have been better had they never been born.

"Its theories have infected the thinking of many of the rest of us. Industrialists, labor leaders, social workers talk about 'vast permanent unemployment.' In the 1920's we had no unemployment that was 'vast.' But now they say we must face an unemployment that will be 'vast' and that will be 'permanent.'

Urges An About Face.

"The President has said we have a rendezvous with destiny. We seem to be on our way toward a rendezvous with despair.

"Fellow Republicans, as a party, let us turn away from that rendezvous and let us start going in the other direction, and start now.

"The one ultimate unforgivable crime is to despair of the republic. The one essential to the survival of the republic is to know it will survive into a future that is always larger, always better. In every era for a century and a half it has been doomed to death by gloomy young theorists and by tired and hopeless elders. And history laughs at them as each time the dynamic forces of a free republic led by free men have given the lie to the defeatists while the system of free economic enterprise has marched onward, sweeping the nation's increased population to full employment and ever higher living standards.

"Nor is history the only answer to these gloomy predictions. For we have about us in every state, in every city, on every farm, the answer. Here in our own America we have the man power, the wealth, the natural resources, the genius to invent and create. We have the industrial skill to release that ever-flowing stream of new inventions and greater productivity wherein lies the future of our own America. I don't say to you, close your eyes and have faith—I say to you, open your eyes, look around you and be convinced.

CALLS NEW DEAL ALL WRONG

Declares History and Our Brains Prove Its Fallacy

"Here is the final answer to the defeatism of the New Deal.

"All history proves it is wrong. Our own eyes and our own brains tell us it is wrong. And because its basic theory is wrong it has done only half its job. It is a duty of national government to perform its social obligations. I believe this administration has sincerely attempted to fulfill those obligations. But that is only half the job. The other half is to maintain, to encourage the economic system which supports the government and makes performance of social obligations possible.

"Society has a permanent, deep-rooted obligation to its aged, its blind, its sick, its unemployed. But it is not enough to say no one shall starve. It is a cruel illusion to pass laws which are a mere promise without also taking measures necessary to the fulfillment of that promise. The present administration has thought it well enough to make the promise, leaving the performance to come from the savings of the last generation, achieved under Republican administrations, and mortgaging the earnings of the next generation, which will also be under Republican administrations. Our obligation—and I say ours because the Democratic administration has failed—is to start producing the goods and earning the money so that those promises can be fulfilled.

Wants Obstacles Removed.

"Our first task is to sweep away the obstacles to that fulfillment. There is only one source of real money in any free country and that is private enterprise, the enterprise of the farmer, the worker, and the business man. It is our first, our primary task, to create the conditions under which this enterprise can go to work.

"Until we first make up our minds that this is our purpose there is no use discussing particular problems.

"Do we believe in the continued growth of this country or do we believe we have reached our economic limit? All history and every observation of your own eyes proves that America is not finished. It need never be finished. There is no limit to America.

"There is a force in America that has been held in check which once released can give us the employment that we need. It has nothing to do with slick monetary schemes. It has nothing to do with slick economic panaceas. This force is the energy of American enterprise, great and small. Given a chance, it can produce employment, can generate new purchasing power, and set in motion once more the surging flow of commercial venture.

HITS ECONOMIC QUACKERY

Encourage Private Enterprise and Reform Taxes, His Plan

"Government hostility, repressive taxation and economic quackery have kept this force from going to work. Our firm resolve must be to give it a chance and to encourage enterprise.

"Nor does this involve tolerance of abuses in business or in any other element of society, civil or criminal. Where there are abuses in business, it is the function of government to correct them as they arise. But we can cure abuses in business without creating abuses by government.

"Tonight I propose that we Americans, of whatever party, make up our minds that we do believe in the continued growth of this country.

Sees Room for Expansion.

"Let us know the truth that the frontiers of social and economic expansion of America have not yet been discovered; that there is room and plenty in all this land for all the young men and women who are growing up in it; that there is work to do for them and all that follow.

"Let us again learn to believe in the ability of a free people to solve its problems if given a chance to go to work.

"We can and we will again go forward. Shall it be said that new America is matured and completed and overbuilt and incapable of further expansion and new achievements? Shall it be said that all we can do from now on is to administer the achievements we already have? I do not say no temperately. I say no with resentment and anger. The one thing I want to do in whatever way I can is to help make the courage of eternal youth run once more in the veins of my party and of my country."

ACCIDENTAL SHOT FATAL.

Effingham, Ill., Dec. 6 [Special].—Hubert Hutmacher, 14 years old, son of Frank Hutmacher, died last night of a gunshot wound received Sunday. Hubert, Robert Nash and William Sisson had been shooting at tin cans when Robert's gun was discharged accidentally, striking Hubert in his abdomen and entering his spine.

G. O. P. EXPECTED TO NAME TICKET AT USUAL TIME

Leaders Cool to Plan for Delaying Convention.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—Indications tonight are that the Republican national convention to nominate the candidates for President and Vice President, and to adopt the party platform, will be held at about the usual time in June.

Republican leaders arriving for the meeting tomorrow of the executive committee of the Republican national committee were generally of the opinion that the party should proceed as usual to fix the time for the convention without reference to the time the Democrats contemplate holding their convention.

For several weeks the two political organizations have been jockeying for position in the holding of their conventions. The party that nominates and writes its platform last enjoys a certain tactical advantage. It can capitalize any weakness of the ticket or platform of the party that acts first and can appeal to elements dissatisfied with the results.

Hamilton Spars for Position.

Theoretically the party in power should hold its convention first to present its record and be answered by the opposition. But in practice the Republicans invariably have acted first, even when the Democrats were in power. This time Republican National Chairman John Hamilton began maneuvering to force the Democrats to call their convention first. He delayed issuing a call for the national committee, which ordinarily would meet this month to call the national convention.

Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley was wary. He also has postponed a call for the Democratic national committee, which usually meets early in January to call the Democratic convention. Then President Roosevelt took a hand in the game with some astonishing results, politically speaking.

President Favors Late Start.

The President made it known at Warm Springs that the conventions could not be held too late to suit him. A "short campaign and a sweet one" was what he favored. He intimated that a Democratic convention held in September would give the Democrats ample time to put their case before the country. Besides, late conventions and short campaigns would save both parties a lot of money, the President opined.

At once speculation ran riot on the President's motives. Many Democratic leaders were convinced it was a third term scheme the President was furthering. The argument was that the later the Democratic convention is held, the easier it would be for Mr. Roosevelt to achieve renomination.

Moreover, a short campaign would be to the advantage of the Democrats. Built on federal patronage and buttressed by government expenditures, their organization is the most powerful ever constructed. It is operating at full speed all the time.

G. O. P. Needs More Time.

The Democrats would not need two months to present their case, particularly if the President were the candidate. The Republicans, however, would need four months to build an organization and get their candidates and platform adequately presented to the country.

The Republicans perceived at once that they had been outmaneuvered by the President. It was evident that the Democrats, adopting the President's strategy, could outwait the Republicans in the matter of calling the conventions. So, one after another, Republican leaders began counseling Chairman Hamilton to abandon the maneuver and take steps to hold the Republican convention without regard to the plans of the Democrats.

JAMES M'ROBERTS.

James McRoberts, 47 years old, of Washington, Ind., a former fireman for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was awarded a judgment of $52,500 yesterday for the loss of both his legs under a locomotive March 30. It was one of the largest sums ever given in a railroad employé personal injury case. Attorney Murphy O. Tate submitted a tabulation showing that his client's potential earning power, had he not been injured, would have been $32,500 during his lifetime. The jury's sealed verdict was opened by Judge Michael L. McKinley.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 6 [Special].—San Franciscans have discovered they don't need snow for skiing. Winter and summer are just the same to the hundreds who flock to the beaches and slalom down sand dunes. There are no cold fingers and toes in the sport here, but whether it's sand or snow, it doesn't feel good down the neck.

SENATOR BURKE ASSAILS FEDERAL HEALTH SCHEME

Senator Edward R. Burke, Nebraska Democrat, warned last night that the Roosevelt administration's plan for expansion of the public health service would impose a staggering financial burden upon the country.

Senator Burke.

Senator Burke spoke before the Cook County Health forum of the Chicago Medical society in Orchestra hall. The forum is sponsor of free public lectures on health problems.

Senator Burke said the national health program proposed in the Wagner health bill would cost 2½ billion dollars a year when recommendations of a so-called technical committee have been added.

List of Proposed Grants.

Main features of the program, he said, are:

Federal grants for maternal and child welfare, for which annual expenditures of $60,000,000 are authorized by the third year. Federal grants for state public health work and investigations aggregating $64,000,000 annually by the third year. Federal grants to states aggregating $100,000,000 annually by the third year for construction and improvement of hospitals.

Federal grants to states of $35,000,000 the first year for extending and improving medical care, with expenditures thereafter at the discretion of congress. Federal grants of $10,000,000 the first year to the states for compulsory health insurance, with no fixed amounts for succeeding years.

"A careful computation," Senator Burke said, "indicates a federal expenditure of close to $100,000,000 for the first year, for the second year an increase of $170,000,000, and for the third year more than $270,000,000.

Nearly a Billion a Year.

"Once the program is started it is safe to say that the actual outlay will greatly exceed the figure given. The sponsors of the plan estimate that when it is in full operation there will be involved a total expenditure, federal and state, of $850,000,000 annually.

"When the further recommendations of the 'technical committee' have been added to the program, as they certainly will be once the start is made, the annual outlay is estimated at the staggering total of more than $2,500,000,000."

Another speaker was Samuel B. Pettengill, former Democratic congressman of South Bend, Ind. He declared Americans want jobs so they can hire their own doctors, not medical service supplied by the government.

"A child born today to American wage earners has the highest life expectancy in the world," he said. "That's something to be explained away by those who want to increase taxes to finance state medicine."

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

How to judge and cut meat was the feature yesterday of the International Live Stock exposition, which will continue thru Saturday in the International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets.

Streamlined steaks for the kitchenette housewife, butterfly chops, and boneless pot roasts, showing the evolution in the use of meat, illustrate the changes in the entire industry, and explain why the grand champion steers of today weigh a third less than those of 40 years ago. Perhaps this explains, too, why farm boys are taking the chief prizes with yearling animals.

The exposition, horse show, and hay and grain show, with their many educational exhibits, continued to draw huge crowds of farmers and city folk. Attendance yesterday was 58,000, bringing the total to 267,000.

Sell Prize Animals Today.

Judging of breeding cattle, sheep, and draft horses went forward in the arena. This morning on Exchange avenue, near the show grounds, the auctions of Lucky Boy, the champion steer, and the champion pig and sheep will take place. Last year's price was $3.35 a pound for the grand champion steer. The top price was $8.25 a pound in 1929.

A trio of University of Wisconsin animal husbandry students won the title of America's champion 1939 meat judging team. They made a score of 2,418 points out of a possible 2,700, in a field of 15 college and university teams. Wisconsin was coached by O. Burr Ross, a member of the 1935 winning team from the University of Nebraska.

Kansas State college trailed Wisconsin by 47 points, while the third place was taken by the University of Missouri team, which scored 2,358 points.

The members of the winning team, all farm boys and former 4-H club members, were Francis A. Spurrell of Amery, Harold A. Henneman of Belmont, and Lyle Viney of Evansville. All these were placed among the 10 high individuals of the contest, which was won by Spurrell. All the boys are working their way thru the university and are majoring in animal husbandry and vocational training.

Judge Carcasses and Cuts.

The 45 contestants were required to judge carcasses and wholesale cuts of beef, pork, and lamb, and to give written reasons for their placings. The contest is an annual event of the National Live Stock and Meat board.

For the first five years of the exposition, said Max O. Cullen of the live stock and meat board, the grand champion steers averaged 1,693 pounds. For the last five years they have averaged 1,110 pounds, a decrease of 583 pounds.

This has been a directed change to provide smaller cuts for the housewife. People are buying as much meat, he said, but the cuts are smaller. Twice as many cuts are available as 40 years ago. Education has been carried on in this line to meet economy budgets, kitchenette cooking, and the demands of the housewife who spends much time at the bridge table and has to get a hurry up dinner.

How Times Have Changed.

"In the old days," he said, "they had 6 or 8 pound picnic shoulder pork, for instance. Today they have cushion style at 3 or 4 pounds. They used to have big loin pork chops, and can still get them, but the favorites are the butterfly chops. They used to cut 10 or 12 pound rib beef roasts. Now they make three cuts from it, a boneless pot roast, a country club steak, and lean stew meat."

The meat board exhibited behind glass three tables set for meals. A typical Sunday menu, selected by Miss Ann Bowler, director of the nutrition department and consulting nutritionist at Rush Medical school, follows:

BREAKFAST—Grapefruit, sausages, and hominy, whole wheat toast, butter, coffee or cocoa.

LUNCH—Lamb kidney en brochette, bread and butter sandwiches, jellied vegetable salad, a combination of orange slices, bananas, and shredded cocoanut; milk, tea, apples.

DINNER—Pot roast and noodles, buttered beets, fruit salad, rolls, butter, mince pie, milk, and coffee.

It was recalled that the name sirloin originated in England, where one of the kings, said to be Henry VIII., was so pleased with a loin of beef for dinner that he knighted it Sir Loin.

Aid to Housewife

Beef animals, in being prepared for the butcher shops, first are divided into various wholesale cuts at the various meat packing plants. Shipments are then made to retail stores, where butchers cut the wholesale packages into saleable retail cuts to obtain the best price for the whole beef.

European Tour Romance Ends; Broker Is Divorced

Stanley Jackson, 40 years old, Lake Forest, a stock broker, was divorced yesterday in Nebraska City, Neb., by Mrs. Dorothee Meyers Jackson. Mrs. Jackson was a Nebraska City school teacher whom the broker met and married on shipboard on a European trip last June 14. They separated shortly after completing their tour. Mrs. Jackson testified Jackson embarrassed her in public places in Europe and in this country by his drinking. Jackson's first wife, Caroline, daughter of Ward W. Willits of Highland Park, divorced him in 1927.

Woman Found in Hotel; Both Her Wrists Slashed

Miss Beatrice Elsie Maes, 25 years old, was in a serious condition last night in county hospital, where she was taken after she was found in a room in the Hotel Sherman suffering from an overdose of sleeping powders and with both wrists slashed. Her parents, with whom she lived at 2445 Ardmore avenue, said she had been ill with diabetes. Miss Maes was a stenographer in a loop bank.

INCREASES CORN YIELD EACH YEAR ON SAME PLOT

Farmer's Record Wins Illinois Title.

BY HOMER NEISZ.

A unique achievement in corn growing was announced at the International Live Stock exposition yesterday when Richmond Robison of Delavan, in Tazewell county, was awarded the 10 acre corn growing championship for Illinois for the third consecutive year. The contest is supervised by the Illinois Crop Improvement association. The live stock show is being held in the International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets.

Robison has grown his champion corn each year on the same plot of ground on his farm in Tazewell county. The yield has increased each year.

In 1937 the field made 131.1 bushels per acre; last year it produced 137.96 bushels per acre, and this 155.51 for a three year average of 141.5 bushels.

The land on which the corn was grown was broken out of sod more than a century ago by Robison's grandfather and has been in cultivation ever since.

Mixes Hybrid Strains.

Robison planted a mixture of hybrid strains each year in producing the championship corn. He thinks the mixture gives a higher yield than one strain. He mixed the seed in the planter.

The contest field was planted this year with five different hybrids—G-169, a newly developed strain; G-94, a hybrid developed to utilize long growing seasons; G-212 and G-53, single eared hybrids that have given high yields in central Illinois, and G-32, a hybrid that has produced more than 100 bushels per acre in other fields on the Robison farm.

It is Robison's opinion that given good crop rotation and soil management, the fertile soils of the corn belt will produce high yields indefinitely.

Coronation Ceremony Held.

A special coronation ceremony for corn champions was held in the arena at the horse show matinée yesterday afternoon. C. E. Troyer, La Fontaine, Ind., was crowned corn king; Floyd Hiner, Lewisville, Ind., corn duke, and Raymond Kreig, Oakley, Ill., corn prince.

Corn queens selected at fall corn festivals in Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa communities who were given free trips to the International, formed a court of honor for the ceremonies.

Included among the many corn champions honored at the ceremony was Clark Dillinger of Jeffersonville, Ind., who produced the highest official corn yield in the country this year when he grew five acres that averaged 180.1 bushels per acre.

Lawrence E. Pitzer of Attica, Ind., winner of this year's national corn husking contest, and R. C. McClure of Malcom, Ia., winner of the 10 acre corn growing championship for that state, were given special recognition at the ceremony.

Champion Fleece Selected.

The champion fleece in the wool show was exhibited by L. A. Taylor of Marysville, O. Ivan Logan of Mount Gilead, O., showed the reserve champion fleece.

In the hay and grain division, Russell Ogden of North Manchester, Ind., won the champion hay award on a sample of Grimm alfalfa. D. E. Turner, of Rudyard, Mich., won the reserve champion award on a sample of timothy.

Canada won another championship in the grain show when William Rogers of Tappan, B. C., exhibited the grand champion sample of rye. This made a total of seven grand championships that Canadian exhibitors have won in the grain show.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

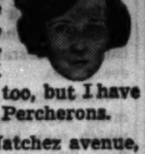
Where Answered.

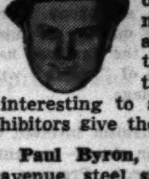
At the International amphitheater.

The Answers.

Mrs. Wells Hampton, route No. 2, Zionsville, Ind., housewife. — I like the beef cattle . . . the Shorthorns especially. They are just a good type; they look so complacent and healthy. This is the first International stock show I've seen, and I've never seen such an array of prize winners.



Mrs. Wood Caperton, Carmel, Ind., housewife.—The Percheron horses—because my husband raises them. We showed them here last year, and have come in to see the horses every year for the last five years. I like the riding horses, too, but I have a personal interest in Percherons.



A. F. Conrad, 1839 Natchez avenue, lithographer. — I admire the draft horses. They are beauties . . . the Clydesdales especially. One never sees such huge and perfect animals in the city, except at these shows. It's been interesting to see the care the exhibitors give their animals.

Paul Byron, 310 South Michigan avenue, steel salesman. — The five gaited horses always take my eye. I love to see them in action. I haven't missed watching them perform for years. Of course, I wander around looking at the rest of the show, but I like the horses best.

John Prendergast, 2316 Millard avenue, tire salesman.—The horses! I love the trim riding horses that perform in the shows. The draft horses are powerful and have a sort of beauty, too, but the saddle horses are my pets. We spend most of our time here just watching them.

CITY NEEDS NEW DIESEL FIREBOAT, ALDERMEN TOLD

Chicago is in dire need of another Diesel powered fireboat, Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan told the city council finance committee yesterday. He explained items in his request for $9,267,583 for the fire department for next year. City Controler Robert B. Upham cut the request to $8,402,521 in his estimate submitted to the committee. Last year $8,315,221 was appropriated for the department.

Corrigan said the 32 year old Joseph Medill, coal burning fireboat assigned to the Calumet river, costs approximately $45 a day just to keep at the dock in readiness for a fire. The standby cost of the Diesel powered Fred A. Busse, docked at Franklin street in the Chicago river, is $1.65 a day, he said. Corrigan asked $200,000 for a new boat. That request, along with his request for 250 additional firemen, was taken under advisement by the finance committee, which is studying 1940 budget needs.

1,500 PAY HONOR TO REV. MAGUIRE, STRIKE SETTLER

More than 1,500 persons, including many labor leaders and public officials, attended a dinner in the Palmer House last night for the Rev. John W. R. Maguire, noted labor conciliator. Father Maguire, former president of St. Viator's college at Bourbonnais, is celebrating his silver jubilee as a Catholic priest.

Patrick Sullivan, president of the Chicago Building Trades council, was toastmaster. At the speakers' table were Mayor Kelly, Senator James M. Slattery, Reuben G. Soderstrom, and Victor Olander of the Illinois Federation of Labor; John Fitzpatrick of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and Msgr. John A. Ryan, head of the National Catholic Welfare conference.

High Artistry Displayed by 39 Champions.

BY MARCIA WINN.

A navy wool suit with a burnt sugar silk blouse and hat, complete with pumps, gloves, and undergarments—total cost, $14.98. A rose moiré taffeta evening gown, with a taffeta cape and reticule, hose, and gold slippers—complete cost, $26.05. A rust wool street dress, 15 covered buttons down its princess front—complete cost, $4.92.

These were three of the thirty-nine costumes, of high artistry and made at a cost suitable to a farm girl's pocketbood, that were displayed last night at a dinner and style revue in the Stevens hotel. The affair was attended by 1,500 farm boys and girls who are in Chicago for the 18th annual 4-H club congress.

Made by State Champion.

The 39 costumes were made by state 4-H sewing champions and all were modeled by their makers. In many instances, the young dressmaker also was the designer. In other cases she made the dress without a pattern, or pieced together old patterns to attain it. One, with ingenuity, not only made the wooden buttons she needed, but dyed them navy blue.

The dress revue concluded a day of strenuous activity for the 4-H members, whose visit here is in conjunction with the International Live Stock exposition in the International amphitheater at 42d and Halsted streets. All day long they received prizes—for home beautification, for canning, for judging.

To be one of the five home beautification winners, Herbert Young, 18, of Wheeling, W. Va., cleaned the grounds of his home, leveled the lawn, built a cement platform for the well pump, filled in ditches, and planted trees. He built an outdoor furnace, lawn furniture, bird houses, bird bath and trellis, and helped his father paint the house.

The other four co-winners are Edna Owens, 15, of Webster, N. C.; Clyda Conrad, 16, of St. Joseph, Mo., Maxine Bullock, 15, of Albuquerque, N. M., and Betty Hughes, 16, of Miami, N. M.

Five Win in Canning Project.

Five 4-H girls were given $200 scholarships for their canning projects. The five canned a total of 31,838 pints of fruits, vegetables, and meats. Numerically, Anne Stiegler, 17, of Missoula, Minn., canned the most, having 10,097 pints to her credit.

All the girls, however, ranked equally and were given scholarships by Mrs. Ruth A. Kerr, president of a glass jar company. The other four are Clara Nell Lavender, 18, of Jefferson, Ga.; Frances Dougherty, 15, of Wichita, Kas.; Patsy M. Chalker, 17, of Arleta, Ore., and Constance Ruggieri, 18, of Providence, R. I.

Donald Bump and Everette Olsen, both of Marshfield, Wis., won the national meat identification and judging contest.

Two 4-H judging teams representing Illinois placed first in the national poultry and crop judging contests. Both teams were coached by W. R. Queen of Cuba, Ill., a high school vocational agriculture teacher.

INSURANCE FIRM SUES 3 IN AURORA FOR $303 UNDER DRAM SHOP LAW

The National Fire Insurance company sued three tavern keepers at Aurora yesterday in legal terms which mean:

These are the men who sold the drinks which fuddled the fellow who twisted the wheel as he rode beside the man who drove the truck which struck the car that was driven by Miss Annette Russell, the policy holder who collected $303 from us, who sold her the insurance. We want them to give us back our money.

Defendants: Everett Marzuki, Arthur C. Tschannen, and Frank Potenziani. Grounds: Dram shop law.

U. S. Aid Injured When Car Goes Into Ditch; Wife Killed

Jerseyville, Ill., Dec. 6 (AP).—Mrs. Jesse Pitts of St. Louis was killed tonight in an automobile accident near Rosedale, about 20 miles west of here. The car, driven by her husband, an inspector for the United States department of agriculture, plunged off the highway into a creek bed. Pitts, seriously injured, was brought to a hospital here.

MORE CHICAGO ALIENS APPLY FOR CITIZENSHIP

Aliens in Chicago continued to apply in large numbers for citizenship papers during November, Fred J. Schlotfeldt, director of the Chicago bureau of immigration and naturalization, said yesterday. Applications for second papers totaled 2,488, compared with 2,399 for the same month in 1938, while there were 1,252 applications for first papers, compared with 1,517 in November last year.

By applying for citizenship in this country, aliens guard against recall to their native lands where they and their possessions would be subject to wartime conscription.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike for another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other."—From the Farewell Address.

THE WHITE HOUSE AND RED BEHAVIOR.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked by the reporters whether Stalin's attack on Finland, which has "profoundly shocked" the White House, would lead to the recall of the American ambassador from Moscow and the severance of relations between the United States and soviet Russia. Mr. Roosevelt is said to have pondered a moment and then to have remarked that there was no news on that question at present, but that he did not know about the future.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, with Mr. Hull out of town, has notified several Latin American nations of the willingness of the United States to participate in a joint Pan American condemnation of Russia. As a more practical testimony of sympathy the United States treasury, on the instruction of Mr. Roosevelt, will earmark the Dec. 15 payment on Finland's debt for future disposal in Finland's interest, and Mr. Roosevelt said that possibly four or five other instalments which have been paid by the only European country honoring its obligations would be returned to the Finnish government, if any good could be done that way.

Mr. Roosevelt's new opinion of the Red brotherhood, showing a weakening in his belief that all is felicitous under Comrade Stalin, is not as yet as abrupt and complete as the American communist party's change of opinion regarding him. Mr. Browder and his associates, who were the most ardent third termers until late August, have broken diplomatic relations with a bang. Until the Hitler-Stalin embrace Mr. Browder was supporting Mr. Roosevelt as the greatest friend of the people since Abraham Lincoln.

Jefferson, Lincoln, Stalin, and Roosevelt were the pictures on the communist wall. Mr. Browder in the happier days said that the Dies committee activities were intended to ruin Mr. Roosevelt, the New Dealers, democracy, and democracy's true friends, the American communists, and that the liberal hope of the country would be fulfilled only by the reëlection of the present occupant of the White House, who was the people's champion against Wall street, plutocracy, Fascism, and the exploitation of the masses.

Stalin changed all this by making a deal with the Nazis which permitted him to go looting. "World imperialist politics," says Clarence Hathaway, Mr. Browder's editor, "with the profits of America's Wall street empire at stake—these are the real reasons for Roosevelt's deep involvement in the affairs of the Finnish rulers."

The deterioration of the friendship between the White House and the American communist party is interesting and even amusing. The recall of the American ambassador would be an act of confusion forced by villainous behavior to which the eyes of the administration have been conveniently closed ever since the recognition of the Red devils in 1933. But such action, arising from injured pride and wounded self-esteem, will have less importance to the American people than the procedure of Mr. Roosevelt's administration with regard to policies here in this country which carry out the will of American collectivists who avoid the name "communist" and follow the communist line.

A break with Moscow and with Mr. Browder will not have much meaning unless the communist undertakings to which the New Deal is committed are abandoned. It isn't of much consequence that the White House should be willing to call Stalin names if everything the Reds have been working for in government is promoted as if there had been no open disclosures of what the Moscow purposes are. When Mr. Roosevelt breaks with the policies which aim at an American imitation of communist dictatorship, the "profound shock" caused by the villainies of the Reds will be of some value here.

MARKETING PORK IN WARTIME.

The American hog is an early war casualty. Because the war is keeping foreign buyers from taking away our excess pork, live hogs sold this week for only slightly above 5 cents a pound. An average 250 pound porker delivered in Chicago brought only $12.65. A year ago $18.75 would have been paid and a month ago $21.25. This late in the year hogs have not been so cheap since 1933, just before Mr. Wallace killed 6 million pigs and threw the meat away.

The war has been a bonanza for some neutrals. Germany has been willing to pay a good stiff price for her requirements, and the British have been willing to pay a stiffer one to keep supplies from going to Germany even for commodities the allies didn't need. But the American hog raiser doesn't have competing belligerents bidding for his product. The English are not buying any pork products.

Just before the war broke out a deal was about to be consummated, providing for the exchange of our surplus pork products for certain German articles for which we have need. At the same time an exchange of Canadian wheat and honey for German technical equipment was being arranged. The Canadian exchange fell thru when Canada declared war on Germany. Our deal with Germany is off because the allies have Germany blockaded.

In the last war exports to neutral Europe rose to figures never before or since equaled. The extra quantities were going to Germany despite the blockades and the inspection by the allies. If American packers were to send some of our excess pork to neutral countries in some other neutral's ships, Great Britain might seize the cargoes on the theory that some of the pork might filter into Germany. But if the British did that they would be obliged to pay. To place our pork where the allies will buy it rather than run the risk of it getting into Germany may be one way of marketing our surplus.

CHICAGO LEADING.

Facts which are coming to hand show that Chicago is one of the brightest business spots of the country. In the latest business revival the heavy goods industries have made the most substantial gains. That is where Chicago shines.

There isn't any better measure of the amount of local industrial activity than the volume of freight. Last month a total of 193,372 railroad cars were loaded in the Chicago terminal district. That was the best November record all the way back to 1929 when loadings totaled 210,063 cars. The record is remarkable when account is taken of the encroachment trucking has made on the railroad business, particularly out of Chicago, the home of Keeshin, the top truck man of the country. While Chicago's November loadings were the best since 1929, the national total only broke the record back to 1930, and were about 10 per cent smaller than the 1930 aggregate.

In yesterday's TRIBUNE there was a report that 6,800 automobiles had been sold in a month, which was more than in any previous November. The margin over the best previous mark for the month was 20 per cent. And this was without including the orders for Chrysler cars which couldn't be delivered because of the strike.

There aren't any figures for November employment as yet. However, the October factory employment increase in Chicago was the largest in history except for one month right after the bank moratorium. The Chicago factories added 19,000 workers and the first of last month had 45,000 more names on the pay roll than they had a year ago.

The peak of factory operations in this community usually comes in October, but last month the mills increased operations to 95 per cent and there has been no subsequent let down. The farm implement factories have a heavy manufacturing program for the rest of the winter, resulting from popular response to the new lower priced line of implements and tractors. And the car building companies have more business on the books than at any time in two years.

Over the last few years there have been a number of short lived business upturns, in which Chicago has seemed to lag badly behind. We weren't in right at Washington. Other sections got the big public works money. This time Washington is not even pretending that it is responsible for the recovery. There is nothing synthetic about it. Chicago, which was long neglected by the Roosevelt administration, is a leader in the current revival. That's what makes it look like the McCoy.

IT'S HORNER'S SHAKEDOWN.

The activities in Joliet of the political extortionist Stone have been called to the attention of Gov. Horner by State Representative Arnold L. Lund. He demands that the governor disavow and stop the shakedown campaign being conducted by the Illinoisans, Democratic campaign fund agency for which Stone is an agent.

This is a proper demand. Gov. Horner is responsible for the shakedowns. They are directed, in defiance against the law, against state civil service employés. It has been established that the solicitors are paid for their lawbreaking activities by the governor's campaign manager, F. Lynden Smith, who as a state official also broke the law by engaging in the campaign.

Gov. Horner has announced his receptivity to a third term. Thus he is the expected beneficiary of these 2 per cent grafters. He cannot evade his responsibility by any mere disavowal of connection with the campaign. To clear his own reputation he must stop it. He controls the institutions in which it is being conducted. It would not be going on without his consent, active or passive, and everybody in this state with the slightest understanding of politics understands this.

Meanwhile, state's attorneys thruout Illinois have before them indications of widespread violations of the civil service act by the Illinoisans. They should seek indictments.

Stone, the shakedown artist operating in Joliet, claims he is no longer a state employé. He says he has a leave of absence. This is a flimsy attempt to evade the law, but it is largely immaterial beside the outright violations in which other state employés are obviously indulging to assist Stone.

The shakedown collectors first operated within the walls of state institutions, with the assistance of A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare. When this crime was disclosed, they moved to points outside the institutions, and employés appeared there to make their enforced contributions.

No sensible person believes that the employés are so imbued with generosity that they will voluntarily hunt down their oppressors in order to force contributions on them. Some one among their bosses is telling them where to go, and telling them on an "or else" basis. It should not be difficult for grand juries to determine who are thus violating the law. If they will call all the state civil service employés before them, some of the shakedown victims will spill the beans.

THE ONE THING THEY FEAR.

The shaken manner in which the killer Russell faced a death sentence recently in federal court was noticeable. Russell is a hardened criminal. Long prison sentences for previous crimes had failed to deter him from further offenses. The spectacle of his frantic last plea to Judge Woodward was certainly not a pleasant one to any one who witnessed it or read of it, but it was instructive. The one penalty that puts fear into the heart of the professional criminal is death.

BYPRODUCT OF A BROADCAST.

Old Grandpappy Line Book was first published in 1924, and maybe Richard Henry Little edited it, but another Mr. Little, Malcolm of the business survey department, might have been named as collaborator, for he stood over R. H. L. with a club while the job was in progress. He also drew the cover design. [James Cleary, then head of the business survey department, had the inspiration for the book.] . . . The issues from 1926 to 1935 carry the name of Shelby Little as editor; she was [and is] R. H. L.'s wife. He found her among his contributors under the name of "Helen Henna." . . . William C. Shinnick conducted the column and edited the book in 1936 and 1937; the composing room still says of him, "He knew how to make up a Line Book."

The Line Book of 1939 can be called the first all-Collins production. True, we prepared last year's also, but we had been Linemastering only two months then, and much of the year's material had not felt the caress of our blue pencil. . . . It is also the first that has carried a prolog and epilog in rhyme on the inside of the cover pages. . . . One of the contributors, Floyd E. [Niminy-Piminy] Nims, died after the book had gone to press. See page 5; his biography. . . . You can find other examples of his ingenuity in the Line Museum, on exhibition in the show window of the Tribune Tower—a hitch-hiker's license for Oklahoma, and a booklet on the "type louse." Mr. Nims was a printer.

ON THE LINE BOOK COVER.

He floats through the air with the greatest of ease,
Our mustached Linemaster, adrift in the breeze!
He spreads far and wide in a nonchalant way
The verses and prose that are sent him each day.
Though fixed (like Mohammed) 'twixt heaven and earth
He grants to the universe laughter and mirth,
Till music's sweet spirit's beguiled from her lyre
And Cupid abandons his bow and attire!
Even Mars is intrigued and lays down his sword
And the weary old moon forgets to be bored.
Ah! May our Mr. Pepys never need to descend,
May his umbrellachute stay unused to the end;
May the flag in the tower wave on as a sign
That joy and good humor still live in the Line!

The Earliest Co-ed Story.

"A Short History of Co-education" [Nov. 29] had one very slight mistake—James Harris Fairchild was the third and not the first president of Oberlin, but he was connected with the college for 65 years as student, teacher, and president.

The first president was Asa Mahan, and the second was Charles G. Finney. The latter is supposed to have said to a too frivolous co-ed, "Good morning, child of the devil!" to which she replied, "Good morning, father!" A. F. S.

Inside Information on Haggis.

The official description of a haggis, as issued by the Illinois St. Andrew society, is:

In other words, a kind of meat pudding. Get yourself a dictionary of Scots dialect and work out the details.

When the sons of St. Andrew meet in formal session it is "servit on a mucket ashet wi' a' the honors."

Toll the Bells for Dave Lewis.

Your "Old Timer" is all wet about Dave Lewis [Dec. 1]. He was never at the Gay Nineties in New York. That was Joe Howard. Dave died in New York several years ago, and for 15 years before his death he was a company manager. His last visit to Chicago was as manager of Joe Weber's "The Only Girl." Bert Cowdrey.

SONNETS TO SUPERMEN—III.

[Solomon, 1000 B. C.]

Their world so young to us, to them was old
In that far time when Solomon was king;
Three thousand years ago he loved and told
Poetic proverbs with prophetic ring.
Three thousand years ere that it well was known
That justice outweighed rubies, and that pearls
Of greatest price with lesser luster shone
Than honest words in season; that Jovian curls
Cannot redeem the bony witted pate,
Nor paint restore pulsation to the cheek,
Nor broken promise miss the curse of hate,
Nor shortened measures win the prize they seek.
But on we amble down the antique road,

The Technique of Jack Frost.

The part that Jack Frost plays in producing brilliant autumnal colors seems to be bothering a lot of people who no longer believe in Santa Claus.

The forestry experts tell me that there are three color groups involved in foliage coloration: the chlorophyll that provides the green, the carotinoids that give various shades of yellow, and the anthocyan that produces the reds and blues.

That as the days get shorter the chlorophyll production gradually ceases and the yellows of the carotins become conspicuously unmasked. That the anthocyan pigments are a form of sugar which is normally translocated from the leaves as rapidly as formed when the weather is warm and bright, but which accumulate there when the sap movement slows down due to sudden frosts and cold nights. Roberts Mann.

THAT COUGH: RUN DOWN THE CAUSE.

COUGHING is a popular pastime and there is an old saying that there is nothing quite so bad for a cough as "coffin." As with many other signs of trouble it may mean but little. On the other hand, recurring bouts should not be allowed to pass without investigation. In a recent study of a large number of those with chronic ailments this manifestation was listed by 17 of every 100.

Occasionally one may indulge in a mild, suppressed clearing of the throat which may be put down as a mere reflex. This may be used to attract attention or to announce one's presence. Employed by toastmasters to introduce themselves, it may also evidence relief. During the playing of a symphony every person in the audience may be as quiet as a mouse but after the applause has died away a mild crop of "woofs" will ripple over the assemblage.

Now, the chief mechanism involved is the glottis which—when closed—prevents air from leaving the lungs. Pressure on the chest wall and the diaphragm if released suddenly with the trachea open will produce the "hack." A column of air is thus blown out of the mouth, carrying with it certain secretions from the throat and the bronchial tubes.

Violent coughing may do considerable harm. In such circumstances severe strain is placed upon the bronchial channels as well as upon the delicate air sacs. This is one of the best ways we know of to overstretch the lungs and it explains why physicians give drugs, such as cough mixtures, for the purpose of thinning the mucus and diminishing the frequency of the explosions.

Heart disease may lie at the bottom of the phenomenon. As the pumping organ loses its aforetime power a good deal of congestion may ensue. Thus, shortness of breath and stagnation of blood in the lungs, stomach, and liver give rise to a chronic, habitual "bark" that may be taken for tuberculosis. Now and then one of these cardiac victims will be established in a sanitarium for tuberculosis and considerable recovery time may be lost because the heart is not identified as the culprit. Sometimes the symptom will hang on after an attack of influenza just because the patient has not remained in bed long enough to repair his injured pump.

Contrary to common belief, many of those with tuberculosis of the lungs will not cough at all. Inroads of the disease upon the fine air cells may be quite substantial before enough secretion is poured out into the bronchi to cause trouble. Nowadays the emphasis upon the early recognition of this malady has led to numerous X-ray studies and rarely will the condition be overlooked. But it may be mistaken for a chronic bronchitis because once the tubes become filled with exudate [secretion] they will attempt to get rid of it. Other indications may be almost identical—fatigue, chest pain, loss of weight, and some afternoon temperature. Only the failure to find the tubercle bacilli and careful X-ray studies will determine the diagnosis.

Ordinarily a chronic head cold or sinus infection will be accompanied by this manifestation. In fact, the chances are that germs growing within the skull spaces, if of long standing, will affect the lymph glands about the bronchi with a fair amount of thickening [fibrosis] of the lungs themselves. The case is cited of a 26 year old nurse who complained that she tired easily and suffered from a persistent cough, altho but little phlegm was expectorated. A chest examination proved negative—no evidence of tuberculosis, and no difficulty with breathing. X-ray plates, however, disclosed that the maxillary sinuses [within the cheek bones] were definitely responsible. As soon as drainage was established from these areas all discomfort disappeared. Many examples of this kind are encountered routinely.

Of course, the common cold is always an offender but, as a rule, this passes in a short time. But should the annoyance last for more than two weeks we will save ourselves a lot of grief by instituting a hunt for the true cause.

BLAME GRANDPA.

REPLY.

Just an old family custom over which you have no control. Blame your grandparents. Nothing can or need be done.

YOU'RE LUCKY.

J. C. writes: In an article on pyorrhea you mention scraping away tartar from the teeth. Whenever I go to the dentist I ask him about removing this tartar and he says I don't have any. Is it possible that some persons are not troubled in this way?

REPLY.

Yes. You are fortunate.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Dec. 7, 1914.

[132d day of world war; 98th day of present war.]

LONDON.—The allies continue to push forward in Flanders and northern France, but the Germans explain that they are giving ground for tactical and strategical reasons. The advance seems to have been checked on the outskirts of Langemarck.

BERLIN.—The German army evacuated Vermelles, southeast of Bethune, last night because of the continuous French artillery fire. The remaining buildings were blown up by the departing troops.

NISH.—The Serbian war office reports the Austrians have been repulsed, with the capture of 2,400 men, a large quantity of booty, 18 officers, and four complete batteries.

BERLIN.—It is officially announced that the Germans occupied Lodz. The series of battles for the possession of railways leading thru northern Poland to Warsaw continues without abatement.

PETROGRAD.—King Nicholas of Montenegro has telegraphed that a third of his army has fallen on the battlefield. The war strength of the Montenegrin army is estimated at approximately 50,000.

WHAT SAY, CANDIDATES?

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 5.—Soon the public will be in a foment and a frenzy over a presidential campaign. The "European war" propaganda will cease as it now begins—not to be of much interest.

Remember, candidates: Hoover and Roosevelt have records of rank failure. "Good-by, Herbert and Frank." Remember the great parties are no longer considered of divine ordination, so cut out party criticism—and praise. Tell the voters definitely—no evasion—no glittering generalities—what you offer as an effective solution of:

The old age problem.
The quantitative money problem.

What have you, Mr. Candidate, to offer as permanent solution of the four problems? With factories and farms running full blast, every worker employed—no weekly salary less than $25, and plenty of sound money to do this—even if we issued some currency upon the gold buried like a "dog buries a bone"—we might get a good start. What do you say, candidate?

ELMON ARMSTRONG.

TIME FOR TEMPORIZING PAST.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—The insolence and stupidity of the communist rag, the New York Daily Worker, in placing on the American government blame for the murderous attack upon peaceful little Finland by the hordes of Red Russians should awaken every red blooded, liberty loving patriot here to the menace which lurks within our gates.

Our people and our government at Washington have viewed with too great patience the treasonable activities of subversive movements. The time for temporizing with the avowed enemies of our government and its institutions has long since passed. Action is needed. At the opening of congress in January the patriotic people must demand passage of legislation which will drive out of existence communist and other subversive movements. Meanwhile the leaders of American labor can do much. Let John L. Lewis of the C. I. O. actually put into effect his much heralded purge of communists from his unions. As yet, not one outstanding Red leader has been ousted and Lewis knows they are there.

Patriotic citizens ought to make it a point to be present at all communist meetings and demonstrations. They should go there prepared to see that our laws are lived up to, and to remind the Red agitators that "Liberty Is Not License."

FUND TAXABLE AS INCOME?

Chicago, Dec. 2.—I saw the state civil service commission on Nov. 14 ordered an inquiry into charges that state employés are forced to contribute 2 per cent of their salaries to the "Illinoisans." Have seen nothing further about it and so I submit the following:

Use $150 as the average monthly salary of state employés. There are approximately 10,000 state employés assessed 2 per cent of salary by a Democratic campaign fund raising unit.

For the first year and a half period of assessments the state employés would have "kicked in" with $540,000.

Then there is another two year period of assessment at 2 per cent of salary now in process of liquidation, which would amount to $720,000, totaling altogether $1,260,000.

Has the Democratic campaign fund raising unit filed any income tax returns on the 2 per cent assessed the state employés, or is that grand total tax exempt?

W. H. BLACKBURN.

OUR DIPLOMATIC ANTICS.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—I wonder why our state department hesitates to break off diplomatic relations with Russia when it practically jumped the gun to do it in the case of Germany. Is it that they think Russia wages more civilized warfare than Germany, or that it would be better for us if Russia swallows Germany and dominates Europe? And where will our world trade go if England has to scramble for all that Russia leaves?

I also wonder whether it occurs to anybody that we have tacitly acknowledged the legality of the use of poison gas in warfare [which Russia now threatens to use in Finland] by lifting the arms embargo, thus permitting the sale of poison gas to anybody who has the cash?

LESLY READ.

ARE WE COLONIAL?

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Why doesn't our government protest to England against the confiscating of American mail? Twenty-one sacks taken off a Dutch steamer; 27 sacks from an American steamer, etc.

It seems that whatever the British do—even if insulting to our merchant marine and flag—is all right with our present government.

We protested the City of Flint affair most emphatically, but not one word about the almost daily insult to our flag and people by the British navy.

MISS W. OLSON.

WANT NO THIRD TERM.

Chaska, Minn., Dec. 2.—If Mr. Roosevelt thinks he is kidding the country on the third term idea he is badly mistaken, in my opinion. The American people [outside of the officeholders] do not want any man for a third term. They do not wish any more of his personal whims at public expense. They are satisfied with their constitution and Supreme court. They like their old Thanksgiving date set many years ago.

My greatest regret is that I voted for him the first time. J. W. I.

WHAT ABOUT BRICKER?

Chicago, Dec. 5.—In your current dispatches in THE TRIBUNE, reporting the relief situation in Ohio, I notice there is one man in that state who can't be stampeded into trading the rights of the people to the radicals and the relief racketeers.

Can it be possible that the Republican party is overlooking a bet? It seems to me that Gov. Bricker would make a strong candidate for President. Let's hear more about this man. C. E. A.

CARRYING SMALL PACKAGES.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—With the Christmas season coming on we see signs in the stores: "Please carry all small packages."

I wonder if people realize that by carrying any packages they are depriving some one of work.

Our slogan should be: "Send all packages and make work for more delivery boys and drivers." MRS. W. G. K.

GOOD FELLOWS WILL GET THEIR BUTTONS TODAY

Good Fellow button.

This morning the first of 5,000 Good Fellow buttons, signifying that the wearer is a contributor to the Good Fellow fund, are being received in thousands of Chicago homes.

The buttons are 1 inch in diameter. On a white background is a green silhouette of Santa Claus and the words, "Good Fellow, 1939," in red and green. The first shipment of the buttons, which are something new in the 30 year history of the Tribune's Good Fellow plan, arrived at the Tribune's Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street on Tuesday.

First Private Distribution.

Already the Traffic Club of Chicago, the Dyeing and Cleaning Plant Owners' association, and other organizations which serve as Good Fellows have received their buttons, but today's mail delivery is the first general distribution to private contributors. Both Basket Good Fellows and General Good Fellows will receive buttons, as will the Club Good Fellows.

The Chicago Rotary club is to receive its buttons today for its contribution of 300 Good Fellow baskets to needy families of Chicago. Of these families 200 were listed by the Good Fellow department, according to Herbert Taylor, president of the club, the remaining 100 families having been found independently by Rotary club members.

Always a Strong Contributor.

This club has been a strong contributor to the Good Fellow campaign ever since its founding in 1910, and to a considerable extent this is due to the generosity of its member, Byron O. Jones, who now at 68 is known as Chicago's Good Fellow No. 1. As chairman of the Sunshine committee of the Rotary club, Jones has given freely of his time not only every Christmas but thruout other seasons toward helping needy families. He began distributing Christmas baskets when he was a young salesman of piano stools in 1889.

The Good Fellow office has complete information on file concerning the families that need help. It receives its information directly from the Christmas bureau of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies, which is a sort of clearing house of 127 charity organizations in the city area.

The needy families investigated and found most deserving by workers for the 127 agencies are later studied by the Christmas bureau to eliminate duplications. The families then are sorted according to need and passed on to the Tribune's Good Fellow department for assignment to Good Fellows.

AFFIRM SENTENCE OF LOTTERY KING FOR TAX FRAUD

The conviction of Abraham F. Zimmerman, so-called king of the lotteries, on a charge of income tax evasion, was affirmed yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Zimmerman was sentenced last Jan. 20 to 20 months in the Leavenworth penitentiary and ordered to pay a fine of $2,000. He was charged with evading payment of $36,250 in taxes for 1930 and 1931.

Zimmerman, at liberty in $25,000 bond, on Tuesday waived examination before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker and was released on additional bond of $35,000 for appearance in Boston tomorrow in connection with a $20,000,000 lottery ring involving the former Will Rogers Memorial hospital in Chicago.

Austin Hall, assistant district attorney who conducted the case against Zimmerman, said yesterday Zimmerman would be taken into custody, possibly in Boston, and transported to Leavenworth when Judge Philip L. Sullivan, who sentenced him, issues a mittimus.

Supreme Court to Decide City's Highway Bond Plan

The Illinois Supreme court at Springfield agreed yesterday to test the validity of Chicago's proposed $60,000,000 bond plan for super highways. The court allowed the city to file a friendly suit to compel State Auditor Edward J. Barrett to certify a $100,000 motor fuel tax note issued as part of the program.

CIO STEPS UP ITS WAR ON A. F. OF L. BUILDING TRADES

Lewis Tells Lieutenants to Show No Quarter.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—A new struggle in the ranks of American labor loomed today as President Roosevelt met with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, to canvass the prospects of peace between the federation and the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Their conference lasted nearly an hour.

William Green.

The war tocsin was sounded by John L. Lewis, dictator of the C. I. O., in a letter to his regional directors urging them to give full support to the organization's campaign to invade the building trades industry, now dominated by the A. F. of L.

Demands "No Weakness."

"Let no feeling of consideration for the adversaries of our movement weaken your resolve nor lessen your efforts," Lewis wrote. "Our movement derives its support from its own members, and our first obligation is one of loyalty to our own objectives, our own ideals, and our own membership."

The C. I. O. campaign in the building trades, which began with the formation of the United Construction Workers' Organizing committee on Aug. 1, brings the C. I. O. into collision with the A. F. of L.

A. F. of L. Ready to Parley.

At the White House Green said he had called to reassure the President that the federation still stands ready to meet at any time and any place the C. I. O. peace negotiating committee.

Mr. Roosevelt is interested in effecting peace because he feels that, without united labor, Democratic prospects in the 1940 presidential race will be dim, regardless of whether he himself is a candidate.

Green said he asked for the conference with President Roosevelt. He said that the question of the government's antitrust suits against his organization had not been discussed with the President.

TEAMSTER UNION DENIED WRIT ON PLOT CHARGES

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday denied an injunction to the Chicago Teamsters', Truck and Tractor Drivers' and Helpers' union, but allowed 20 days for an amended bill to be filed. The union sought to restrain seven officers of the Chicago Teamsters' council from conspiring to destroy the union. Members of the council, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, were accused of eight acts of violence. The union claims a membership of 600, [illegible] of whom are employed by the [illegible] Judge Sullivan ruled that the bill did not contain the proper allegation that local officials were unable or unwilling to provide proper police protection, as required by law.

ICKES WIRES FOR RECORDS IN ROW WITH U. S. JUDGE

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 6 (AP).—Transcript of part of the proceedings in the Allred-Powers hot oil trial at Houston last month was sent to Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes today in Washington in response to a wire from him.

The transcript was prepared by J. A. Feagin, court reporter, who received a request from Ickes for a copy of all proceedings on Monday at Houston.

Ickes recently criticized Federal Judge James C. Wilson for "terminating the trial without allowing the government to present the evidence which the government had assembled." Judge Wilson replied that Secretary Ickes was in error and "I am sure when he learns the facts he will make a correction statement and apologize for the very great injustice done me."

USES BOY SCOUT TRAINING; SAVES NEIGHBOR'S LIFE

Elmer Johnson.

Senger was overcome by carbon monoxide fumes while trying to adjust the carburetor of his automobile in the garage behind his home. In falling, he struck his head on the concrete floor. Some small boys summoned Scout Johnson.

He used artificial respiration on the unconscious man for eight minutes before an inhalator squad directed by Acting Lieutenant John Widmann arrived. Senger was revived after another 40 minutes. The squad members gave full credit to Scout Johnson for his prompt use of expert methods. He lives at 5713 Henderson street.

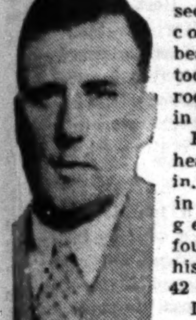
FIND SECRETARY OF N. Y. GERMAN CONSULATE SLAIN

Victim a Former Chicago Office Employe.

New York, Dec. 6 [Special].—Attachés of the German consulate general found Walter Engelberg, secretary to the consul general, beaten to death today in the bedroom of his home in Brooklyn.



Walter Engelberg.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Engelberg's head was bashed in. Clothed only in pajamas, Engelberg was found lying on his bed. He was 42 years old.

District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan asked the police to broadcast an alarm for an unidentified man of small build who had been living with Engelberg.

Consider Revenge Theory.

Detectives also were working on the theory that Engelberg may have been killed by some one embittered by the actions of the German government in Europe or by some one who had suffered or whose relatives had suffered from Nazi deeds.

They said that it seemed obvious that robbery had not been the motive of the crime. None of the valuables in the house had been disturbed.

The murder was discovered after Engelberg failed to report for work this morning. Consulate attachés received no answer to telephone calls and went to his home to see what was wrong.

Many Visitors at Night.

The Engelberg home is in a good neighborhood in Brooklyn. Engelberg and a friend took the house last February and soon aroused gossip among the neighbors. There was a procession of visitors at all hours, most of them at night.

Several neighbors became extremely suspicious of the Engelberg household and one of them circulated a petition protesting against the conduct of the place.

Another neighbor notified the federal bureau of investigation that Engelberg was a suspicious character and had suspicious friends. F. B. I. agents were sent to observe the house and kept it, Engelberg, his friend and the visitors under observation for several days.

Apparently when the call was made the F. B. I. agents decided that Engelberg was an ordinary employé of the consulate general.

Engelberg was on the staff of the German consulate in Chicago when he first came to this country from Athens, Greece, about a year ago.

Engelberg was born in Hamburg.

FLORIDA WOMAN SLAIN; NEIGHBOR CONFESSES GUILT

St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP).—The brutally beaten body of Mrs. George E. Mosher, 45 years old, a Gulfport housewife, was found on an isolated road about a mile from her home today, and Constable Todd Tucker announced tonight that I. E. Hawley, a neighbor, had made a verbal confession of the slaying.

Police Captain Is Heard by Federal Jury.

The federal grand jury turned its attention yesterday to the gambling gentry in the higher brackets who operate on the Gold Coast on the near north side. Here the joints have plush upholstery and polite attendants.

The jurors, attempting to learn whether the government is getting its proper cut from gamblers' incomes, want to know what their "take" is, and who pays how much protection money to whom.

Police Captain Appears.

The chief witness yesterday was Capt. Thomas Harrison of the Chicago avenue station. He is charged with enforcing the law on the near north side. He was seen leaving the jury room on the fourth floor of the United States court house, but he avoided interviewers.

Before he departed, a government official walked out in the corridor and looked in all directions. Then the door was opened a crack, and the captain hurried to the nearest stairway as reporters ran up. When Capt. Harrison reached the second floor, he found his ruse to avoid identification had failed.

A score of patrolmen who were waiting to take examinations for permits to operate police radios spotted him and chorused:

15 New Subpenas Issued.

Several operators of the swankier Gold Coast casinos were reported among the latest witnesses summoned by the jury. Fifteen new subpenas were issued yesterday, bringing the total thus far in the inquiry to 35.

One summons reputedly was for George Turner, former operator on the near north side, but more recently employed to run a joint on Skokie highway for Bill Johnson, known as Chicago's gambling boss. Johnson is one of the few operators that the government officials will admit is under investigation. Another subpena is said to have been issued for Bill Donovan, operator of a handbook in the vicinity of Michigan avenue and Ohio street.

The Chicago Turf Bulletin and Sports Record, a horse racing publication, yesterday discontinued giving out race results over the telephone to handbook operators and the general public. This was done, it was announced, at the request of State's Attorney Courtney. It is another step in the campaign to shut off sources of information from bookie joints. The Bulletin is operated by John and James Flannagan, rivals in this field of M. L. Annenberg, who recently dissolved his race information service.

POLITE BANDIT TAKES $30.

A polite young bandit with a southern accent entered a lunchroom at 2053 Howard street yesterday, waved a gun at John Lurtz, the proprietor, took $30, then tipped his hat and walked out.

3 YOUNG TOUGHS GO ON TRIAL FOR SALOON KILLING

Three young hoodlums, who graduated from petty thievery to murder, yesterday went on trial for their lives before Judge John F. Bolton and a jury of eight women and four men. It was the first time that a mixed jury in the Criminal court had been qualified to inflict the death penalty.

After an extended crime foray, the state charged, the three toughs shot up a tavern at 1859 North Washtenaw avenue on Oct. 13 in an attempted robbery. Viggo Peter Peterson, 64 years old, 2650 Cortland street, a customer in the tavern, was shot and killed.

Those on trial for his murder are Victor Nukowski, 24, who allegedly fired the fatal shots; Frank Michalowski, 25, and Henry Drewek, 22. All have Bridewell records. Nukowski served a three year auto theft sentence in the Pontiac reformatory, being paroled in 1934.

Judge Releases Slayer of Daughter's Annoyer

Leo Cudia, 42 years old, 2523 Lexington street, who shot and killled Roy Warner, 25, of 208 South Whipple street, for attempting to take liberties with Cudia's daughter, 14, was freed of a murder charge yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in the Felony court. Cudia had been exonerated previously by a coroner's jury after testimony indicated he fired in self-defense. The state maintained it had no additional evidence on which to prosecute.

SOLUTION IN SLAYING OF UNION PRESSMAN NEAR, POLICE REPORT

Investigators were confident last night that they were nearing a solution of the murder of Paul Peters, union printing pressman who was shot to death Oct. 31 in front of his home at 3505 North Oak Park avenue.

"The man who drove the car in which the killer escaped is known to us," said Acting Captain John Walsh of the Jefferson Park police. "His home is under guard and we think it's only a question of time until we get him. Our men have done a lot of work on the case and are coöperating with the state's attorney."

Peters was a member of a minority faction in the pressmen's union which is headed by former Senator George L. Berry of Tennessee. His killing was one of seven in Chicago in the last 22 months that were attributed to labor troubles. None has been solved.

Sentenced to County Jail for His Letters to Jury

Harrison Parker was found in contempt of court yesterday by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court. He was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail. The judge held that a series of letters sent by Parker to various grand juries constituted contempt. A motion to vacate the order was continued to Dec. 15 to allow the formal finding to be entered and to allow Parker to perfect an appeal.

KANSAS FELONS FOILED BY GUARD IN ESCAPE PLOT

Lansing, Kas., Dec. 6 (AP).—Bullets fired over their heads by an alert guard frustrated an escape attempt by 12 state penitentiary convicts today after they had seized four prison officers. No one was injured.

Armed with two crude guns, several knives, hammers, and clubs and carrying a ladder, the convicts were within 100 feet of the southeast wall when Guard Ralph Sanders spotted them and fired.

The prisoners hesitated, but two of them attacked the hostages with knives. The others scattered and held up their hands in surrender. Guards quickly subdued the attackers.

Burglars Loot Dress Shop of Its Christmas Stock

Burglars who entered the dress shop of Miss Elizabeth Rudix at 5302 Milwaukee avenue last night cleared out a Christmas stock of 125 dresses, 240 pairs of hose, and a quantity of lingerie. Miss Rudix estimated the loss at $455.

Visiting Maestro.

A rumor that Arturo Toscanini had spent the day in Chicago, lunching, and dining, and talking music with friends, reached our ears. . . . It was true. The great conductor arrived from the east in the morning, went out to see his great friends, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Cottle—she is Pianist Gitta Gradova—and spent the day with them. The Cottles took Toscanini and Rosa Raisa and Rimini to their favorite club for special spaghetti (the Cottles had Rachmaninoff and Horowitz there several weeks ago), they stopped in at the Riminis' music studio, giving a tremendous thrill to some music students, then went back to the Cottles' apartment for more talk and music.

• • •

Those who heard that talk dwell on Toscanini's great modesty, his gentleness, his lovable human qualities. The Cottles' 6 year old daughter, Judy, brought him her violin. . . . He told of having played violin when he was 18 for John Barbirolli's grandfather, who was a concertmaster in Italy. The piece was Vieuxtemps' concerto.

"Beethoven couldn't have wanted this played that way," he said once after playing a phrase.

• • •

Toscanini left that evening for California to visit his daughter, Wanda Horowitz, his son-in-law, and his beloved grandchild. He left behind him a kind of spiritual vivification in those with whom he had come in contact, a new faith in a troubled world. Also a ealization that it is important for people to keep working and not to allow a conception of years to get them down.

"I am not 72," said Toscanini. "I carry 36 years—on each shoulder."

Small Note.

Two nice looking old ladies stood like children looking at the reindeer decorations in a loop department store, their fingers interlocked. Myrtle Lemster-Wells, who was observing them, saw one lean closer to the other and heard her say, "Baltimore will seem like a hick town after this." As they pushed past her she got a whiff of sherry.

Shops Make It Easy for Men Buying Gifts

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The way of the masculine shopper is made smooth and easy with a couple of bright ideas sponsored by understanding promotionists. The first—gift secretaries, wizards at the art of untangling problems, guessing right nine times out of ten, and spending the money offered with deadly accuracy in gathering all the gifts you need while you take it easy.

All you do is phone, write, or call with the list and the approximate sum set aside for such items and the gift secretaries do the rest, even wrapping the loot in festive glory if you desire. Such a service is free and unquestionably the greatest contribution toward peace and sanity any shy or bewildered male shopper ever needed.

If you, however, like the mad frenzy of the busy throngs; if you crave the fun of dithering over what you should spend your money for, but also need a quiet haven among your own kind, try the exclusive "gift shops for men." Special spots or hideaways, just for the use of masculine shoppers hunting for feminine doo-dads or luxuries, as well as the necessities all so welcome in a Christmas box.

These strongholds are staffed with feminine advisers . . . with expert knowledge as to the whims and fancies of their sex. Sizes, colors, materials, combines, and such pernickety information is ready for the most difficult problem . . . capricious ladies have been known to gloat unbelievingly over the perfect gifts sent from these shops.

Such shops are stocked with lingerie, house coats, sweaters, hosiery, tons of costume jewelry, bed jackets, fine suede ensembles, glittering dress parade jackets, perfume, vanities, books, and even the intimate pieces of bric-à-brac destined for pastel tinted boudoirs; clever sports costumes, fine luggage, glamorous gloves.

Concert and Dinner Will Mark Jubilee of Garment Union

The Chicago joint board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union expects more than 1,000 persons at a concert Saturday in Orchestra hall and a dinner Sunday in the Palmer House. These events will commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the Cloakmakers' union in Chicago and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Chicago joint board. Vivian Della Chiesa, soprano; Kurt Baum, tenor, and Carl Alvin, pianist, of the Chicago Opera company, and David Moll, violinist, will be heard at the concert.

These Gift Sets contain charm aids through all of which glows the "jewel" fragrance—Emeraude. In rich cases of Persian design. Many choices, from $2 to $12. This one $3.95.

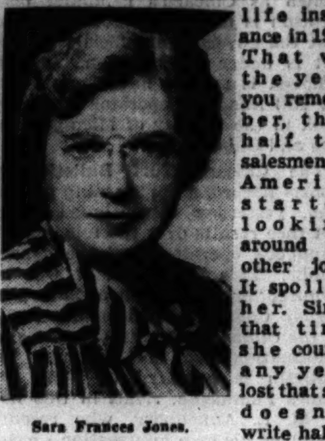
How a Woman Won Fame in Life Insurance

This is one of a series of articles on prominent business women of Chicago.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

Sara Frances Jones is the woman who sold a million dollars worth of life insurance in 1930. That was the year, you remember, that half the salesmen in America started looking around for other jobs. It spoiled her. Since that time she counts any year lost that she doesn't write half a million dollars more "protection" for her friends.



Sara Frances Jones.

Sara Frances is a whirlwind, a brilliant, impulsive cheerful dynamo who never stops from morning till night, and never gives up.

"I work hard, and I play hard" she says, "I love my work with a passion. I love my friends, and I love my home. No one has ever called me reserved, except in dress. I am temperamental, I am sensitive to atmosphere, and I'm certainly not a cautious, timid soul. But I think I have learned to have consideration for other people.

"I adore to travel, I must have good clothes, and I won't abide those bedroom slipper shoes women have been wearing—not even on my secretary. I like music, and particularly the Chicago Woman's symphony. I lean to the color blue, and I don't have time to learn to cook. But I could. I could if I had time. A person can do anything he tries to do!

"I play golf at Flossmoor Country club, and my score, well—it's dramatic, 'way up or 'way down. I ride. Right now I'm reading only books on international affairs, but I like biography in quieter times. I served overseas in the last war, and I'm not a joiner. I live at 25 East Delaware place. Anything else?"

But that's enough to explain the reason for the success that has come to this light haired, gracious woman who at middle age is riding the crest of insurance salesmanship. If there is a single key to her accomplishments, it is her own fascination with the good she can do her clients.

"Of course, I handle big accounts, planned estates, and such," she says, "but the real romance is in the little policies—the ones that you see grow and develop, and then you see them later, secure because they believed in you! It's wonderful!"

Miss Jones has been with the Equitable Life Assurance society since she was 16 years old, and left it only once for a short time during the world war. She began selling insurance in 1911, when, she says, she had only nuisance value, and men laughed at her conviction that here was an open field for women.

Now, she says, women have a far greater chance for success in business than years ago, and should recognize their obligation to men for their work as pioneers in industry. She believes that women have arrived in the world of business, but must work shoulder to shoulder with men and ask no quarter if they are to progress.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Rouge, lipstick, and powder are smart and practical gifts. You don't need to worry about shades if you know the costume color the lady likes best. A box of makeup aids, in red and gold finish, is an inexpensive, exciting, and useful present.

Time was when you'd hesitate to present a woman with powder, rouge, and lipstick as a gift. You felt she wore only one shade and if your choice were a different one she'd have a white elephant on her hands.

Nowadays you can be morally certain that she'd like to own more than one shade. She can't have too many, because she likes to change her makeup color when she changes her costume color. So don't be afraid to give gift sets of makeup aids. She'll love 'em.

We know we'd like to receive a set such as is now in the shops. The lipstick is famous for its good colors and its clinging qualities. For Christmas, it is beautifully boxed with a stunning gold metal box of face powder and a scarlet and gilt rouge container, in a most attractive case.

The rouge is the dry variety, in colors that match the lipsticks. The powder is fluffy and soft but sticks well and it, too, is in lovely shades. The powder is harmonized with the selected rouge and lipstick shades. And to make a shade selection when you're gift shopping all you need know is the costume color your lady-love wears most frequently.

The set and the individual rouge, powder and lipstick containers are very well styled. The little scarlet and gold rouge containers are especially stunning. But the prices are reasonable as can be. You'll find these sets in a couple of the shops and we know you'll think them a smart, but completely practical, gift.

Making Gifts for Father Is Important, Too

(Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

If you read this column regularly you know how much I believe in children partaking wholeheartedly of the spirit of Christmas, not only in its fun and feasting and the delight of receiving, but in the "giving" side of Christmas, in saving from their allowances, in planning and shopping. Best of all, I believe in making gifts for their nearest and dearest. There's something special about a gift that involves one or all of those preparations, but most especially is there something about a present that is the work of a child's hands.

It may be a lopsided green tree pasted on a red card by the smallest son, or a smudged silver star with a rather cockeyed Merry Christmas staggering across the paper below it; or it may be a button bag with very big and crooked stitches; or it may be a swell piece of carpentry all sandpapered and shellacked and rubbed down. But if it is the result of loving labor, it has, to my mind, a very special value.

There are, I know, a great many mothers who agree with me about this, but how many, I wonder, who have made it a point to see that the children's father comes into their plans? So many men, devoted to their families and specially generous with them at Christmas time, are entirely self-effacing when it comes to gifts for themselves. They toss it aside when Bill says, "Dad, what would you like for a present," with "Oh never mind about me—there's nothing I want," or, "I don't care about presents—make something for your mother."

Now I believe fathers are just as touched and delighted when they receive gifts as any woman, only they don't show it. Even their wives don't always realize this, but they should. There's no excuse for father being left out. All that is needed is the right thought in Mother's mind. For children love to give and should do just as much planning and work for their dad as for their mother. We have suggestions if you want them as to gifts the children may make.

And now for the other side of the picture, which is also the sequel to yesterday's article. As you may remember, I was talking about the special delight of children who receive presents their mother has made for them, even tho they may not be articulate about the feeling. This is quite as true regarding presents father has made.

The man who enjoys using his hands should experiment this year, if he hasn't before, in making one or more of the gifts his children are to receive. He'll get a great deal of satisfaction himself out of doing it, I believe, and the present will be prized by his children.

'Waist Away' Is Good Motto for Woman Who's Reducing

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Waist away" should be the motto of every woman who's tried on one of the wasp waisted frocks so popular this season and discovered that she cannot zip or fasten that dress opening without a tug and a pull. But how many of you, when you've left the store after buying a dress which does not emphasize too much that "spare tire" around your waist, follow thru with regular waist slimming exercises?

Taking for granted that your intentions are the best, we nevertheless thought we'd encourage you to set a regular exercise schedule for yourself by telling you that the waistline is one of the easiest parts of the body to reduce. Do the following exercises daily for a month or six weeks, and notice the difference in the way you look and feel.

If you need further encouragement, keep a record of your decreasing girth by measuring your waist before you start exercising, and then, at weekly intervals during the entire period. Then, when you have accomplished your purpose, you can let up a little on your schedule, but do not stop exercising entirely.

1. Stand with feet apart, arms at sides. Raise arms to front and keep on raising them overhead and backward, bending the knees and stretching down from waist thru knees, and up from waist to fingertips. Stretch. Relax.

2. Sit on floor, but sit stretched tall from the waistline. Do a sort of forward rowing movement with your hands trying to touch toetips. Forward. Back. And come back further than original position. Ten times to start.

Launch Drive for Benefit of Girls' Mission

BY JUDITH CASS.

At a large luncheon party yesterday at the Casino an intensive drive to sell tickets for the Church Mission of Help benefit on Dec. 29 was launched. That it will be a successful drive, even tho the time is short, seems assured, for there are several good reasons for its being so.

First, the benefit is a performance of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, which is immensely popular in Chicago; second, the CMH, as its members call it, is such a worth while social agency that it numbers its friends by the thousands; and third, the committee in charge is composed of about two dozen efficient women and four men, all of whom are determined to make the benefit a huge success.

The CMH serves the unmarried girl of 16 to 25 years of age, and altho the institution is under the auspices of the Episcopal church, girls of every creed, race and color are cared for. The Community fund makes a grant to the CMH on condition that the agency raise a certain amount. Since much of the work done by the agency is in assisting unmarried mothers and their babies, the church, as such, does not help much toward raising the quota. Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, president of the CMH and co-chairman with Mrs. Fremont A. Chandler of the benefit committee, explained yesterday that the problems caused by illegitimacy are not ones that are faced squarely by the church just now.

Three New Ballets Will Be on Program.

The benefit is to be on Friday evening, Dec. 29, in the Auditorium theater. Three ballets new to Chicago, "Devil's Holiday," "Bacchanale," and "Igrouchki," are on the program, and also the old favorite, "Le Beau Danube."

The surrealist "Bacchanale" will be given its Chicago première that night, but the other two will be given the preceding Wednesday, when the National Council of Jewish Women will sponsor the performance. The one on Tuesday, the 26th, which is the opening night, will be under the council's auspices, too.

John F. Alexander, Paul G. Chace, Frank Parker Davis and Elmer E. Meyer are the masculine members of the benefit committee. Some of the women are Mrs. Duncan H. Browne, Mrs. Loyal Davis, Mrs. Dudley S. Stark, Mrs. Orville Taylor, Mrs. H. Stuart Stone Jr., Mrs. A. Werner Lawson, Mrs. Clarence A. McCarthy, Mrs. Rollin T. Chamberlain, and Mrs. John V. Farwell III.

Practically all of the boxes have been sold already, but there remain most of the main floor seats. They may be secured from any member of the committee.

Mrs. Thorne to Show Tiny Rooms in East.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne, whose newest and prettiest chapeau is decorated with feathers in apple green, rose and yellow, treated to look like hard candy, is going east next week to make final arrangements for the next showing of her famed miniature rooms.

The rooms have been on view at the San Francisco fair. Now they are being packed, and soon they will be sent to Boston or New York. The New York Fair is anxious to have the rooms to show in its art exhibit next year.

Miss Nancy Davis Will Bow Dec. 28.

Dr. and Mrs. Loyal Davis have issued invitations to a tea-dance on Thursday, Dec. 28, from 4 until 7 o'clock at the Casino. The party will be the formal debut of their daughter, Miss Nancy Davis.

Lights Carry Warmth of Christmas Cheer

It's not too early to be planning novel lighting effects in Yuletide spirit. A single candle in your window will beam its cheer to the passing world; a gracious way of extending the friendly, warm spirit of the Christmas season.

Start Holiday Lighting with Definite Plan

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

It's time to be planning our Christmas lighting, if we're to be ready to listen, without rush and hurry, to the soft voiced carols of Christmas eve! For on the morning of "the night before Christmas" we'll be absorbed in turkeys to stuff, last minute presents to be wrapped, last touches to the festive tree. The day before Christmas probably is, for most women, the busiest and most exciting day of the whole year.

Home is the center of all traditional Christmas pleasures and delights and, as our forefathers set a flickering taper on a window sill to extend a lighted welcome to those who passed in the night, we now brighten indoors and outdoors with gracious colorful lighting, and thus "carry on" the age-old Christmas symbol. New ways, perhaps, but ways which are no less sincere and kindly.

A room which sparkles with brilliant lighting, a house with its grounds and doorway given night life and beauty by a few modern methods of exterior illumination, can be achieved inexpensively, if a little thought and effort is expended before the holiday season is right on top of us!

All the traditional symbols of the season, the star, the candle, the wreath, and the tree, will shortly be sparkling with light. And here are a few points to remember in checking over what we have, and shopping for what we need, in the days ahead.

First, make sure that all your lamps have plenty of life in them, so they won't burn out and "die" the first night you use them. Keep a few extra lamps on hand. Insure your-

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This is the story of a lady who loved a magician. And she the daughter of a bishop!

Well—love laughs at other things besides locksmiths, as we all very well know, and so it is in the case of Anita and "The Great Arturo"—Tony to his mother.

Anita is about to be married. And then one fine afternoon she sallies forth to a matinée given by "The Great Arturo," a fascinating fellow, who always graciously meets his women admirers after his shows. . . . Anita trails up with the rest to gaze upon him. Her eyes and those of Tony meet and—magic is wrought.

Next episode shows her married to Tony and assisting in his act. . . . But tho the two love each other madly the marriage doesn't last. . . . Reno. . . . Divorce. . . . Anita marries the man she'd left behind her when she started to roam the world with Tony. . . . Reunion of the lovers because the cards read that way.

The picture is punctuated with thrills made thrillier by trick photography. . . . It's something to cause your hair to stand on end and your palms to perspire to see Tony, handcuffed, drop from a plane 15,000 in the air, free himself while falling, and land all in one piece. Whish! I don't know how they got some of the shots, but get them they did!

The story is rather a preposterous one, but life is that way, too, ofttimes, as most who read well know.

Loretta Young plays with abandon, looking pretty, as is her custom. But I DO get so sick of hearing her shriek "DAHLING!" . . . David Niven is most engaging as the lovable philandering master of legerdemain, who at heart is really just plain Tony, a one woman man. . . . Other players satisfy.

It's all rather exciting, unusual, and entertaining.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 6.—Once a year I go shopping for things to give on Christmas to people I like and yesterday was the appointed day. . . . Full of Christmas cheer, your reporter walked out to the curb where he had left his car and was about to settle himself in the seat when a tag on the wheel attracted attention. . . . It said that the Beverly police department would like to see me within 48 hours to explain why the car was parked in the wrong position, i. e., facing up the street instead of down the street.

With some of the Christmas cheer expunged from his soul, the lawbreaker drove to the police department, and with the fear and trembling that only an honest citizen can experience on coming face to face with John Law explained haltingly that the entire thing was an accident, an oversight, an inexplicable breach of traffic law.

The head man said not to let it happen again and this time the $2 fine would be waived. . . . Whistling "Heigh-Ho, Heigh-Ho," I quitted the station house with the bank roll intact and nothing but high praise in my mind for gendarmes who were such fair fellows.

Gayly and with painstaking regard for the traffic laws, your correspondent drove downtown to the shopping areas. . . . Selecting the store was comparatively easy. Finding a parking space was a horse of another color. . . . Three times I circled the block, hopeful that some other shopper would vacate a curb station. The third time a car started backing out and I drew ahead of him, so that it would be easier to back in. . . . As he backed out a Joe College in a battered tin Lizzie ducked out of traffic and usurped the vacancy.

I glared at him and he grinned back insolently, and Josephine College, who was with him, made a grimace of displeasure. . . . "It's dopes like him," said Joe College, jerking a thumb at me, "who make driving dangerous."

So I parked finally about three blocks distant and walked back to the store. . . . "Something you'd like to see in particular?" asked a floor walker pleasantly. . . . Before I could answer he had rushed to another customer. . . . As I stared at him, amazed at his burst of speed, somebody crashed into me from the rear and bundles cascaded to the floor.

I stooped down to recover them, apologetically, and the floor walker, who had returned with as amazing a burst of speed as he'd left, bent down to help and hit me a terrific crack on the head or noggin with his head. . . . The impact was so sharp that I didn't know whether to get up or stay down and take a full count.

By this time the joint was full of apologies, none of which rang wholly sincere, but the lady's bundles had been restored to her and she lumbered off muttering to herself.

Rubbing the left part of my forearm, I said weakly to the floorwalker who was massaging the right side of his forehead: "I wanna buy a Christmas present." . . . The vagueness of the request didn't upset him. . . . "Or course, of course," he said cheerily, and then with a labored attempt at humor: "You certainly picked out the right time of year for it."

He became conscious that he was being stared at reprovingly. . . . "Now what sort of person do you have in mind?" he asked. . . . I told him that it was a man, about 6 feet tall. . . . "A wrist watch?" he ventured, and to his credit his face didn't change expression when I told him I only wanted to spend about a dollar a foot, $6 in all, for the present. . . . He bustled away to talk to a salesgirl who was arguing with a customer.

Back he charged again. . . . "Handkerchiefs always are in the December mood," he suggested. . . . I told him patiently that this man had received handkerchiefs from me the last three Christmases. . . . "What about neckties?" he asked, "we have some things in from England—regimental colors and stripings. Would he like to have a royal engineer around his neck for the holidays?"

Interpreting the bewilderment this caused, he said hastily: "That is what we call those ties in that rack. They have the royal engineer colors and stripes." . . . "Nothing smarter," he said, "than gloves. Of course, it's a little hot out here for gloves, but—" . . . I said that it was a little hot for gloves. . . . So we compromised: on handkerchiefs. . . . It's always handkerchiefs!!

Probably every man who goes shopping has the same baffled experience, but not the ladies, God bless 'em. . . . At the crack of dawn they take off for the shopping arenas with grim confidence in their bearing. . . . With a trace of sadism the ladies deliberately select gifts which compel them to travel from store to store.

They do it the hard way, whereas the men do it the easy way. . . . Women who scale 118 pounds force their way thru crowds that would stalemate an All-American guard and emerge, hours later, loaded down with bundles. . . . They speak to the floorwalker only once, and then to ask him where is the store lunchroom.

At noon they take time out to destroy a sandwich, and thus fired with vitamin A, B, C, D, and E return to the scrimmage. . . . The entire thing is baffling to me, and in addition I've got a lump on my forehead and eight packages of handkerchiefs.

Fondant variations: Use fondant plain between halved nut meats or as a stuffing for dates. Or form into small balls and roll in chopped nut meats, shredded coconut, grated chocolate, chopped candied fruits. Or flavor variously and form into round flat creams.

Hofer Exhibit Has Paintings of Great Charm

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Arts club, in the Wrigley building, opened two exhibitions yesterday. In the large gallery and the little room opening from it are paintings by Karl Hofer, the contemporary German painter who has been signally honored in America this and last year.

Hofer has been awarded the first prize at the Carnegie International and carried off other honors at other exhibits and now, for the first time, a comprehensive showing of his work is on view.

The exhibit falls into two groups, one of figure studies, chiefly of young women and landscapes. There are several still lifes of fruit that enrich the show, and particularly fine are "Peaches in a Glass Bowl" and "Peaches."

The first figure study to the left as one enters the gallery is to my mind the most charming painting in the room. It is "Girl with Blue Cap." "Calling" is full of energy and makes a rather triumphant appeal; it shows a young man, naked except for a loin-cloth, shouting into the wilderness. One may take it literally or symbolically.

"Muzzano," a romantic landscape, commends itself to the visitor for the suave charm of its color. The Chicago Art institute has lent "Girls Throwing Flowers," a typical Hofer painting. "Friendship," two figures entwined, is the single canvas which suggests the influence of Picasso. On the whole Hofer appears to paint in a manner purely personal to him; he is fond of clear color, cool composition with good massing, and simple lines. His work has little emotional appeal but a great deal of charm.

The second club exhibition gives us the pictures of four American artists:

Charles Demuth with a group of fascinating still lifes of flowers and fruits and of landscapes with houses and trees, all exquisitely painted.

John Marin, whose water and landscapes are so impressionistic that they fail to convey much meaning.

Preston Dickinson with an amazingly fine still life, luscious in color and treatment, and two definite and striking American scenes, "Grain Elevators" and "Outskirts of the City," which make one wish for an extensive showing of his work.

Seven portraits by Othmar Hoffler and two by Joseph Allworthy are being hung this week in the Saddle and Sirloin club at the Union stockyards. The club has a collection of 235 portraits of men distinguished in their services to American agriculture and the live stock industry. The new portraits are important additions to the gallery.

The glamorous evening jacket is of shimmering gold lame lined with blending crepe. Four cleverly cut pockets, a notched collar and lapels are interesting details.

A Gaudy Jacket Is Good Taste and High Style

Jackets have dash, romance, color, and flash this season. Gaudy colored soft wools blaze with chest decorations in gold, silver, or copper thread embroidery. Other beauties shine with thousands of small sequins while soft velvets shine with silver or gold kidskins in appliqued patterns.

Black, jade green, moss green, coral pink, amethyst, snowy white affairs, every imaginable shade of red, dresden shades of pink blue and violet are but some of the colors now obtainable.

Jackets transform any dated or dull dress, frost the top of the most romantic dinner costumes and evening gowns, and go everywhere with separate skirts. Long sleeves, short puffed sleeves, and the new just-below-the-elbow lengths together with all cuts of necklines make jackets worthy of shopping study.

Golden Rule Aids Course of Marriage

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

If all married couples would accept and act upon the golden rule, there would be no secret grudges, no strained relationships, and no divorces. The golden rule defined, in case your memory needs refreshing, is: "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

So avers an authority on marriage problems, John J. Anthony, in his recent book, "Marriage and Family Problems" [Doubleday-Doran].

One essential application of the golden rule, writes Mr. Anthony, is that both man and wife should go 50-50 with each other in the obligations of confidant, playmate, friend and comforter, wise and thoughtful adviser, and physical and spiritual lover. When both pull their weight equally in fulfilling these needs, marriage hasn't a chance to fail.

There is a 50-50 responsibility in the practical management of their lives, he insists. No matter how emancipated a woman may feel, nor how intensely feministic, if she's a real woman, challenges this author, she'll want her husband to be the breadwinner and head of the house, not because of any special intelligence or capacity that he may or may not have, but because nature intended her to fulfill the more important function of bearing and raising children and making a home.

If you are obligated to work outside of the home, says Mr. Anthony, you have every right to expect your husband to help you with the household chores. If you are not employed, it should be your particular pride to attend to household affairs so well that your husband won't even come in contact with its troublesome details. Mr. Anthony makes it clear, however, that he does not approve a woman's working outside the home unless economic circumstances force her to do so.

"Many a mother has contributed to the unhappy marriage of her child by failure to discipline her boy or girl properly in youth," points out Mr. Anthony. "An unproperly disciplined child usually grows up to be a self-indulgent husband or wife."

self by definite knowledge that you won't overload your house circuit. Make it a rule not to place high wattage lamps near draperies, artificial cotton, paper ornaments, and the like which aren't fireproofed. [And don't forget that—hard to believe as it may be—house fires are still being started by replacing blown out fuses with pennies!]

The fact that materials for indoor and outdoor holiday lighting can be used from year to year, and thru the year besides, for many kinds of parties, and for midsummer gardens, means that we can start as modestly as we wish and add to our collection as time goes on.

The Christmas tree is the big question in every home. What type we have depends on our own preference. We may want a sophisticated tree this season, sprayed white, lighted by blue bulbs perhaps, and trimmed with streamers of silver foil. Or we may have a stronger yen for a traditional minded tree, with old fashioned string lamp candles sparkling in cheery fashion, and even festooned with strings of cranberries and popcorn!

Those who are planning an indoor tree and intend to place it in a window know they are extending a greeting to the outside world, as well as saying "Merry Christmas" and "Happy New Year" to their own immediate family and circle of incoming friends.

The simplest lighting plans, inside and outside a house, often can be the most attractive and artistic. Most important of all, in this matter of holiday lighting, is the plan. Without a plan there often can be confusion worse confounded.

It is also important to remember, in carrying out a lighting scheme, to consider daytime effects as well as night effects. Evergreen and arbor vitae wrapped around lighting streamers will improve the daylight appearance and also enhance after-dark effects.

On these days before Christmas the same truths apply to all Christmas house accessories as apply to our yuletide lighting effects.

A goodly supply of colorful candles ahead of time is a wise investment. No hurrying out after them at the last moment when the selection is more limited.

And no forgetting—under any circumstances—the Bayberry candle! The good luck candle! Or the bit of mistletoe over the door, that holiday "green" with legends for its background dating back to early Scandinavian mythology. Other traditions, of course, relate it more closely to the real meaning of our own Christmas, since there are those who say the cross was made of mistletoe.

Danger on the Border

By FREDERICK R. BECHDOLT

[Copyright: 1939: By Frederick R. Bechdolt]

SYNOPSIS.

Leonard speeds west by car after finding that the sample of ore sent to him by his sick friend, Dillon, is rich in gold. He picks up two strange companions, Mrs. Sebastian, who owns a Mexican roadhouse, and Louis Mestres, who claims to be a fine hombre. In a lonely spot they come upon the pay car of the Golconda mine—all occupants murdered—and three holdup men still on the scene. They chase Leonard's car with a machine gun. Mestres drops tacks in the road and stops their pursuit. He recognizes one bandit as the mine's paymaster. Paul Collins, a crooked local assayer, tests Dillon's ore and gives him a false report. He enlists the aid of another rascal, Kent, to cheat Dillon. Dillon breaks the sad news to Pat, an orphaned girl who owns an old hotel, and who had staked him, then goes off to collect his tools. At Pat's hotel Leonard sees the girl slip out in the night with a gun. Distrusting Kent, Collins sends two hirelings to follow Dillon and locate his claim. Kent, suspicious, puts Papago, an old watchman, on the trail. Taylor, the Golconda's paymaster, arranges with Kent to have Leonard blamed for his crime. In Collins' office Pat finds the correct report on Dillon's ore, but Kent and Collins discover her there. Kent kidnaps the girl in his car—her old Chinese servant clings to the spare tire. Leonard goes to see Mrs. Sebastian and walks into a trap set to capture him. Mestres is hobnobbing with one of the bandits and Mrs. Sebastian pretends not to know him. Leonard escapes only to accept a lift from Kent and be turned over to the Mexican police, but Mestres rescues him. Mestres gets a trusted guide, Plutarcho, to sneak Leonard across the line. As they pass the building where Kent had placed Pat they are hailed by the Chinese servant. It is a marijuana den, run by an outlawed doctor and his wife. Fearing exposure, they plan to kill the girl. Leonard and his companions break into the building just in time to save her.

INSTALMENT XXII.

PROTECTIVE DESIRE.

Leonard carried Pat from the room without a glance at the huge hulk which had begun to stir upon the floor, and the woman who was kneeling beside it.

The only sound out in the hallway was the voice of Louis Mestres. He was saying:

"Keep your faces to the wall and your hands up." Evidently he had been employing his time to full advantage. He did not look around when Leonard passed him, but he nodded and murmured, "We will hold them here for a few minutes." Plutarcho stood a pace behind him, balancing his knife on his big palm, ready to throw it if one of the men in the room moved.

The clean air of the desert was flowing thru the gaping front doorway. It was dissolving the smoke wreaths, and the forms of the men about the walls showed more plainly now. Their cigarets made glowing red spots in the dimness, their bodies were as stiff and motionless as the bodies of the dead. Only the eyes lived, and the things upon which they were gazing were not of this world. When Leonard stepped forth into the night, he felt as if he had emerged from a sepulcher.

The house of the doctor stood behind him, a black, oblong bulk effacing the stars. They glowed above him in a sky that was like ink, their faint light bathed the plain, where the wide alkali patches gleamed like water. The air back there was filled with poison, it held the reek of violence. It was peaceful here and clean.

The exultation which had come over Leonard when he snatched the girl from the cot and first felt her in his arms, remained with him: the sense of possessing something precious for which he had been fighting, the fierce tenderness born of the desire to protect. He was conscious of her softness, of the warmth of her breath against his cheek, of her head resting upon his shoulder, the touch of her hair upon his neck. And when he heard her saying, "I can walk now," he answered with a brusqueness which he could not understand. "You mustn't think of it." She sighed, and her head sank back upon his shoulder.

A few moments later he saw Sang crouching in the spot where they had left him and his heart fell. It was with a feeling of rebellion that he set her down, and when the old Chinese sprang up, taking her hand in his two withered hands, Leonard looked on him with envy. He had never thought that he would see the time when he would grudge an aged Cantonese his reward of glad surprise and gentle thanks. Then he heard Sang's sing-song mingling with the girl's endearments, he remembered the first words he had caught that afternoon from the invisible presence within the doorway of the old hotel:

"Can do." And the thought came to him that in the old days of chivalry when men wore brave words emblazoned on coats of arms, there was many a knight who might well have envied Sang this motto which he had well earned.

And while he was thinking this, Pat turned to him. She said:

"If you hadn't come just when you did those two would have killed me."

He remembered those dark marks on her throat and he cried:

"I never asked—you're hurt——" She shook her head.

"No. You were in time. You and the others. I think that those two were trying to poison me. There was something in that woman's face, something in the way she spoke——" She told of the cup of chocolate which Anna had brought, and how she had flung it. "And when I ran to the door the man was standing there. The last that I remember was his hands on my throat. Then I was lying on the cot and he was bending over me——" Her voice faltered.

"It's all right now," Leonard told her. "And the others are coming. We'll bring you back home."

But Mestres, when he did at last materialize out of the darkness, followed by Plutarcho, held a different opinion. He did not wait to ask questions nor to waste words in discussion. He nodded to Leonard and he said:

"We must take her some place where we can talk this business over. I do not think that these people will follow us. They'll keep quiet, they do not dare to say anything, you understand. But you will remember that there are others who would give a good deal to find you, and I would like to know some of the things which happened before she goes back to Old Town. It might be safer for her."

"But where?" Leonard demanded. "We can't wait here."

"I have the idea!" the other cried. "We will go to the Casa Verdi." Leonard's abrupt gesture of dissent did not escape him, and he went on swiftly, "Mrs. Sebastian, she is—respectable."

Leonard said, "So I have heard before."

It occurred to him then that among the various mysteries of intrigue and hidden purposes which he had encountered since meeting his two fellow passengers at the store in Copper City, this constant reiteration of Mrs. Sebastian's fair name might not be the least important. He glanced at the other, and he was impressed by the earnestness in the quick face. He shrugged his shoulders.

"You know this place better than I do," he concluded reluctantly.

"I think I do," Mestres said dryly. "And while we are finding out some things from one another, Plutarcho will get your car. You will be safer if you drive, and the señorita should not walk."

That settled it. Their route to the Casa Verdi was the one which Leonard had traveled after his abrupt departure nearly two hours before, and when they reached the outer fringe of houses, Plutarcho went on ahead to reconnoiter.

He was back in a few minutes. "It is all right," he whispered. "There is no one there to see us."

They followed him up the alley and thru the kitchen where the odor of garlic lingered. They found Mrs. Sebastian awaiting them in the room where the dusky hostesses had sat around the table watching Leonard in bewildered silence. Mestres swung his impossible hat from his head with a bit of a flourish, but he had no opportunity to make any introductions.

Mrs. Sebastian flung her arms forth in a wide gesture. Pat went without a word to her and was enfolded in them, and as the others stood there, silent, feeling a little awkward, they realized of how small consequence the male sex is to women during such moments as this. There was, moreover, something in the face of Mrs. Sebastian which Leonard did not remember having seen before; it made him thoughtful, that tenderness of expression. And from this time on he cherished no further doubts as to the statement which had been made to him several times. With him her respectability was established.

Plutarcho started for the door, but as he was passing Leonard he lingered. His eyes were on the latter's coat pocket.

"This little plaything, señor," he said diffidently. "If I might take it with me?" Leonard glanced down and saw the thong of the blackjack which he had snatched from the floor of the room in the doctor's house. He had forgotten it entirely. He handed it to Plutarcho and the latter went out.

Mrs. Sebastian had set Pat down in one of the hard chairs and she was still hovering over the girl when Leonard turned around. She smiled at him.

Cheese stores and cheese departments of fancy groceries are fascinating places. Here are to be found slabs and blocks of green veined Roquefort, aged cheddar, perforated Swiss, dark, strong flavored goat's milk cheese, imported and domestic varieties. One wonders what these counters will look like when supplies of foreign cheeses have run out and new supplies aren't available. There probably will be something of a boom in domestic cheese making.

And why not? Some of the finest cheeses in the world are made in this country. Cheesemakers have extended their art to include all the popular kinds of cheese which formerly had to be imported.

Do you dote on aged cheese or prefer the process kind? Do you "go for" sharp, nippy flavors or lean toward mild ones? Do you like cheese for cooking purposes, for dessert, or just to nibble on? However you like it, there are American made cheeses to fill the bill. These are some of them.

BRICK: This is a semihard cheese with rather elastic texture, a strong, sweetish taste, and many small, round holes. Much of it is made in Wisconsin. Process brick cheese comes in convenient packages.

BRIE: This French cheese now is made also in America. A favorite dessert cheese, it resembles Camembert somewhat, having a soft, creamy texture, pronounced flavor and odor, and an edible rind similar to that found on Camembert. The sight and smell of Brie sets cheese connoisseurs to rolling their eyes and licking their lips, mentally, if they are too polite to do it obviously.

CAMEMBERT: Originally French, Camembert now is made in the United States, too. It comes wrapped in foil and packed in small wooden boxes. Camembert is covered with a moldy rind, under which the cheese is soft and creamy. It has a pronounced flavor. This is another favorite dessert cheese, highly prized by cheese lovers. It should be served at room temperature rather than cold, for coldness stiffens the texture.

CHEDDAR: Many variations of this old English cheese are made in this country. The texture is hard, the flavor sharp, the color white, yellow, or orange. Herkimer cheese is one of the choicest of the cheddar type. "American" cheeses are of the cheddar type, altho some of them are mild instead of sharp flavored.

CREAM: Cream cheese, soft, mild and rich, is unripened and must be fresh to be good. It usually is sold in 3 ounce foil wrapped packages. It is favored for desserts, salads, and may even be used in cookies and cake frostings.

LIMBURGER, LIEDERKRANZ: These strong flavored, odorous cheeses are made in America in quantity. Processed limburger has been considerably deodorized so that persons who like the flavor can have it without the odor which, to many, is objectionable. Liederkranz is a type of limburger and is quite popular as a dessert cheese.

ROQUEFORT: France is the native home of Roquefort, but several excellent types are made in the United States. The green mold is responsible for the pronounced tangy flavor which is so highly prized by epicures. A favorite dessert cheese, Roquefort also is used often in salad dressings.

Frances Parkinson Keyes Quits as D. A. R. Editor

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6 (AP).—Mrs. Frances Parkinson Keyes, novelist and widow of former Senator Henry Wilder Keyes of New Hampshire, resigned tonight from the Daughters of the American Revolution and from the editorship of its magazine. She wrote Mrs. Henry M. Robert Jr., president general, that "because of certain obstacles and restrictions" she could not make the magazine what she had hoped.

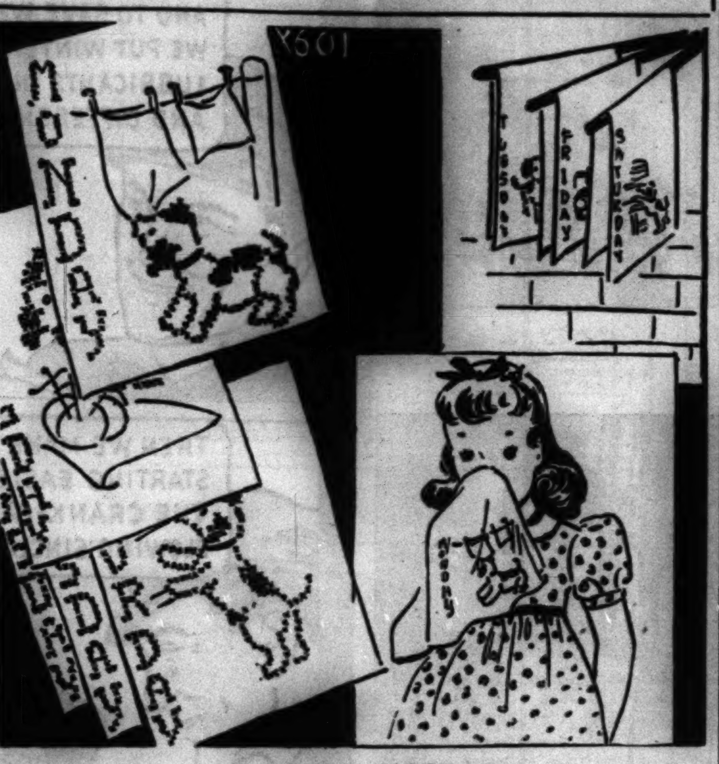
"Fido" Is Cross-Stitch Theme



BY NANCY CABOT.

Fido may have his moments of peace and quiet, but in this series of cross-stitch towels they are not apparent. These days-of-the-week towels use a new treatment in the lettering for the days: The horizontal arrangement allows the use of the days of the week alone. Embroidering the pooches' activities on pillows or wall pictures gives the readers two embroidery designs for the price of one.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of Fido and the days-of-the-week, No. X-601, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

From time immemorial we have heard about the "sixth sense" of some players in card games. When dissected, this sixth sense, commonly called card sense, proves to be nothing but the ability to apply shrewd reasoning and sound psychology to a given situation. These qualities are especially valuable in the selection of an opening lead. Note West's sensational opening in the following hand:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Rubber bridge.

♥ 9 8
♦ A K 10 6 2

WEST
♠ J 10 8 3 2
♥ A Q 4
♦ 7
♣ A 6 4 2

EAST
♠ 6 5 4

♦ J 9 8 5
♣ 5

SOUTH
♠ A K 9
♥ K 10 7
♦ Q 4 3
♣ K J 9 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 spade	2 diamonds	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

West, a ranking expert, followed the proper procedure in selecting his opening lead, which is to say that he did not turn all his attention to his own holding. Rather, he weighed the opposing bidding for all its implications.

North had bid two diamonds over the one spade without the slightest hesitation and South, when this bid reached him, had not "huddled" for a second in producing his two no trump rebid. Finally, when the two no trump reached North, the latter had gone to three with no more thought than had been given his previous bid. These facts convinced West that both opponents felt entirely secure insofar as the spade suit was concerned, and West would have made a small wager that, between them, North and South held the three top honors. If that were true, there was certainly nothing to be hoped for from a spade opening. A diamond lead was out of the question. Since West had a singleton, even if East were well heeled in diamonds, one lead thru North's bid suit scarcely could be effective. A club lead was not much more attractive. West did have length, but his spot cards under the ace were entirely too low. The process of elimination then left hearts as the only suit from which a ray of hope could be taken. Neither opponent had bid hearts, which he presumably would have done if possible; hence there was a strong assumption that East had length, if not strength, in the suit. But it was equally obvious that East had few, if any, entries. Hence, if he were ever to get on lead with his supposed heart suit West would have to put him on lead.

All this reasoning took only a few seconds and West then produced the one card that had the slightest chance to defeat the contract.

He led the heart queen!

It will be obvious that declarer could have fulfilled the contract by holding up his heart king, but the fact is that he did not. He was afraid that, if he held up the king, West might shift to clubs and that East might have the ace. Then a heart return would trap the king if, as appeared likely, West had started with something like the A-Q-J-x of hearts. Besides, declarer had every reason to feel that, by accepting the heart king on the spot, he would be able to run off five diamonds and three spades and fulfill his contract. He could hardly know that East had the diamond suit stopped. Well, at any rate, declarer took the heart king and it was all over for him. Three rounds of diamonds disclosed the bad news and he then had to attack the club suit. West dashed up with the club ace and laid down the ace and four of hearts. East then ran the suit and the contract was down one.

Dosia Is Liked in Title Role of Recast 'Manon'

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Massenet's "Manon" was repeated at the Civic Opera house last night with both of its principal rôles recast. Elen Dosia, making her first regular appearance of the season [she was in the opera concert last Sunday], sang the part of the adorable little nitwit who gives the opera its title and much of its charm. Her work was delicate and wistful and packed with fine musical detail.

Jan Kiepura, as the Chevalier des Grieux, sang with the intensity and the sensuous vocal beauty which are characteristic of him. In the concluding phrases of "The Dream" he showed us a new, passion driven voice quality which turned out to be highly effective. In general, his presentation had less of the distinction, the subtlety, and the introspective quality than we have come to associate with the rôle during the years of Burdino's singing here. "The Dream," for example, became quite un-Gallic [and undreamlike] in its drive and bigness.

WILSON'S Weekly MEMO by GEORGE RECTOR

In the early days of aviation, fasting and flying were practically synonymous. No pilot dreamed of spanning an ocean on more sustenance than a caramel and a cracker. Now, air passengers not only eat—they dine. It has been found that appetites apparently increase with altitude, and meals have become substantial as well as appetizing.

Any housewife can safely follow a typical airliner menu and know that she is serving her family "tops" in food. The following menus are among those served at my suggestion on the Braniff Air Lines, which serve Wilson's Certified Meat products exclusively.

George Rector
Food Consultant Wilson & Co.

Typical Dinner
Wilson's Certified Chicken Bouillon
Wilson's Tender Made Ham (hot) with Rector's Raisin Sauce
Parsley Potatoes
Buttered Peas
Waldorf Salad
Assorted Bread-and-Butter Sandwiches
Olives Celery
Apple Tapioca
Mints Salted Nuts
Tea or Coffee

DINNER IS SERVED
Perhaps you would like to know how an air stewardess can achieve such a meal in mid-air. The answer is, she doesn't. The meal is put on board already cooked and prepared to the last detail, packed piping hot or icy cold in large thermos containers. Her job is simply to set the right number of trays with real linen, good silverware and dainty china, and to dish up the meal. It's as simple as all that.

WILSON'S TENDER MADE HAM
Coming down to earth, any woman may serve this same delicious, incredible Tender Made Ham right in her own home, and without the bother of cooking it. Wilson's Tender Made Bone-In Ham is ready to eat. May be sliced and served cold or put in the oven for a hasty heating and glazing.

For this, have the ham at room temperature, heat in an oven at 350° F., allowing 5 minutes to the pound for a whole ham. To glaze, remove ham from oven. Remove skin, score fat, stud with cloves, pour over surface 1 cup honey and return to oven at 450° F. for about 15 minutes, basting frequently until a rich, golden brown.

Rector's Raisin Sauce
I have given you this before, but it is such a favorite and such a natural accompaniment to this ham, that I repeat it:

Simmer ⅓ cup raisins in 2 cups water and 1 tablespoon lemon juice for 30 minutes. In another sauce pan, melt 3 tablespoons Wilson's Clear Brook butter, blend in 2 tablespoons flour, add pinch of salt and stir until smooth. Add raisin mixture slowly. Simmer 10 minutes more and serve hot.

AN AIRY "GOOD MORNING"
Early birds on a modern airliner start the day with a meal such as this:
Tomato or Orange Juice
Kadota Figs in Cream
Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links or Patties
Graham Muffins
Clear Brook Butter
Orange Marmalade
Tea or Coffee

WILSON'S CERTIFIED PURE PORK SAUSAGE
For perfect seasoning, I know of no such sausage as this. If in links, dip in flour, prick with a fork and cook slowly in a cold skillet. If in meat form, shape into small patties, roll in flour and cook as for links. Deliciouswith fried apples or on sauteed pineapple slices.

BADGERS PICK A FULL BACK FIFTH STRAIGHT YEAR

Moeller Is Chosen Honorary Captain.

Honor Roll

NINE Western conference football players have been named by teammates as most valuable to their teams and are in the running for The Tribune's 16th annual most valuable player award. Those named are:

Chicago—Robert Wasem, half back.
Illinois—Bill Lenich, center.
Indiana—James Logan, guard.
Iowa—Nile Kinnick, half back.
Michigan—Tom Harmon, half back.
Minnesota—Harold Van Every, half back.
Ohio State—Stephen Andrako, center.
Purdue—Frank Bykowski, guard.
Wisconsin—George Paskvan, full back.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 6 [Special].—George Paskvan, 200 pound junior full back from La Grange, Ill., who carried on his broad shoulders the tradition of outstanding full backs at Wisconsin in recent years, tonight was selected by his teammates as the most valuable player on the 1939 team. Paskvan thus becomes eligible for the Chicago Tribune trophy awarded annually to the most valuable player in the Western conference.

Ralph Moeller, senior end from Watertown, was named captain for the past season. Moeller, who led the Badgers in the Indiana, Iowa, and Minnesota games, last year won the Walter Alexander award, which is based on scholarship, participation in athletics, and interest in campus activities.

More than 1,200 Wisconsin football fans, members of the varsity and freshmen squads and high school players and their coaches, packed the University fieldhouse tonight for the annual banquet in honor of the 1939 team. Jimmy Conzelman, football coach of Washington university at St. Louis, Mo., was the chief speaker. Michael L. [Mike] Cleary of Milwaukee presided as toastmaster.

Full Back for Fifth Time.

Both Paskvan and Moeller received tremendous cheers when they were introduced, respectively, as the most valuable player and 1939 captain. Billy Schmitz, Madison senior, spoke for the team.

The selection of Paskvan, who, because of his hard running earned the nicknames of Bruiser and Roarin' George, as the Badgers' most valuable player makes this year the fifth straight that the honor has gone to a full back. Eddie Jankowski, now of the Green Bay Packers, earned the honor in 1935 and again in 1936, his senior year, and Howie Weiss twice was named the most valuable player, in 1937 and 1938. Weiss went on last year to win the Tribune award, marking the first time the honor ever came to a Wisconsin player.

"George has been our workhorse all season and the honor is well placed," declared Coach Harry Stuhldreher tonight. "He is one of the finest full backs I have ever watched, combining both the drive of Jankowski and the finesse of Weiss. I don't have to add that we are more than glad he is back for another year."

Paskvan played only one year of high school football and that as a guard. He played the same position on the freshman squad here in 1937 and Coach Stuhldreher still likes to recall the night, shortly after practice began last year, that Paskvan asked for a chance to play in the back field.

George Piles Over Varsity.

"We were looking for a player to simulate a full back on the team we were to meet the next Saturday," Stuhldreher recalled. "Paskvan asked for the chance and on the first play he tore thru the varsity line with a drive that fairly shook the stadium."

From then on Paskvan was a full back, altho he naturally was overshadowed by Weiss, who was rated one of the finest full backs in the nation a year ago. This year, however, Paskvan came into his own, following a hand injury that cut down his efficiency in the early games, to finish third among Big Ten ball carriers in net yardage gained during an otherwise dismal season for the Badgers.

Despite the fact that he made his yards the hard way thru center and inside or outside the tackles, Paskvan accounted for 429 yards in 117 attempts in six conference games for an average of 3.66 yards per try and 71.5 yards per game.

Moeller came to Wisconsin as a right half back and played one game at that position in his sophomore year before being shifted to end, where he starred this year in addition to doing most of the punting.

The Most Valuable Badger

George Paskvan, plunging full back, last night was chosen by Wisconsin's football squad as its most valuable player. He thus becomes eligible for selection by a committee of coaches and officials as the most valuable player in the Big Ten. The Badger candidate of last year, Full Back Howie Weiss, won The Tribune award which goes to the most valuable in the circuit. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Orange Bowl Bid Accepted by Missouri

Miami, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP).—Miami completed arrangements today for the University of Missouri to meet Georgia Tech in the Orange bowl football game New Year's day.

By the time Missouri accepted late in the day the committee found almost three-fourths of the seats of Roddey Burdine stadium had been reserved.

Of the 35,000 capacity in the bowl only a handful of reserved seats remained, plus 12,000 general admissions in the end zones.

Missouri had been set for the game for days and its acceptance was telephoned to C. F. Baldwin, head of the Orange bowl committee here, who made the announcement.

MISSOURI GETS O. K.

Columbia, Mo., Dec. 6 (AP).—Coach Don Faurot was very happy tonight over clinching the Orange bowl game for Missouri with Georgia Tech on New Year's day.

Permission to play the postseason game was received from the Big Six committee on intercollegiate athletics late today and the invitation was accepted promptly.

Faurot said the Tigers would work out about four times before Dec. 21 and would entrain then for Miami.

CATHOLIC U. IN SUN BOWL.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 6 (AP).—Catholic university of Washington, D. C., will meet Arizona State college of Tempe, champion of the Border conference, in the Sun bowl here on New Year's day. Dutch Bergman, Catholic U. coach, telephoned his acceptance of the invitation late today.

Arizona State bounced into the Border conference championship undefeated and untied in conference play and closed out the season as the southwest's leading scorer, with 212 points.

Kinnick Gets Real Workout Signing Name

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—Nile Kinnick, who led the University of Iowa to a series of amazing triumphs on the gridiron this fall, got another pretty good workout tonight.

Here to receive the Heisman Memorial trophy, awarded annually to the outstanding football player of the year, the youngster signed autograph after autograph at the banquet in his honor at which more than 700 New Yorkers gathered.

Kinnick brought a thunderous cheer from his listeners when, in accepting the trophy, he said: "I thank God I was born to the gridirons of the midwest and not to the battlefields of Europe. I can confidently say that the boys of this country would rather win this trophy than the Croix de Guerre."

He praised his Iowa teammates by saying that "a finer or more courageous group never played football."

In making the award Holcomb told Kinnick, "You won clearly, cleanly, and worthily this trophy in a year of exceptional football teams and players."

Coach Anderson spoke only briefly, as did several other Iowans, notably Scott German, a graduate of the class of 1889.

Kinnick and Anderson will fly to Washington, D. C., tomorrow in a navy plane and then return to New York. Their plans after that are indefinite, Kinnick said.

Kinnick flew over New York today in a navy transport plane with Capt. Al Bergner of the Navy team. As they rode high in the air over New York they were interviewed on football and aviation for the Mutual Broadcasting system network by Capt. D. C. Ramsey of the Navy. They were accompanied by Maj. E. E. Larson, Navy coach.

LEEMANS READY, AND BARNUM, TOO, FOR TITLE GAME

Giants' Stars Will Oppose Packers Sunday.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

New York Giant stock rose yesterday with the announcement in New York that Tuffy Leemans and Len Barnum, two of the champions' outstanding backs, will be ready to face the Green Bay Packers in the seventh annual National Football league playoff game in Milwaukee Sunday.

Leemans suffered another severe bump on the injured leg that threatened to keep him out of the Washington game last Sunday, but Dr. Francis Sweeny, the Giants' physician, reported yesterday that Leemans is in better shape now than he was a week ago. Barnum also received a leg injury, but has been working regularly with the club in New York and is prepared to start.

The recovery of these two half backs, one a ball carrier without a peer in the National league and the other a triple threat man whose punting and place kicking is as valuable as his passing and line plunging, has given the Giants renewed hope of conquering the playoff jinx that has attended their two championship appearances in the west.

Giants Won Twice Before.

New York's two successful appearances in the playoffs have been against Green Bay and the Bears. Both were played in the Polo grounds. The Giants resorted to rubber shoes to end a 13 game winning streak for the Bears, 30 to 13, in 1934. Last year they triumphed, 23 to 17, over the Packers, whom they had beaten three weeks before in a regularly scheduled game, 15 to 3, also in the Polo grounds.

But when taken out of the Polo grounds, the Giants have not been so successful. In 1933, the first year of the playoff system, the Bears trimmed them, 23 to 21, in Wrigley field in a game that still is regarded as one of the most thrilling in history. In 1935 the Giants went to Detroit and were humbled in the mud and snow by Dutch Clark and associated Lions. The score was 26 to 7.

West Is Tough for Giants.

The west has not been a happy hunting ground for the Giants. Until they defeated the College All-Stars in Soldiers' field last August they had not won a game in the west since Ken Strong received four chances to place kick from the 5 yard line before finally booting one that counted and defeated the Bears, 3 to 0. That was in 1935 They made one foray into the west this season and were whipped, 18 to 14, by the Lions.

Against this unfavorable precedent, however, the Giants pit an attack that is founded on alertness, a stout defense, and the willingness to take a nibble instead of gambling on a bite. They are accused frequently of being lucky and of playing uninteresting football. Professional fans prefer the aggressive, spectacular offensive tactics which have been the basic systems of western division clubs and Washington.

Record Speaks for Itself.

But Coach Steve Owen, who is responsible for the Giants' style of attack, carries as his only answer a copy of his team's record. Operating on the belief that the world loves only a winner, Owen is content to take a point here and there by any method that presents itself so long as the sum totals up to victory.

This and the extraordinary ability of Ward Cuff and Ken Strong, their two placement aces, explains the Giants' record of 14 field goals this season and also is the answer to their appearance in the championship final. The Giants won three league games by kicking. They kicked the lid off the season by winning the All-Star game, 9 to 0, on three field goals and kicked it back on in the last game by beating the Washington Redskins, 9 to 7, on three field goals. In between they turned back the Bears

Who always warmed the bench.
He worked his heart out four long years,
His spirit wouldn't quench.
Five days a week all thru each fall
Tho disappointment wracked his soul
He always had a grin.
And when the squad that made the trips
Was chosen he was left.
You see, he wasn't fast enough
No roaring crowds burst forth in cheers
As he loped off the field;
No clipping from the sporting page
His scrapbook has revealed.
His autograph was never sought,
And yet I'll make a guess
That in ten years he'll be well up
The ladder of success.
And I presume that when some mate,
Perhaps a burned out "pro,"
Seeks help, he'll find a job for him
Instead of saying "No."
He'll probably sit back and grin
And ask him out to dine,
Then say, "That was a great old gang

AMERICANS AND HAWKS CLASH IN STADIUM TONIGHT

Chicagoans Battered Up, but Will Play, Anyhow.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The New York Americans, nice fellows who are forming a buffer state between the Chicago Blackhawks and the National Hockey league cellar, are here to play the Hawks in Chicago Stadium tonight.

The Americans were defeated by the Boston Bruins last Sunday night and again by the Bruins Tuesday night. This experience is reported to have made the New Yorkers exceedingly grim, and they are expected to be very saucy when they take to the rink this evening.

Speaking of being grim, the same may be said about the Hawks. The Chicago boys have been playing with zeal never exceeded by a Hawk team, only to find that something terrible happens to them in almost every match, usually late in the game, which makes the suffering more acute, of course.

Hawks Crippled, Too.

Right now the Hawks not only are plastered with adverse scores—they have lost their last three home games—but are beset with a wide assortment of physical ailments. All the maimed will play, however, excepting Earl Seibert, who will be missing his sixth straight engagement, and Phil Hergesheimer, who suffered a leg injury in the riotous Toronto-Hawk game here last Sunday night.

Mush March, Des Smith, Art Wiebe and George Allen, swathed in bandages and poultices, expect to render full time service with aches and pains be damned.

The match tonight will be the second meeting of the season between the Hawks and the Americans. The Hawks on Nov. 12 beat the New Yorkers, 2 to 1.

Two Regulars Out.

The Americans, like the Hawks, will play without the service of two regulars. Doc Romnes, former Hawk and Maple Leaf, suffered a broken hand in the first Hawk-American game and Art Chapman has been out of six games as the result of an appendectomy. The Americans will be fully manned tonight, however, and may bring back Nels Stewart, long poison to the Hawks as well as other opponents.

Stewart, who has scored more points in major league hockey than any other player, announced his retirement after last spring's playoff, but is said to be listening to yelps for help the Americans are aiming in his direction.

Word Battle at Impasse.

The big word battle between Referee Bill Stewart and Jim Norris Sr., multimillionaire owner of the Chicago Stadium and the Detroit Red Wings hockey team, also possessor of heavy interest in Madison Square Garden, New York, Olympia arena in Detroit, and the Boston Garden, yesterday reached something of an impasse, except that it was announced that Stewart had recommended that the Hawks and Leafs be fined $100 each for the players' rowdyism in the game at the Stadium Sunday night. If Stewart made any recommendations as to Norris' demonstration at the game, the fact was not made public.

Mystery over Norris' heckling of the Blackhawks, as well as Stewart because he did not penalize the Hawks, continued in the absence of any statements. The mystery increased when it became known yesterday that the Hawks, since they have been tenants of Norris' Stadium, have paid more than $1,000,000 rent.

EXCHANGE TWO SHORTSTOPS IN AN EVEN DEAL

Reds, Pirates Get Boston Pitchers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 6.—The Chicago Cubs tonight disposed of Shortstop Dick Bartell and in return received Billy Rogell, veteran Detroit shortstop. The deal was the third of the day, the Boston Bees making two transactions with the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cincinnati Reds, which involved four players.

The Bartell-Rogell trade, which did not involve any cash, was announced by officials of the Detroit club shortly after the arrival of Owner Walter O. Briggs.

Bartell had a mediocre season with the Cubs in 1939, his first with Chicago. The 32 year old infielder was taken out of the lineup several times by Manager Gabby Hartnett for unsteady fielding and weak batting. Bartell batted only .240. He came to the Cubs last spring along with Hank Leiber and Gus Mancuso in the deal which sent Ken O'Dea, Frank Demaree, and Billy Jurges to the New York Giants.

Dick Bartell. Bill Rogell.

Joined Tigers in 1930.

Rogell was born in Springfield, Ill., on Nov. 24, 1904. After two seasons with the Boston Red Sox he was released and he went to St. Paul. He was purchased by the Tigers in 1930, but he played in only 54 games and finished the season with Toronto in the International league.

In 1931 Rogell played 118 games for Toronto and 48 for the Tigers, and the following year he became the Tigers' regular shortstop. His best seasons were in 1933 when he batted .295, and 1934, when he finished with an average of .296.

If Rogell cannot play regularly Manager Gabby Hartnett said he probably will prove valuable as a utility man.

Boston's Bees announced the first of today's deals. The first moved Pitcher Jim Turner from the Bees to Cincinnati's champion Reds, who surrendered, along with an unrevealed sum of cash, First Baseman Leslie Scarsella. After Bob Quinn, the Bees' president, had safely pocketed the money, he turned around and found another gentleman willing to talk in terms of dollars as well as baseball flesh. So Quinn accepted some cash and Pitcher Jim Tobin from Bill Benswanger, Pittsburgh president, and the latter took possession of Pitcher John Lanning.

Reds Lose No Strength.

The Reds didn't weaken themselves, except in a utility way, by consenting to transfer Scarsella to the Boston roster. Scarsella, who was brought in from Toronto, was good enough to keep Frank McCormick off first base in 1937, but since then the latter has done very well for himself as well as for the Reds. So Scarsella became more or less of a bench warming orphan. On the other hand the 33 year old Turner may prove of great help to Bill McKechnie, who was his boss at Boston in 1937 when he won 20 while losing only 11 for the light hitting Bees.

The transfer of Scarsella to Boston was accepted as the forerunner of another transaction. The Bees have Buddy Hassett for first base and while Casey Stengel, Boston manager, claims he intends to shove Hassett back into the outfield, the statement was accepted as some more of Casey's unmatchable humor. Presumably the Bees now will make arrangements for a deal involving Hassett. The Cubs might become interested in this little matter and so might Bill Terry, manager of the Giants. Before Terry is clear to take a hand in this possible swap he'll have to unload Zeke Bonura. So far no club appears eager to give the big Italian lad employment.

Cubs Propose Brooklyn Deal.

Clarence Rowland, the Cubs' trade man, was able to break into Larry MacPhail's palatial presidential suite today. Rowland denied that he made the visit merely to see the now famous white flannel yatching pajamas in which the Brooklyn club executive attires himself when receiving guests.

ANGOTT AND DAY FIT AND READY FOR RETURN BOUT

Box 12 Rounds in Stadium Tomorrow.

Among the axioms of the ring is one that is of vital importance to contestants—get into the best possible condition for a fight.

Sammy Angott, leading lightweight contender, and Davey Day have adhered to that truth for a 12 round return bout in Chicago Stadium tomorrow. When they closed drills in Trafton's gymnasium yesterday no two better conditioned boxers ever faced a match.

There are at least two good reasons why a fighter should train conscientiously and Day and his Louisville rival are aware of both. The first is that good condition has a tendency to ease the sting of hard punches and takes much of the effect out of a knockout blow. The second is that fitness makes for perfect coördination and this coördination is a boxer's greatest assets.

Victory Is Important.

The impending encore will determine whether Angott will remain eligible for a prospective lightweight title match against Champion Lou Ambers or whether Day will qualify for a potential welterweight championship encounter with Champion Henry Armstrong.

Altho weight for the rematch is 137 pounds, only two more than the lightweight limit, Day will enter the ring as No. 1 welterweight challenger. The clever Chicagoan retains his welter position because Angott refused to accept the honor after scoring a 10 round victory over Davey in an earlier fight.

After watching the rivals in sparring workouts Tuesday Henry Lenard, former south side featherweight leader, predicted Day would even the score this time. During a three round session against Sparmate Gene Ward, Angott showed speed of foot and fast punching.

Angott Gets Careless.

Perhaps Sammy was clowning, but it was noted that he was careless. After missing a series of head blows he stepped away from his partner with his guard down, a dangerous habit against a foe such as Day. He also telegraphed his left hook to the body and fell in with the punch.

Indian Billy Lee, Milwaukee welterweight, has been signed to meet Tony Motisi of the Catholic Youth organization in a six round supporting match. This completes the program. In other bouts Tony Zale, member of the 1934 Chicago Golden Gloves intercity team, is paired with Ernest [Babe] Orgovan, Houston, Tex., middleweight, now living in New York. Nick Castiglione, Italo-American Youth organization lightweight, with Eddie Lander, west side, and Pete Ferrand, South Chicago welterweight, with Bobby Ryan, also of the west side.

The Zale-Orgovan and Castiglione-Lander matches are set for eight rounds, and the other for four.

Bruin Quintet Wins, 28 to 19, Over Oshkosh

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Chicago basketball fans are going to have a right smart professional team this season, if the performance of the Chicago Bruins last night in their opening National Basketball league game in the 132d Regiment armory is to be taken as a criterion. In 40 minutes of fast, sparkling play they accomplished a 28 to 19 triumph over the Oshkosh All-Stars, last year's runners-up for the league championship. A crowd of 3,000 went home agreed that the Bruins figure to be a real factor in the league race before their 28 game schedule is concluded on March 6.

Novak, Kautz Star.

Long Mike Novak and Little Wibs Kautz, the scoring twosome of last year's great Loyola university team, are regular members of the Bruins and collaborated just as tho they were still working for the Ramblers.

They had able assistance from George Hogan, also one of their Loyola associates last year. The three ex-Ramblers accounted for 25 of the Bruins' points. The 6 foot 9 inch Novak's natural defensive value is going to be considerably enhanced by the work of Eddie Oram, a tireless young man, who two seasons ago captained the University of Southern California team. Willie Phillips and Frank Linskey, both De Paul alumni, also proved themselves handy in helping the Bruins up a 19 to 6 half time advantage.

Keep Oshkosh Far Out.

Oshkosh, led by Leroy Edwards, former Kentucky star, never did quite get around to solving the compact defense of the Bruins, most of its points being scored from outside the free throw line.

The Bruins' next appearance will be next Wednesday night at the 132d armory against the Detroit Eagles, who include Irv Torgoff, captain of last year's Long Island university squad. Lineups:

Lane, Crane Decide Soccer Title Today

Crane Tech of the west side and Lane Tech of the north side, two of the strongest prep soccer teams in the history of the league, will clash in Winnemac park, Damen and Foster avenues, today in a playoff match for the championship of the Chicago Public High School Soccer league. The kickoff is scheduled for 3 p. m. The teams concluded their regular schedules in a first place tie with 12 points. This marks the third consecutive year that a playoff game has been needed to decide the title.

Last season Lane and Tilden Tech battled to a scoreless draw in their playoff to share the championship. In 1937 Tilden defeated Crane, 4 to 1, in the extra match.

Crane, coached by Julian Steinmetz, won six games and lost two, scoring 14 goals against 3 for the best defensive record in the nine club circuit.

Lane, directed by Ed Hall, was victorious in five games, lost one and tied two. The team's total of 20 goals was the best offensive record of the season. Four tallies were chalked against the north siders.

OKLAHOMA GETS BID TO PLAY IN COTTON BOWL

Norman, Okla., Dec. 6 (AP).—Coach Tom Stidham of Oklahoma said today his team had received an invitation to be host to an as yet unselected opponent in the Cotton bowl game at Dallas New Year's day. The team voted unanimously to accept the invitation, Stidham said, but university authorities and the Big Six conference committee must give their approval.

In view of the committee's sanction of Missouri's game with Georgia Tech in Miami, it seemed probable Oklahoma, too, would be told to go ahead. The regents allowed the Sooners, 1938 Big Six champions, to play in Miami's Orange bowl game last Jan. 2.

Cotton bowl promoters will choose a team from a list which includes Boston college, North Carolina, Clemson, Duquesne, and Mississippi State.

LEO RODAK WINS OVER CASTILLOUX IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Dec. 6 (AP).—Leo Rodak, Chicago's classy Polish lightweight, boxed his way tonight to a one sided 10 round decision over Dave Castilloux, Canada's lightweight champion. Each weighed 132 pounds. The crowd was estimated at 3,776, about half the house expected.

Rodak's constant aggressiveness kept Castilloux from getting set and muffled the Canadian's heavy punching. Castilloux nailed Rodak twice, once in the seventh and again in the ninth, but the Chicago boy weathered his bad minutes. Rodak, always on the move, charged time after time to keep the Canadian from getting his aim and distance.

ILLINOIS ROUTS MONMOUTH AND WABASH FIVES

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 6 [Special].—The University of Illinois basketball team opened its season with a 37 to 19 victory over Monmouth college in the first game of a double header tonight. Illinois defeated Wabash, 60 to 21, in the second game.

The Monmouth game started slowly, with the Illini being pushed to earn a 15 to 11 advantage at the half. With the opening of the second period, however, Scott Gill, Rex Sherman, and Harold Shapiro connected in rapid succession, and from then on the outcome never was in doubt.

Shapiro led the scoring for Illinois with six points, followed by Richmond and Bob O'Neill with five. Frank Wilson headed the losers with seven points.

Wabash Gives Illini a Scare.

Wabash gave the Illini a few anxious moments early in the contest and led 9 to 7 with eight minutes left in the first half. Illinois, with Joe Frank, 5 foot 6 inch forward leading the attack, then started a scoring spree that gave it a 23 to 9 edge at the half.

Frank dribbled thru the Wabash defense, stole the visitors' passes and besides playing a colorful floor game, scored 10 points. Walter [Hoot] Evers, sophomore forward, led the scoring with 11 points.

Tall Maroons Beat Teachers' Five, 42 to 26

Displaying skill in shooting, but lack of coördination in passing, the University of Chicago basketball team defeated Chicago Teachers, 42 to 26, in the Maroons' opener in the Midway fieldhouse last night. A crowd of 3,000 saw the game.

Dick Lounsbury, Maroon captain, led the scoring with six field goals and six free throws for 18 points. Joe Podraza led the Teachers in scoring. Chicago averaged 4 inches per man taller than the Teachers and gained all of the 14 jump balls and two center jumps.

Chicago ran up a 5 point lead which the Teachers never threatened, altho their jabs at the Chicago basket kept the lanky Maroons nervous. The Maroons led at the half, 19 to 12.

The Maroons, exhibiting a new double pivot offense coupled with their shifting zone defense, were occasionally brilliant, but except for their height advantage would have been outplayed by the agile Teachers.

Loyola Rolls Over Arkansas State, 42 to 24

Loyola university inaugurated its 1939-40 basketball season with a 42 to 24 victory over Arkansas State last night at Loyola. After an impressive first half, during which the Ramblers ran up a 28 to 10 score, Loyola spent the time brushing up on its passing game and permitting inexperienced men to play their first college game.

Arkansas was hampered in having only five players eligible for the game. The rest of the traveling Razorback squad, being composed of freshmen, could not participate against Loyola. It was the Ramblers' twelfth consecutive victory over Arkansas and their twenty-sixth consecutive triumph at home.

GRAHAM FAMILY AGAIN BIG NOISE AT HORSE SHOW

Western Riders Star for Thirteenth Year.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Quite a few popular features have come and gone during the last 13 years of the International Horse Show—but Graham's western riders are still bringing the spectators up cheering. The act not only gets better but also bigger as time goes on, for every couple of years a new member of the Graham family joins his brothers and sisters in the cast.

There are nine of them now performing—ranging in age from Jerry who is 2½, to Lorraine, who is 19, and last night their father, Ole Graham, let out the information that Junior, who is 18 months old, is determined to get into action by next season.

Something for Everybody.

The Graham boys and girls went thru two performances yesterday in the International amphitheater—matinée and evening exhibitions—with a snap and vitality that never fails to wring a tumult of applause from the galleries. Their act combines all of the spectacular elements of the rodeo trick rider with the spectator appeal of the child actor, and it's spiced with comedy.

Then, too, in the course of years, the horse show fans have got so interested in the Graham family that they always wonder what the next one is going to be like. For the information of the spectators, the following information was gathered:

The 18 month old Junior is now flaunting the wishes of his parents, who had planned that this one would not be a rider. One morning not so long ago, one of Junior's brothers hoisted him into the saddle to give him a short spin to quiet his infant cries—and Junior has never been quite the same since.

No Stopping Junior, Now.

Junior never sees a horse now without demanding a ride. By this time next season he will be exactly the present age of his brother Jerry, who is now panicking the crowds every night with his stunts. So it's your guess where Junior will be next December.

The act first came to the International Horse Show after one of the officials had seen Ole Graham perform with his 6 year old daughter Lorraine in some riding stunts at a western rodeo. These two were a success from their first appearance in the International 13 years ago.

Since then the troupe has been augmented by Ralph, Joan, Edward, Pancho, Buddy, Gene, Kenny, and Jerry in that order. Meanwhile the senior Graham has dropped out of the act and has been letting the youngsters carry on for themselves.

Father Praises the Kids.

The Grahams live on a ranch near Salina, Kas. Mr. Graham's ancestors settled there in 1854. His grandfather was one of the first circuit riders west of the Mississippi. The children come by their talents quite naturally because their father did all the rodeo acts some years ago, including roping, steer bull-dogging and riding bucking horses. He's very modest about the good old days, however. He says that the kids do stunts now that the old timers wouldn't have attempted.

Among the horses in the Graham string is a pony named Bullet which Graham believes is at least 30 years old. One of the Indians on the Shoshone reservation gave this mount to Lorraine quite a while ago. This shaggy little fellow is the one which the two and a half year old Jerry rides every night at the show. All of the Graham boys and girls have handled him in their time. He always goes to the youngest.

Train Their Own Horses.

Most of the ponies in the string have been captured and broken by the youngsters. Mr. Graham says that from time to time one of the boys or girls will single out one of the family's horses which has been allowed to run wild thru the hills. The youngster may spend an entire day trying to corner him and rope him, but once he has him he never lets him get away until he's broken and trained him. In that way the rider gets to know just about everything there is to know about the horse that's under him when he is going thru those stunts.

Lorraine plans to begin the study of law next year. The other members of the family are still going thru the process of education in the schools near home.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Boom's Pal, $14.40 straight, $9.20 place, $6.60 show; Linnie Kate, $9.20 place, $6.60 show; Ruffle Up, $15.60 show.

BOOM'S PAL, his racing improved, bettered his position rapidly up the backstretch, took command from BILLABONG with a rush in the stretch, and outstayed LINNIE KATE. The latter, closer up than usual in the early running, finished well. RUFFLE UP held on well all the way. BILLABONG moved into a commanding lead entering the stretch but tired badly. PEACHYPIE never entered contention. FANCY THAT was far back in the early running, finishing with a late rush. GEN. BOY and GALLANT PAT tired. INCREDIBLE was done early.

CUBS AND TIGERS TRADE: BARTELL FOR BILL ROGELL

Rowland insisted he entered MacPhail's elaborate quarters exclusively for the purpose of talking trade. But what the Cubs want from Brooklyn and what they are willing to give isn't known, despite various rumors. It is supposed to be a three cornered affair, with the St. Louis Cardinals in one of the corners.

One phase of the Rowland-MacPhail duel is said to concern Luke Hamlin, a pretty good pitcher, altho 33 years old. Another takes in Hank Leiber, but MacPhail got no for an answer. The Cubs wouldn't mind taking Hamlin, but they won't give up Leiber, at least not until they can uncover a hitting outfielder. The Cubs asked MacPhail if he might be interested either in Augie Galan or Bill Nicholson. He said he might if the price was fair.

Hartnett Wants Phelps.

But if the negotiations continue and finally get somewhere, the Cubs probably will have a catcher now belonging to Brooklyn, possibly Babe Phelps. A catcher seems to be Manager Hartnett's chief desire, next to a shortstop.

The big league owners, most of whom have been warming up harmlessly since Monday, will launch their annual formal session tomorrow. Both the American and National circuits have allotted two days to their winter program.

ILLINI DIRECTOR DENIES FRICTION IN ALUMNI TALK

"Absolute harmony exists within the University of Illinois athletic department, other reports to the contrary notwithstanding."

This was the statement made last night by Wendell S. Wilson, Illini director of athletics, at a meeting of alumni of the university's college of dentistry in the Lake Shore Athletic club.

Wilson added that he would repeat the statement and perhaps elaborate on the subject in the Knickerbocker hotel tonight at the annual banquet of the Chicago Illini club at which Coach Robert C. Zuppke and the Illinois football team will be the honored guests.

In regard to recent attempts of two former Illinois athletes to seek a new administration, Wilson repeated his announcement of Monday that his contract had been renewed for two years, but denied that it had been signed in secrecy last summer.

"I received my contract in the mail last July when the board of trustees sent contracts to all faculty members," Wilson said. "There was nothing secret about it. I considered it only a routine matter."

Famous OLD FORESTER

● It's a real achievement, that we can say: "This Christmas, Old Forester won't be hard to get!" There's a reason why this whisky, known to millions because of the perfection of its flavor, has been so rare. It goes back 70 years, when one of the greatest whisky-makers of all time set out to make the richest, smoothest, most perfectly-flavored bourbon that time and money and skill could make. He succeeded, but this whisky is not to be made in large volume. And, while it could never be "popular-priced" its fame spread so fast that millions wanted it. So—thousands bought, when they could get it, and made it their "holiday" and "special-occasion" whisky.

That is why millions know Old Forester's name—want to get some—but have not been able to do it. And that is also why we say it is big news, and a big achievement, that we have built up a stock of Old Forester which we can release so that more people can enjoy America's traditional holiday whisky.

NEW DEADLOCK BLOCKS PATH TO TRACTION UNITY

Court Expected to Take Personal Charge.

Another deadlock in negotiations for a unified transit ordinance for Chicago was reached yesterday. William H. Sexton, special counsel for the city, reasserted Mayor Kelly's stand that an agreement on certain fundamental points is necessary before the city will grant a franchise. Attorneys for security holders of the transit lines have opposed inclusion of these details in the ordinance.

The attorneys presented their objections in hearings this week before Walter A. Shaw, special master and adviser to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson in the transit litigation. On Tuesday, Sexton said he would not reply to the objections at this time. Yesterday Shaw again asked him if he wished to make a statement.

Kelly Has Nothing to Add.

"I have conferred with the mayor," Sexton said, "and he has nothing to add now. We request that the report of these hearings be transmitted to Judge Wilkerson."

Shaw is expected to present his report to the court on Monday. The judge, who has had jurisdiction over the surface and elevated lines for more than 13 years thru receivership and bankruptcy proceedings, will probably again take personal charge of the situation.

It was believed the court might issue a memorandum opinion, giving his idea as to what would be fair and equitable to all parties in a unification of the transit system, and then request the various interests to proceed with negotiations on the basis of the court's views. A similar and successful procedure was used in 1935 by Judge Wilkerson in the reorganization of the Middle West Utilities corporation, one of the Insull holding companies, in 1935.

Lines Agree to Plan.

Both the street car and elevated lines' security holders have already agreed to abide by such a court opinion and the city, altho not having bound itself to such a course, is expected to acquiesce. Other alternatives which the judge might consider would be: 1, to order the separate reorganization of the elevated lines under the bankruptcy law and the final approval for sale of the surface lines, or 2, to place the surface lines under section 77 B of the federal bankruptcy law and have them reorganize as a separate unit.

The chief point which Mayor Kelly wants included in the ordinance is an agreement by the new transit company to continue the 7 cent street car fare for at least three years. He also desires the ordinance to contain provisions for cash compensation to the city for use of the streets; for creation of a pension plan for the company's employés, and for use of $20,000,000 of cash now held by the surface lines in an improvement program. The security holders want an 8 cent street car fare and contend none of these matters properly comes within the scope of an ordinance.

Alfalfa Silage.

December 6, 1939.

ALFALFA silage, made from green hay and preserved with corn sirup, has proved so popular as a feed for dairy cows and beef steers at the Du Page county farm that plans are being made to use it again next year and to try other kinds of legume and grass silage in comparative tests. This is the first year that any kind of hay silage has been fed at the farm.

A silo that holds 75 tons of corn silage was filled with alfalfa last summer when rainy weather made it difficult to cure the hay for storage in the barns. About half the silage is left. It is being fed to the dairy herd, each cow getting 25 pounds a day.

Refuse It at First.

The cows refused to eat the alfalfa silage when it first was offered to them late last summer. The men think now that one reason the cows did not like the silage at first was because part of it was spoiled near the top of the silo. This probably tainted the silage next to it. Once the cows learned to like it they were as eager for the alfalfa silage as they ever had been for corn silage. They have eaten it well ever since.

There never was any trouble getting the beef steers to eat the silage. They liked it from the start, altho they were range steers and had never eaten any kind of silage before. The steers were fed 10 pounds each per day of the alfalfa silage all thru the drouth in September and October. They were started on corn silage about a month ago.

The high protein content of the alfalfa silage has made it possible to cut down on the amount of protein supplement in the ration for the dairy cows. Alfalfa silage contains about twice as much protein per pound as corn silage, altho corn silage is higher in total nutritive value. Corn silage contains much more starch and fats than alfalfa silage, and corn usually makes more silage material per acre than alfalfa silage material.

Approaches Green Feed.

Farmers who have tried legume silage as a winter roughage for dairy cattle say it is a good feed for this purpose because of its high protein content and the fact that it is a fairly close approach to green feed, such as the cows would get on pasture during the spring and summer.

Most of the carotin content of green alfalfa is preserved when it is made into silage, but much of it is lost when the hay is cured in the field. Carotin is a substance which adds to the yellow color of cream and is closely associated with vitamin A. It is especially important in dairy rations.

Some dairymen say they get better results from alfalfa silage by feeding a fair amount of good hay with it. Others report good production from cows fed no other roughage than alfalfa silage.

PENROSE, GOLD MINE MAGNATE, IS DEAD AT 74

Famed as Builder of Colorado Resort.

Colorado Springs, Dec. 7, Thursday—(AP)—Spencer Penrose, 74 years old, Colorado Springs mining capitalist and builder of Broadmoor hotel, died at 12:50 a. m. today. He had been suffering from a throat ailment.

MAKES FORTUNE IN MINING.

Mining deals in the early days of the Cripple Creek boom gave him his financial start; successful operation of copper companies ballooned his wealth. With cost no handicap, he built an elaborate playground at Broadmoor, six miles from Colorado Springs and for more than a generation let neither advancing age nor the responsibilities of his varied financial interests interfere with gaiety.

With a degree in mining engineering from Harvard, Spencer Penrose arrived in Colorado Springs in 1891. That winter gold was discovered on Cripple Creek. Penrose and C. L. Tutt, another Philadelphian, went there, opening a livery stable and real estate office. Their first gold claim netted them $300,000. Devising a system of treating low grade copper ores brought them and their associates additional wealth. Organization of three other companies, one of which was Alaska Gold, helped swell the Penrose fortune.

Tall, handsomely moustached, and wealthy, Penrose married Mrs. Julie Villiers [Lewis] McMillan in Paris in 1906. She was the widow of J. M. McMillan, the son of a Michigan senator, who died in 1903. Her daughter, Gladys McMillan, in 1914 married Count Paul Cornet de Ways Ruart of Belgium.

Penrose was potent in the Republican party after his brother became senator and was one of the men who picked Warren G. Harding as the nominee for the presidency at the "smoke-filled hotel room" conference in Chicago in 1920.

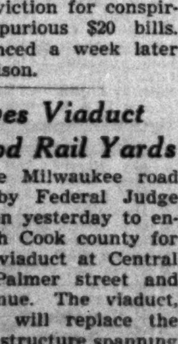
MISSING WITNESS IN PARKER CASE GETS PROBATION

Arnold Becker, missing witness in the Frankie Parker counterfeiting case, was placed on probation yesterday for two years by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Becker had pleaded guilty to fleeing from the court's jurisdiction. He had been in jail for nearly eight months awaiting sentence.



Arnold Becker.

Judge Wilkerson ordered Becker to report once a week at the United States courthouse, after A. Bradley Eben, assistant United States attorney, said the government was still seeking another missing witness, named as Frank Murphy. A third, Patrick Dwyer, was seized Nov. 12.

Murphy and Dwyer are accused of having arranged to spirit Becker out of town at the trial last spring of Parker, known as the prohibition era airplane bootlegger. Becker was traced to Denver, Colo., where he was arrested on April 14, a few hours after Parker's conviction for conspiracy to possess spurious $20 bills. Parker was sentenced a week later to two years in prison.

The railroad will contribute $97,000 and the county $838,000 in motor fuel tax funds. Final approval of the project by the county board is still necessary.

COUGHS

are quickly relieved by the PERTUSSIN "Moist-Throat" Method

When you catch cold and your throat feels dry or clogged, the secretions from countless tiny glands in your throat and windpipe often turn into sticky, irritating phlegm. Then you cough.

Pertussin stimulates these glands to pour out their natural moisture so that the phlegm is loosened and easily raised. Quickly your throat is soothed, your cough relieved!

Your cough may be a warning signal! Why neglect it? Use Pertussin. Prescribed by many physicians for over 30 years. It's safe and acts quickly. At all drug counters. For generous FREE trial bottle, write Pertussin, Dept. I-440 Washington St., New York City.

BRENDA TO FACE CHOICE BETWEEN 8 OR 12 MILLIONS

White Plains, N. Y., Dec. 6 (AP).—Fate has dished out a double portion of security—a possible choice between $8,000,000 or $12,000,000—for Brenda Frazier, 1938's glamor girl debutante, a trustee's action in Supreme court disclosed today.

Her stepfather, the late Frederic N. Watriss, oil magnate, set up a $12,000,000 trust fund, to revert to the 18 year old heiress on the death of her mother, Mrs. Watriss, the action revealed. Watriss provided, however, that she gets the estate only if she does not accept an $8,000,000 inheritance from her father—and if Mrs. Watriss does not direct otherwise in her will.

Brenda's father, Frank Duff Frazier, who died in 1934, provided the girl was to get an $8,000,000 inheritance—if she didn't live with her mother. This clause was thrown out in court when Mrs. Watriss had herself appointed her daughter's guardian.

Today's action asked a determination of the shares of Watriss' five children and three grandchildren in his estate.

CANADA MAY BUY AMERICAN PORK TO SELL BRITAIN

Hogs Cheaper in Chicago Than in Dominion.

Farmers and packers in the United States may soon find a broader outlet for pork to England through Canada as a result of recent arrangements made by the latter country to deliver almost 5,000,000 pounds weekly of hams and bacon to England. This prediction was made yesterday by live stock men at the Chicago stockyards. It was estimated that such shipments would take about 40 per cent of Canada's pork production.

Hog prices in various sections across the border range from $8 to $9 a hundred pounds, whereas live costs in the United States run from $4.75 to $6.25, with the duty on shipments over the border $1.25 a hundred pounds.

Therefore, Canadian packers could profitably place orders in this country's pork and hog markets, it is believed. Strict quarantine laws have been holding down export of live hogs from the United States rather than the tariff rate or the lack of a profitable margin, packers explained yesterday. Easing of the quarantine laws would stimulate the movement into Canada, it was said.

A broad demand came into the Chicago market for hogs yesterday and prices ruled strong to 10 cents higher despite heavier shipments from farms. Arrivals at Chicago totaled 26,000, compared with 21,050 on Wednesday, last week, while the 11 market total at 92,000 was 24,000 above a week earlier.

Top Price for Hogs Is $5.65.

Numerous consignments of hogs weighing 160 to 225 pounds reached the $5.65 top. The day's average moved up 5 cents to $5.45. Most 240 to 300 pound butchers sold from $5.30 to $5.55. Sows weighed mostly 450 to 500 pounds and sold at $4.75 to $4.90.

Strength prevailed in the trade for most beef steers and yearlings. The best load averaged 1,043 pounds and brought $11.40. Steady prices were paid for hefers, canners, cutters, and replacement stock. Bulls and calves were strong.

Slaughter lambs met fair demand, but prices declined mostly 15 cents for the day. Fed westerns topped at $9.20, with best natives available at $9. Top yearling wethers brought $7.75 and old ewes $4.50.

NOT ALL FROM 1939.

As a common stock holder in the United States Rubber company, I am curious to know if it is true that the company will pay a total of $12 a share this year on the 8 per cent first preferred which is supposed to receive only $8 a year?—A. J.

Answer: It is true that the United States Rubber company will have paid this year $12 a share on its 8 per cent noncumulative first preferred stock of $100 par value. On March 24 and June 23 the company distributed $2 a share on the first preferred stock, each time out of 1938 earnings. From 1939 earnings, $2 a share was paid on Sept. 22 and $6 a share will be paid Dec. 22 to holders of record Dec. 8.

Thus, the total of $12 a share which will have been paid on the stock this year does not all represent 1939 earnings. Only the $8 to which the stock is entitled out of each year's earnings will have been obtained from 1939 profits. The $4 a share paid out this year of 1938 earnings added to the $4 disbursed in 1938 constitute the full $8 dividend on the stock for last year.

The company has interpreted the provisions of the preferred stock to require the full payment of $8 a share when earned in any fiscal year. In 1938 the company earned $5,886,000 on the new consolidated basis, equal to more than $9 a preferred share. On a partly consolidated basis, employed in previous years, earnings were $3,786,000 or $5.83 a share.

Thus on the new consolidated basis used in the annual report for 1938, issued March 1, 1939, the company would be able to declare two further dividends of $2 each from 1938. On the old basis they would have declared only $1.83 from 1938 earnings in addition to the $4 paid earlier.

STOP-LOSS.

What is a stop-loss order?—D. K.

Answer: Stop-loss orders are used to limit losses and protect profits. When a stop-loss order is in effect, the order cannot be executed until the market reaches the price fixed by the customer. Thus a stop-loss order to buy stock to protect a previous short sale is released when the market rises to a designated price. A stop-loss order to sell is released when the market drops to a certain price.

SHORT INTEREST.

What was the short interest on the New York Stock exchange as of Oct. 31?—R. B.

Answer: The exchange reported that the short interest on Oct. 31 this year was 523,226 shares compared with 570,516 shares on Sept. 29. These figures do not include short interest in odd lot accounts.

URGE INDUSTRY PROVE FAITH IN NATION'S IDEALS

Business Speakers Rap Paternalism.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 6.—Industrial leaders from thruout the nation met here today for a rededication to the fundamental principles upon which American democracy was founded and to prove their faith in private enterprise as the only workable system.

Mindful of the wars in Europe and the threat of foreign "isms," they listened to the appeals of leading men from the business, political, religious, and journalistic fields to guard against government paternalism as they convened in the Congress of American Industry at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Many Executives Attend.

Nearly 2,000 executives from the nation's representative industries attended the congress, which is sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers. The three day convention of the association will carry a single theme—"Forward with the Republic"—a departure from the usual convention procedure.

Howard Coonley, president of the association and chairman of the Walworth company, sounded the keynote in asking a rededication to fundamental principles. The refrain was picked up by subsequent speakers.

Coonley hailed the congress as the first meeting for long range analysis of American institutions since the historic constitutional convention of 1787, when these principles were established by the delegates, including 55 business and industrial leaders. These included Benjamin Franklin, Alexander Hamilton, and Robert Morris.

Principles Set Forth.

The principles were listed by Coonley as follows: The greatest measure of individual liberty compatible with public interest; functioning of government as a servant of the people; government thru legislation rather than executive decree; lifting of intolerable taxes and elimination of wastes; raising of living standards thru private enterprise and incentive; keeping intact the "national trinity" of representative political democracy, religious and social liberties, and free enterprise.

Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.] jocularly greeted the delegates by saying he was glad to meet with the organization which has been the "darling" of the present administration for the last eight years. He then urged restraint of government authority so that "civilization and prosperity may progress."

Flails Planned Economy.

"Human liberty flourishes as the activities of government are curtailed, and constitutional democracy dies in every nation where planned economy takes root and grows," said Tydings. "So far as I have been able to learn there is no exception to this rule.

"Recently there has been a desire in many quarters to weaken the constitutional democracy of this country. This is accomplished by first widely sowing the propaganda that many of the undertakings of our people have been failures. It is then asserted that if government is given the power to deal with these matters those failures will henceforth be eliminated, for the government will plan against their recurrence. Thus the United States is to be made a nation of nothing but successes—all provided for by the government."

Criticizes Federal Policies.

J. Howard Pew of Philadelphia, president of the Sun Oil company, criticized economic planners "who would set up a governmental robot to do our thinking for us." He warned that governmental paternalism would close the door to "unlimited and unchartered seas of new opportunity."

He cited historic instances in which public officials have frowned upon new ideas and inventions and said that sufficient economic control might have stifled such developments as the steamboat, telephone, train and airplane, to mention a few.

"It is our freedom," he said, "that has brought us to this high estate—intellectual freedom, religious freedom, political freedom, industrial freedom, freedom to dream, to think, to imagine, to experiment, to invent,

ASK REHEARING IN GOVERNMENT'S OIL TRUST CASE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6 (AP).—The government asked the Supreme court today to rehear the Madison, Wis., oil antitrust case after a new justice is appointed to the seat of the late Pierce Butler.

On Nov. 22 the tribunal upheld by an equally divided court the action of Federal District Judge Patrick Stone in dismissing indictments against 11 defendants six months after they had been convicted by a jury.

Justice Butler died before the high court's decision and had not participated in the case. It was his absence which made possible the equally divided court. In the case of a tie vote the lower court's action stands.

The government had challenged the right of the district judge to dismiss the defendants after the jury had found them guilty.

Some Reach Highest Prices of Season.

Grain prices were on the upgrade early yesterday for the eighth consecutive day. All deliveries of wheat, December oats, and December and July rye sold at new high prices for the season. December wheat sold at 97⅝ cents at one time, the highest price quoted for any contract on the Chicago Board of Trade in about two years.

Heavy profit taking developed on the upturn, but the best prices were well maintained. Closing sales on wheat showed gains of ⅞ to 1⅝ cents. Corn finished ½ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower, the former on the December delivery.

Wheat Rises on Short Covering.

Short covering was largely responsible for the bulge in wheat during the early part of the session, brokers said. The upturn was helped along by continued dry weather in the southwest and reports that 1,000,000 bushels or more Canadian cash wheat had been sold for export to the continent.

Ocean freight rates for shipment of grain from North America to Europe continue to advance. It was reported that exporters paid 45 cents per 100 pounds for wheat and 50 cents for barley for December shipment from New York to Antwerp.

Crop Deteriorating Further.

Condition of the winter wheat crop is deteriorating in the dry sections of the west and southwest, according to a weather bureau summary. Sections which received rain recently, however, show improvement. Wheat has not germinated in the more western sections of Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma, it was stated.

Buying of December corn against sales of the May contract, credited to cash interests, put the former within ⅞ cent of the May delivery, the smallest discount in a number of weeks. December corn sold 2⅛ cents under the May delivery a week ago.

Reciprocal Trade Program Attacked on Many Fronts

Vegetable Growers Label It "Pickle Politics."

Foreign trade agreements yesterday were labeled "the work of alleged academic minded economic experts who do not know pickles from politics." John H. Connaughton, attorney for the National Association of Hothouse Vegetable Growers, made the charge in addressing the convention of the Vegetable Growers Association of America at the Hotel Sherman.

Connaughton attacked the stand taken by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who defended the reciprocal trade program in a speech here Tuesday night.

Sell Below Own Costs.

"Cheap labor makes it possible for the foreign farmer to secure a profit and sell his product for less than it costs the American farmer to produce his crop," Connaughton said.

"The American grower can supply all but a small portion of the domestic demand for vegetables. But under the trade treaties the Cuban grower comes into our market with an advantage of 3 to 5 cents a pound on such produce as tomatoes and cucumbers.

"Because of difference in cost of production, our grower cannot compete. His only protection is the tariff. We must not let foreigners put more Americans on relief rolls."

Would Limit Treaty Program.

Only foodstuffs that cannot be produced in the United States because of climatic conditions should be dealt with in trade treaties, Connaughton asserted. "And those agreements should be negotiated between nations on the same basis as between individuals, he declared. "No farmer would raise wheat and trade for other wheat."

Reciprocal trade treaties have been negotiated with 22 countries. In his address here Tuesday, Secretary Hull said that without such treaties the chances of economic readjustment for the farmers would be destroyed.

Rail Employment Lower, Still Exceeds Year Ago

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6 (AP).—The interstate commerce commission reported today that class one railroads had 1,038,404 employés in mid-November, a decrease of 1.59 per cent from October, but an increase of 8.09 per cent over November, 1938.

Lace Group Applauds Drive for High Court Test.

Providence, R. I., Dec. 6 [Special].—Gov. William H. Vanderbilt, members of congress, and leaders in the textile and lace industries tonight attacked the Roosevelt administration's reciprocal trade agreement program and urged its immediate abrogation.

Gov. Vanderbilt.

The occasion was a dinner given Gov. Vanderbilt by the American Lace Manufacturers' association in appreciation of his efforts to test the constitutionality of the treaty program. The governor plans to take the issue direct to the United States Supreme court.

The lace industry has been a chief victim of the trade pacts, according to the speakers, who included Congressmen Charles F. Risk and Harry Sandager of Rhode Island, and former United States Senator Jesse H. Metcalf.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. telegraphed: "It is a tragic contradiction to increase production costs with one hand and with the other to expose American workers to substandard foreign competition."

Knutson Lashes Program.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6 (AP).—Representative Knutson [R., Minn.] said tonight that the administration's trade treaties constitued "not truly a reciprocity program but a backhanded and unconstitutional method of bringing about a general downward revision of the tariff."

Knutson said that "what the farmers are complaining about is not the increased imports of such noncompetitive products as rubber and raw silk, but the increased imports of articles which we already produce for ourselves in abundance."

Borah Would Make It Issue.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6 (AP).—Senator Borah [R., Idaho], an opponent of the administration's trade agreement program, urged today that it be made a clean-cut issue in the coming presidential and congressional elections.

Senator Borah made the assertion before the monopoly committee.

LABOR DEMANDS CONGRESS KILL TRADE TREATIES

Charge They Curtail American Jobs.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6 [Special].—Congress was called upon today to repudiate all reciprocal trade treaties in a resolution adopted by America's wage earners' protective conference, the tariff group of the American Federation of Labor.

The resolution contended all such treaties are null and void because they were entered into without ratification by the senate and because federal courts are debarred from considering the legality of the treaties by the wording of the reciprocal trade treaty act.

Claims They Are Nullified.

Further, the resolution asserted, because of violations of the terms and provisions of the treaties by most of the foreign governments with which pacts have been concluded, with the knowledge of the state department, the treaties have been or should be nullified.

The labor group advanced the argument that job opportunities of many thousands of America's workers have been transferred to workers in foreign countries as a result of the reduction of tariff rates made under the agreements.

The resolution asked congress to enact an excise tax on foreign products which would permit delivery of the products of American workers into American markets at a cost comparable to that of foreign products, granted preference under trade treaties.

Lose Chance for Work.

The arguments advanced in the resolution are as follows:

1. The device of adjusting tariffs by reciprocal trade treaties has resulted in no beneficial good to America's wage earners or America's consumers, in that it has increased employment opportunities to workers in foreign lands and has deprived

Chicago—The Wonder City

"The victory of the South Park Commission's bond proposals is the biggest, finest and most far-reaching undertaking for the public good, Chicago has launched in its entire history."
Chas. H. Wacker, Chairman of the Chicago Plan Commission
February 25, 1920

EVERY Chicagoan has heard of the Chicago Plan, but few realize what it means. Its magnificence, completeness and beauty are almost beyond comprehension. When it is finished, Chicago, now so frequently maligned as a smoky, ill-kept and over-grown metropolis, will be one of the most beautiful cities in the world.

The Chicago Plan almost staggers the imagination, but the essential preliminaries have already been accomplished—the work is under way and who doubts that the vision, faith and intelligence of the people of Chicago will "finish the job."

Chicago, the Wonder City—The commercial progress of Chicago is one of the marvels of the century. In common with other financial institutions, the growth of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank is largely dependent on the growth of Chicago. And the growth of Chicago rests on the faith and vision of its citizens. In a series of advertisements, of which this is the First, we are trying to set forth a few of the achievements of this great city. Chicago will continue to contribute to the benefit of its citizens in proportion to their faith in its future.

Gains in the active issues ranged to about 3 points, while several volatile and preferred shares soared as much as 5 points. Volume was the best in weeks, a total of 990,620 shares changing hands.

Absence of selling pressure, both for foreign account and of the year-end "tax selling" variety, some short covering, and buying prompted by continuing favorable dividend news were all rated factors in the upswing. War news was said to have had little influence.

Steels stood out, with United States Steel and Bethlehem adding 2⅞ points apiece. Other standard steel stocks showed gains running to 2 points. Motors also were active, with Chrysler spurting 2⅞ and General Motors more than a point.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 6 (AP).—French and Norwegian dollar loans declined sharply in the bond market today on reported Russian hints for a Rumanian "mutual assistance pact."

French 5s of '49, stamped, dropped 5½ points and the 7½s, stamped, lost 4 points. Norwegian 4½s of '65 closed off 5; the 4½s of '56, off 4, and the 6s of '44, off 1⅞s. Finnish issues, on the other hand, regained some of recent losses. The 6s of '45 ended up 1⅜, while Helsingfors 6½s of '60 were up 1¾.

Also higher were Copenhagen 4½s of '53, Italian 7s of '51, Milan 6½s, Rome 6½s of '52, and Japanese 6½s.

Rail and selected utility and industrial loans paced gains ranging from fractions to a point or more in the domestic corporate division. United States governments closed 13-32 of a point higher to 4-32 lower.

Chicago Stocks.

Most issues turned higher yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Trading continued moderately active. United States Steel, General Motors, and Central Illinois Public Service made gains ranging from 1 to 1⅝ points. The latter reached a new high for the year at 80½.

Marshall Field, Middle West, and Wahl advanced fractionally. Chicago corporation, volume leader, Commonwealth Edison, Central and South West, and Aviation and Transportation closed unchanged.

A total of 119 issues was dealt in. Of these, 68 advanced, 19 declined, and 32 closed unchanged.

Commodities

Commodity futures moved higher at New York yesterday under the leadership of wool tops, hides, and cocoa. Wool advanced ½ to nearly 3 cents a pound on what traders termed a flurry of short covering and commission house buying.

London reports said that the British wool control board had fixed export prices for wool tops, and was prepared to sell available wool to holders of provisional export licenses. It was not learned what the export price schedule was.

Considerable interest was evident in the American trade, however. A large share of the United States wool supply is normally imported from Australia and other British dominions and colonies whose surpluses Britain has allocated for war needs.

Hides advanced 0.17 to 0.26 cent a pound, and cocoa closed about ¼ cent a pound higher. Santos coffee, cottonseed oil, and copper futures were also higher.

Sugar and silk were the sole losers, the former slipping as much as 0.01½ cent a pound. Some silk contracts dropped 2½ cents, but the close was irregular, with other deliveries up as much as 2 cents a pound.

The California and Hawaiian Sugar company announced reductions of 5 to 10 cents a 100 pounds in wholesale prices of refined cane sugar in central western territory.

BIG FERTILIZER CONCERN PLANS TO RECAPITALIZE

Inter'l Agricultural Corp. Notifies Holders.

A plan for the recapitalization of the International Agricultural corporation, $27,000,000 fertilizer company with headquarters in New York, was announced yesterday by Louis Ware in a letter sent to stockholders. Ware recently resigned as president of the United Electric Coal companies, Chicago, to become the head of the New York company.

Objectives of the plan, to be voted on at the company's annual meeting on Jan. 23, include the clearing up of $7,300,000 of preference stock dividend arrears and an improvement in the company's credit standing.

Stockholders will be asked to approve two new stock issues to be exchanged for present outstanding issues.

Debenture Issue Proposed.

It also is proposed to create an issue of 4 per cent debentures convertible into new common stock at not less than $25 a share and two issues of 3½ per cent and 4½ per cent serial notes. The debentures and serial notes will be sold to provide funds for the redemption of $4,500,000 of first mortgage bonds, due May 1, 1942, and to provide additional working capital.

The plan provides for issuance of 100,000 shares of new 5 per cent cumulative first preferred stock, $50 par, and 650,000 shares of new no par common stock. The 436,044 shares of present no par common stock will be changed into 62,292 shares of new common stock on a basis of one new share for each seven shares outstanding.

Holders of the present 7 per cent prior preference stock, on which the dividend accumulation on Dec. 1 was $79 a share, will be offered one share of new first preferred and one share of new common for each share of the old preferred.

Stock Reserved for Conversions.

The 4 per cent convertible debenture issue would total $3,000,000 and mature in 15 years. The notes, to mature serially in 10 years, would consist of $2,500,000 at 3½ per cent and $1,000,000 at 4 per cent.

The stockholders also are being asked to authorize a change in the name of the company to International Chemical and Minerals corporation and to permit certain senior officers of the company to subscribe to 20,000 shares of the new common stock.

COTTON

Cotton markets were unsettled yesterday as the result of the announcement that the export subsidy on American cotton would be lowered to ¾ cent a pound from 1½ cents previously. Liverpool prices advanced sharply in an effort to discount the reduction in the subsidy which actually means England will have to pay more money for supplies. Prices in American markets were lower early on the reduction in the subsidy, but rallied on trade buying. The upturn brought in hedging sales. Closing trades were 0.10 cent higher to 0.04 cent a pound lower.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to 0.04 cent lower, with New York 10.29 cents; New Orleans, 10.17 cents; Galveston, 9.77 cents, and Houston at 9.75 cents a pound. Prices follow:

URGE INDUSTRY PROVE FAITH IN NATION'S IDEALS

Business Spokesmen Flail Paternalistic Trend.

"With so many political witch doctors aboard in the land teaching communism, Fascism, planned and dictated economies, government paternalism and all the others, I urge you to guard well that heritage."

Accepting a "more abundant life" as the objective of America's manufacturers, W. T. Holliday, president of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, told the congress that it can be achieved only if human initiative is unencumbered by outside control.

For 1,500 years, ending in 1800, he asserted, the ability of the ordinary man to buy goods with his labor did not improve to any perceptible degree. But in 122 years under the American system, he continued, the purchasing power of wages had climbed 1,221 per cent.

Urges Interest in Politics.

Former Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania called the business men "political defaulters" because they think it a virtue to let politics alone.

"You will be criticized, misrepresented, investigated, over-regulated, and overtaxed," Pepper declared, "until you adopt the elemental rule of military strategy that an offensive defense is often the only way to make any defense at all."

He said that farmers, workers, and war veterans take an active hand in government and as a result no attacks are made upon them in Washington.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal bishop of Washington, D. C., described the "purveyor of strange nostrums, the charlatan, and the quack" as threats to American freedom of religion, press, speech, and assembly. Those who gave us the bill of rights, he said, reckoned the cost and were willing to pay the price. "They belonged to the 'horse and buggy' age," he said, calling upon those in authority "to hold to the chosen ways of the republic."

Johnson Raps Administration.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former administrator of the ill fated NRA, hit at the Roosevelt administration on its financial record. Johnson said that he had written some of Mr. Roosevelt's promises on budget balancing and lower taxes when the latter was campaigning.

"I believe now that the distinguished gentleman who uttered those words would rather have them unsaid more than anything he said; maybe he didn't know what they meant," Johnson said, at which his audience laughed. If the administration made any moves toward balancing the budget it could be done within a year thru increased tax revenues resulting from encouragement to business by such steps, he asserted.

He warned that administration measures prepared in case of war would take American industry into a state of communism by confiscation of properties as well as profits.

At a closed meeting tonight on transportation problems representatives of shippers and carriers exchanged opinions on obtaining adequate facilities and promoting their welfare.

LABOR DEMANDS CONGRESS KILL TRADE TREATIES

Charge Pacts Are Illegal, Limit American Jobs.

2. The principle and policies underlying the reciprocal trade treaties are inconsistent and in conflict with those of the wage and hour law, the Walsh-Healy act, and the Wagner labor relations act. Thru enactment of labor legislation the United States seeks to improve the standards of work and wages involving a larger labor cost, while, in the reciprocal trade treaty policy, we encourage the purchase and distribution in America of foreign made goods and manufactured products made under much inferior conditions of employment.

Lose Job Opportunities.

3. The entry into American markets of foreign made competitive goods at total delivered costs which are less than our costs of production means the transfer of job opportunities of America's workers to workers in foreign countries.

4. Published findings of the United States tariff commission evidence that many foreign made products demoralize American industries by reducing their markets and by lessening American workers' opportunities for jobs.

5. Research into constitutional provisions and requirements nowhere discloses that congress or any other department of government can deprive itself of the constitutional duty, requirement and obligation to first approve of any treaty entered into by our government with a foreign nation in order that such a treaty be binding upon our government or its people. Consequently, any trade treaty entered into without first having senatorial ratification is null and void and of no effect.

All Violated, Is Charge.

6. An inquiry into the provisions of reciprocal trade treaties discloses provisions in such treaties to the effect that if any of the contracting foreign countries place restrictions on the entry of American made goods into such countries, or, that a substantial reduction in the world value of its currency has taken place such trade treaties shall either be modified or nullified. The fact is that to the official knowledge of our state department both of these conditions have and are continually being violated in practically all of the countries with which trade treaties have been made.

Residents of Illinois have benefited by this new "SPECIAL" Loan Plan.

As little as $2.00 to $2.26 a week repays in full, including all charges, a $150 loan over 20 months at America's largest loan company. No salary assignments.

$2.00 a week on the average is all you need to set aside for every $150 borrowed on Personal's new, amazing "Special" loan plan of only 1½% per month on the actual balance owed. This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly without undue credit strain and a good credit record. You don't need co-makers, life insurance, or bankable securities.

For persons without established credit and employment ratings and who wish to carry a loan larger than 8 to 12% of annual salary or income, Personal offers its "Regular" loan plan. On this plan an average of $2.26 set aside per week takes care of everything on a $150 loan—the charge is based on 3% monthly on unpaid balances of $100 and less and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100.

Loans up to $300 on either plan on your personal note or with furniture or auto. Co-maker loans are also available on "Regular" plan. Seize this opportunity to save on loan costs. Come in or telephone today.

Commonwealth's charge is less on all loans than the maximum permitted by law. Our monthly rates of 2½% on loan balances of $150 or less and only 2% on loan balances above applies to ALL TYPES and CLASSES OF LOANS. Any one who can make regular payments can qualify; there is no discrimination. EVERYBODY GETS THIS SAME RATE. Of course persons whose incomes are above average can afford to make larger payments and thus make substantial reductions in their loan cost.
